Pentagon Acts To Set Up Pool Of Ready Reservists

DUMPS HEAVY SNOW

New Ice Storm Raging Toward Battered Coast

By United Press International

A fast-traveling winter storm dumped schools-closing snows and 4-foot drifts on central and southern Appalachian mountain areas Friday and churned northeastward up the storm-starred Atlantic Seaboard.

The storm poised threats of deep snows for an inland belt of the seaboard and more rough seas and high tides for the battered coastline.

It gathered steam as President Kennedy designated New Jersey, Delaware, Maryland and Virginia — all battered by this week's massive storm — as major disaster areas eligible for federal assistance.

The presidential order also included areas of West Virginia flooded recently by the runoff from torrential rains.

HITS WIDE AREA

The snow storm piled nine inches of snow on sections of North Georgia, and up to five inches on mountain regions of North Carolina, Virginia, West Virginia, Maryland and Pennsylvania.

It hurdled the Appalachians after dumping nine inch snows on Nebraska and Iowa and from two to six inches of slush from the Mississippi River to Ohio.

Work crews along a thousand-mile stretch of the Atlantic coast began cleaning up after the four-day storm. Damage estimates mounted as more accurate assessments were made.

New Jersey state officials doubled the damage estimate in their state from $50 million to $100 million. Coast Guard officials said the southern part of Long Beach Island, off the south Jersey coast, was "completely destroyed."

Gov. Terry Sanford reported that the nor'easter caused "staggering" property damage on the North Carolina coast. The loss was expected to exceed $25 million.

Ferries began moving emergency food, medical and fuel supplies for the hard-hit Outer Banks area. Crews moved in with bull-

GI Anti-Red Training Hit By Senator

Ired Thurmond Criticizes Army On Instructors

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Strom Thurmond D-S.C., demanded Friday an explanation of a troop educational program at Fort Belvoir, Va., where he said a private without special training was assigned to conduct an anti-Communist course for hundreds of men.

Thurmond said the soldier, assigned to the task by a major, had no security clearance and had no official training on communism or the threat it poses to the military forces.

NOT IDENTIFIED

He said the private, who was not identified, had compiled his lecture materials from magazines and newspapers. One of these, Thurmond protested, was "The Nation's magazine which the senator said "has constantly promoted pro-Communist propaganda in the United States."

The Fort Belvoir training course was brought up by Thurmond in questioning Maj. Gen. Charles G. Dodge at a hearing of the Senate subcommittee investigating alleged muzzling of military leaders.

Dodge, new army chief of information, said he would look into the Fort Belvoir situation. He said it may have already been corrected.

Thurmond cited Fort Belvoir as an illustration of his complaint that the Army's indoctrination program is suffering from a lack of qualified and experienced in-

Jail Term Given In Red Probe

WASHINGTON (AP) — Refusal to answer questions in a grand jury probe of U.S. Communist party activities brought James E. Jackson a six-month jail sentence Friday.

Jackson is editor of The Worker. Some of the questions he refused to answer were aimed at determining whether Jackson and The Worker are linked with the Communist party.

U.S. District Court Judge Alexander Holtzoff, who pronounced sentence after holding Jackson in contempt of court, allowed him to remain free until Monday afternoon to give his attorney time to appeal.

Jackson first refused to answer questions in the grand jury room on Feb. 15. Friday, at Justice Department request, Holtzoff signed an order giving Jackson immunity from self-incrimination and ordered him to answer. Again he refused.

Forty queries put to him in open court by Oran H. Waterman, Justice Department lawyer, included these:

Does The Worker require the members of its staff to be Communist party members?

Does The Worker, which has never been publicly identified as a Communist party organ, receive any funds from the party?

Does its editorial policy reflect the viewpoint of the Communist party?

Four Americans Killed In Crash

ALGIERS (UPI) — A converted B25 World War II bomber crashed at nearby Maison Blanche airport Friday night killing all four Americans aboard.

The plane took off from Lisbon, Portugal, early Friday afternoon. Lisbon airport officials said all four persons aboard the aircraft were Americans and identified them as:

Edward Craig Miller, 40; John Arnold Carter, 33; William John Walsh, 29; and Lloyd Emil Beck, 41.

According to the Portuguese reports Miller and Walsh were believed to be from Studio City, Calif., and Beck and Carter from Seattle, Wash.

Navy Helps To Get Blonde Into Army

The pretty 18-year-old blonde was sworn into the Women's Army Corps Friday after a trip from storm-flooded Sea Isle City—on piggyback, by Navy helicopter, two buses and a private car.

"I knew I had to report to the Army today," Virginia said. "But I had no idea how I was going to get out of Sea Isle City.

"My father, determined that I would not be late and get a bad start in the service, thought of the helicopters which were airlifting other people from the town.

"My father carried me piggyback in waist-deep water to higher ground where the helicopters were picking up people and made sure I got aboard (the Navy helicopter)."

The helicopter took the girl to South Seaville where she got a bus to Bridgeton. There she called recruiting Sgt. John Malm.

He drove her to his home where Mrs. Malm prepared a meal for Virginia. From Bridgeton she took another bus to Newark.

"My last view of my home town was from the helicopter," Virginia said.

"I could see someone's house had floated up next to our house and there was a wall or some part of another house in our backyard.

"I also got my last look at my car, which was admost under water."

Ironically, the Army was trying to call Virginia and tell her not to rush.

MAJ. GEN. CARTER

Gen. Carter Named Chief Aide In CIA

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Kennedy Friday appointed Maj. Gen. Marshall Sylvester Carter, an Army man well versed in foreign affairs, as second-in-command of the Central Intelligence Agency.

He will replace, subject to Senate confirmation, Gen. Charles P. Cabell who is retiring from government service. His nomination will be sent to the Senate shortly, the White House said.

DEPUTY DIRECTOR

In his new job, the 52-year-old Carter will be principal executive officer of the intelligence agency and will take over as director when John A. McCone, the civilian chief, is absent.

Traditionally, the head of this secret body has been a civilian, the deputy director a military officer.

Carter has been serving as commanding general of the Army's air defense center at Ft. Bliss, Texas, and commandant of the air defense school there.

Now, in addition to helping run the CIA, the general will have an important position on the new U. S. intelligence board Kennedy created by executive order Jan. 16. The board will oversee all American intelligence work.

The White House described Carter as "an outstanding officer having served in high government posts which gave him intimate knowledge of the functions of intelligence in the U. S. government."

Carter is a native of Fortress Monroe, Va. He graduated from West Point in 1931, and did graduate work at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

16 Moslems Die In Clash With French

Terrorist Bombs Fatal To Soldier; Hotel Destroyed

ALGIERS, Algeria (AP) — Algeria's macabre war within a war claimed the lives of 16 Moslems, including four women, under fire of French security forces in Oran Friday. Three died in a skirmish with police, and 13 in a barricaded warehouse.

Terrorist bombs killed a soldier at a French barracks in Algiers and destroyed a hotel that was used until recently by special government antiterrorist agents.

TALKS CONTINUE

Violence deepened the gulf between the army and European settlers who dread a prospective peace agreement that would mean independence for Algeria.

Peace talks continued between French and Algerian rebel negotiators at Evian, France, however, and there was an ebb in the Tunisian frontier battle that has accompanied the talks.

The Oran action developed in a Moslem suburb. Security forces were shaking down the neighborhood in a house-to-house search for weapons after a series of attacks on Europeans.

Police said the first shots were fired by Moslem terrorists. The shots were reported aimed at officers investigating a fire in a Moslem store. The police fired back, killing three Moslems, and

Care Bill Protested By Doctors

Fifth District doctors have lashed out against socialized medicine in opposing the King - Anderson bill that would provide medical care for the aged under Social Security.

A resolution opposed the legislation was adopted in Monroe Thursday night by the Ouachita Parish Medical Society and the Fifth District Medical Society.

Dr. John Burton, president of the Ouachita society, made the announcement yesterday.

While Dr. Burton listed the resolution's five chief reasons for opposing the bill, which is pending in Congress, the resolution specifically stated that the society members will "continue their vigorous oppostion to King - Anderson type legislation for medical care."

In addition, the resolution pointed out that the doctors "will not participate in or implement any system or plan to socialize medical care directly or indirectly."

While declaring that the society does not "endorse any socialization of any kind in any form," the resolution pointed out that under the King - Anderson plan:

1. The patient does not have freedom of choice of physician. 2. The physician does not have full control of the entire medical care of the patient. 3. The patients does not have full administration and control of the funds available for the payment of such medical services.

BOARD LIMITS APPROVAL

Bitter Words Fly On PAR Survey

BATON ROUGE (AP) — Bitter words spilled Friday as the Louisiana Board of Education rejected a private research group's proposal to survey "high school excellence" — then turned around and favored it in principle.

Vertrees Young of Bogalusa, president of the Public Affairs Research Council, said afterward PAR wanted to discuss the proposal further in view of the education board's action. The way apparently was left open for the two groups to get together.

The education board cited one main objection to the PAR proposal, a statement by PAR executive Joe D Smith of Alexandria, that "we must use our own best judgment in structuring the program of selection of personnel . . . it is a principle to which we must hold in all our studies."

ADOPT RESOLUTION

The board approved a resolution by member Joe Davies of Arabi that it would endorse the $250,000 study by PAR if the group would give up some control, operate under board ground rules, and give the board a say in selection of personnel and release of information.

In a statement, Young said, "We want to study the ground rules the board has in mind. There might be some basis for working along the lines the board has suggested, but this will have to be referred to the PAR executive committee."

Hot words grew out of criticism by member Nash Roberts of New Orleans of the way opponents of the survey conducted their fight against it.

Roberts said the opponents were made up of a small minority, but were well-organized and vocal. "They work on the same basis

After all the fact - finding commissions and fact - finding tours, the truth seems as clouded as ever. Apparently the trick is not so much finding facts but in not losing them again.

Spring has its small sadnesses. As the baseball training camps open, for example, bowling alleys across the nation must bid farewell to their friendly proprietors.

It's true that in the old days we didn't have tranquilizers; but then, the world wasn't full of so many things we needed to be tranquil about.

Children Get Scare As Train Cars Derailed

COLUMBUS, Ga. (AP) — Forty-seven children and 15 of their parents escaped serious injury Friday when a runaway freight car slammed into the rear of a passenger train near downtown Columbus.

Several of the passengers suffered slight cuts but all were dismissed after examination at a hospital.

The passenger train, the Central of Georgia's Man o'War, had stopped about a mile from the Columbus terminal to throw a switch. The runaway freight car traveled about six blocks and hit automobiles at three crossings, police said, before ramming into the passenger train.

The party of children, 38 second graders, nine preschool children, 14 mothers and one man, were on an annual outing from the Northcutt School at College Park, on Atlanta's outskirts.

HYPNOTIZES WIFE

Aristocrat Hoping To Regain Fortune

SOMERSET, England (UPI) — Sir John Stuart Knill, an aristocrat hit by hard times after World War I, said Friday he is trying to recoup his lost fortune by hypnotizing his wife so she can win the weekly soccer pool.

Each Sunday Sir John, 75, puts on his best tartan kilt, sets his wife in a chair facing a blank television set in their tiny living room and hypnotizes her. She stares at the blank screen and tries to "see" the winning combination.

So far the pursuit of riches in England's national pastime has failed to yield the results they hope for but this has not dampened their enthusiasm.

One of their problems, Sir John said, is that they can afford to wager only 32 cents a week. This means they have to name eight soccer teams that tie to strike it rich. If they do name eight they receive $840,000 under the pool betting system.

Both feel that their lack of success may be due to poor reception by Lady Knill.

'It seems to depend on the weather for accuracy," she said. "On a dull day I have a job to 'read' the results. Normally, when he hypnotizes me the TV set appears to be switched on. Sometimes it seems so bright that I have to ask him to tone it down."

Sir John, son of a former Lord Mayor of London and a descendant of Mary Queen of Scots once owned a castle and entertained royalty before he lost his fortune. Now he is the only baronet in England who lives in a public housing project.

Men So Tagged Subject To Call In Emergencies

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Pentagon acted Friday to set up a pool of Reservists tagged for quick emergency call to help reduce in the future hardships and difficulties.

Men so tagged would be used to fill understrength Reserve or National Guard units summoned to active service in any emergencies.

Just how many men would be placed in the pool is impossible to say now, a defense Department spokesman said, since each service is working out its own program.

GET COMPLAINTS

The project is an outgrowth of complaints registered when 155,000 Reservists and National Guardsmen were summoned to duty last fall. Some of them said they were called up unfairly because of family responsibilities, critical jobs, and other reasons they considered entitled them to deferment.

Most of the complaints came from among the 28,000 Army Ready Reservists who were summoned to fill below-strength units. The Army said part of this resulted because the Reservists did not keep the service informed of changes in their family and job status.

The pool will be set up along lines laid down by Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara in telling a congressional committee

First Lady, Party Leave On Rome Hop

TAKES TRUNKS

The big Pan American transatlantic jet was due in Rome at 11 10 a.m. Saturday after a 7½-hour flight. Loaded aboard it were two big trunks belonging to the President's lady and a couple of packages marked "P-T boats." These presumably were the lapel emblems President Kennedy used to give out.

Among the 111 passengers were Spyros Skouras, head of 20th Century-Fox, and Otto Koegel, 20th Century's chief counsel, flying to Rome amid reports of the break up of actress Elizabeth Taylor's marriage to singer Eddie Fisher.

Miss Taylor is starring in the studio's "Cleopatra," being produced in Rome. Published reports in California link her romantically to her costar in that motion picture, Richard Burton.

Fisher and Miss Taylor could not be reached for comment in Rome. But a family spokesman called the reports "completely ridiculous."

New York City police escorted the hatless First Lady to the airport. About 350 persons lining the terminal building applauded as she walked the short distance from her car to the plane.

Mrs. Kennedy smiled, but did not stop or pose for photographers.

The Kennedy official party traveled first class. They included Mrs. William Layton, a friend; Providencia Pardes, Mrs. Kennedy's personal maid; Jay Gildner, assistant press secretary; James Jeffries and John Powers, Secret Service agents; and Cecil Stoughten, Harry Markley and Joseph Giordano, whom the airline did not identify.

Only five other passengers traveled first class. They included Skouras and Koegel.

The First Lady paid her own way and that of her 29-year-old sister. Unlike the usual traveler flying to Europe, they had the opportunity to nap in berths en route.

Local Rule Advocated To LMA

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—Former Louisiana Gov. Sam Jones asked the Louisiana Municipal Association Friday to impress upon the legislature that there is an urgent and basic need to strengthen local government.

Jones, the featured speaker at Friday's session of the LMA convention, said that if the overpowering strength of the national government is to be controlled, and the weaknesses at the local level corrected, the states will have to do the job.

"It may come as a surprise to some of you that the expansion of government on the local and state levels has been on the upgrade since 1950," he told the luncheon session Friday.

"Between 1960 and 1961, state and local government expenditures in the U. S. increased 55 per cent or from $34 billion to $52 billion, while the federal increase was 37 per cent during the same period," Jones said.

He outlined three points that must be accomplished to strengthen local governments:

A constitutional or satutory provision that clothes municipalities with authority to do all things on the municipal level not specifically denied them by general law or by their charters.

Broad powers of taxation within reasonable limits and guide lines to finance the legitimate and historic functions of municipalities.

The free and unhampered right to contact not only with department of state government but with other local governments, such as police juries and special districts, to carry out on jointly specific functions that are mutually advantageous.

Secretary of State Wade O. M. Martin was another speaker Fri-

A resolution opposed the legislation was adopted in Monroe Thursday night by the Ouachita Parish Medical Society and the Fifth District Medical Society.

Dr. John Burton, president of the Ouachita society, made the announcement yesterday.

While Dr. Burton listed the resolution's five chief reasons for opposing the bill, which is pending in Congress, the resolution specifically stated that the society members will "continue their vigorous oppostion to King - Anderson type legislation for medical care."

In addition, the resolution pointed out that the doctors "will not participate in or implement any system or plan to socialize medical care directly or indirectly."

While declaring that the society does not "endorse any socialization of any kind in any form," the resolution pointed out that under the King - Anderson plan:

1. The patient does not have freedom of choice of physician. 2. The physician does not have full control of the entire medical care of the patient. 3. The patients does not have full administration and control of the funds available for the payment of such medical services.

Cloudy, Warm Expected Today

Temperatures reached 68 degrees Friday as the sun broke through partly cloudy skies and reminded Twin City residents of the nice warm days of a month ago.

Regardless of the high hopes for a clear warm day today, the weatherman has forecast considerable cloudiness with widely scattered showers through tonight. The high is expected to reach 66 degrees today and the low is forecast at 54 degrees tonight.

The high Friday was recorded at 68 degrees and the low was recorded at 52 degrees Friday night as temperatures fell slightly.

BOARD LIMITS APPROVAL

Bitter Words Fly On PAR Survey

BATON ROUGE (AP) — Bitter words spilled Friday as the Louisiana Board of Education rejected a private research group's proposal to survey "high school excellence" — then turned around and favored it in principle.

Vertrees Young of Bogalusa, president of the Public Affairs Research Council, said afterward PAR wanted to discuss the proposal further in view of the education board's action. The way apparently was left open for the two groups to get together.

The education board cited one main objection to the PAR proposal, a statement by PAR executive Joe D. Smith of Alexandria, that "we must use our own best judgment in structuring the program of selection of personnel . . . it is a principle to which we must hold in all our studies."

ADOPT RESOLUTION

The board approved a resolution by member Joe Davies of Arabi that it would endorse the $250,000 study by PAR if the group would give up some control, operate under board ground rules, and give the board a say in selection of personnel and release of information.

In a statement, Young said, "We want to study the ground rules the board has in mind. There might be some basis for working along the lines the board has suggested, but this will have to be referred to the PAR executive committee."

Hot words grew out of criticism by member Nash Roberts of New Orleans of the way opponents of the survey conducted their fight against it.

Roberts said the opponents were made up of a small minority, but were well-organized and vocal. "They work on the same basis

Children Get Scare As Train Cars Derailed

COLUMBUS, Ga. (AP) — Forty-seven children and 15 of their parents escaped serious injury Friday when a runaway freight car slammed into the rear of a passenger train near downtown Columbus.

Several of the passengers suffered slight cuts but all were dismissed after examination at a hospital.

The passenger train, the Central of Georgia's Man o'War, had stopped about a mile from the Columbus terminal to throw a switch. The runaway freight car traveled about six blocks and hit automobiles at three crossings, police said, before ramming into the passenger train.

The party of children, 38 second graders, nine preschool children, 14 mothers and one man, were on an annual outing from the Northcutt School at College Park, on Atlanta's outskirts.

Senator Soaper Says

After all the fact - finding commissions and fact - finding tours, the truth seems as clouded as ever. Apparently the trick is not so much finding facts but in not losing them again.

Spring has its small sadnesses. As the baseball training camps open, for example, bowling alleys across the nation must bid farewell to their friendly proprietors.

It's true that in the old days we didn't have tranquilizers; but then, the world wasn't full of so many things we needed to be tranquil about.

HYPNOTIZES WIFE

Aristocrat Hoping To Regain Fortune

SOMERSET, England (UPI) — Sir John Stuart Knill, an aristocrat hit by hard times after World War I, said Friday he is trying to recoup his lost fortune by hypnotizing his wife so she can win the weekly soccer pool.

Each Sunday Sir John, 75, puts on his best tartan kilt, sets his wife in a chair facing a blank television set in their tiny living room and hypnotizes her. She stares at the blank screen and tries to "see" the winning combination.

So far the pursuit of riches in England's national pastime has failed to yield the results they hope for but this has not dampened their enthusiasm.

One of their problems, Sir John said, is that they can afford to wager only 32 cents a week. This means they have to name eight soccer teams that tie to strike it rich. If they do name eight they receive $840,000 under the pool betting system.

Both feel that their lack of success may be due to poor reception by Lady Knill.

'It seems to depend on the weather for accuracy," she said. "On a dull day I have a job to 'read' the results. Normally, when he hypnotizes me the TV set appears to be switched on. Sometimes it seems so bright that I have to ask him to tone it down."

Sir John, son of a former Lord Mayor of London and a descendant of Mary Queen of Scots once owned a castle and entertained royalty before he lost his fortune. Now he is the only baronet in England who lives in a public housing project.

First Lady, Party Leave On Rome Hop

TAKES TRUNKS

The big Pan American transatlantic jet was due in Rome at 11:10 a.m. Saturday after a 7½-hour flight. Loaded aboard it were two big trunks belonging to the President's lady and a couple of packages marked "P-T boats." These presumably were the lapel emblems President Kennedy used to give out.

Among the 111 passengers were Spyros Skouras, head of 20th Century-Fox, and Otto Koegel, 20th Century's chief counsel, flying to Rome amid reports of the breakup of actress Elizabeth Taylor's marriage to singer Eddie Fisher.

Miss Taylor is starring in the studio's "Cleopatra," being produced in Rome. Published reports in California link her romantically to her costar in that motion picture, Richard Burton.

Fisher and Miss Taylor could not be reached for comment in Rome. But a family spokesman called the reports "completely ridiculous."

New York City police escorted the hatless First Lady to the airport. About 350 persons lining the terminal building applauded as she walked the short distance from her car to the plane.

Mrs. Kennedy smiled, but did not stop or pose for photographers.

The Kennedy official party traveled first class. They included Mrs. William Layton, a friend; Providencia Pardes, Mrs. Kennedy's personal maid; Jay Gildner, assistant press secretary; James Jeffries and John Powers, Secret Service agents; and Cecil Stoughten, Harry Markley and Joseph Giordano, whom the airline did not identify.

Only five other passengers traveled first class. They included Skouras and Koegel.

The First Lady paid her own way and that of her 29-year-old sister. Unlike the usual traveler flying to Europe, they had the opportunity to nap in berths en route.

Local Rule Advocated To LMA

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—Former Louisiana Gov. Sam Jones asked the Louisiana Municipal Association Friday to impress upon the legislature that there is an urgent and basic need to strengthen local government.

Jones, the featured speaker at Friday's session of the LMA convention, said that if the overpowering strength of the national government is to be controlled, and the weaknesses at the local level corrected, the states will have to do the job.

"It may come as a surprise to some of you that the expansion of government on the local and state levels has been on the upgrade since 1950," he told the luncheon session Friday.

"Between 1960 and 1961, state and local government expenditures in the U. S. increased 55 per cent or from $34 billion to $52 billion, while the federal increase was 37 per cent during the same period," Jones said.

He outlined three points that must be accomplished to strengthen local governments:

A constitutional or satutory provision that clothes municipalities with authority to do all things on the municipal level not specifically denied them by general law or by their charters.

Broad powers of taxation within reasonable limits and guide lines to finance the legitimate and historic functions of municipalities.

The free and unhampered right to contact not only with department of state government but with other local governments, such as police juries and special districts, to carry out on jointly specific functions that are mutually advantageous.

Secretary of State Wade O. M. Martin was another speaker Fri-

New Ice Storm Raging Towards Battered Coast

dozers, road scrapers, trucks, and jeeps.

Highway workers found roads washed out or covered with up to five feet of sand in the Nags Head-Kill Devil Hills-Oregon Inlet areas of North Carolina.

As President Kennedy arrived in Miami for a weekend visit, Florida's Gold Coast hotels were still bailing out sea water deposited by 20-foot waves — a parting backlash of the storm.

Another winter blast swept the northern Rockies. Forecasters said yet another storm appeared to be shaping up in mountain mountain areas of Nevada, Utah and Colorado.

The storm that had kicked up terrific tidal waves was far out in the Atlantic Friday. But it still sent flooding tides over some shoreline stretches and created emergencies at sea.

A tanker picked three passengers off the sinking yawl Guinevere 200 miles east of Jacksonville, Fla. Another vessel went to the rescue of the tanker Esso Zurich when it reported it was in "immediate danger" of sinking near the Florida Keys. Engine room flooding was controlled and the Zurich was taken in tow.

The new March blast crippled north Georgia. Snow up to nine inches deep and overburdening sleet and freezing rain tore down telephone and power lines.

Four-foot drifts piled up in Smoky Mountains National Park near the Tennessee-North Carolina line. More than 200 vehicles, most of them trucks, bogged down in a massive traffic tieup near Crossville, Tenn.

More than five inches of snow hit Western Virginia, and the snow kept falling. Forecasters said the snow was expected to spread eastward to the coast and northeastward toward New York and New England Friday night. Snow was expected to accumulate several inches deep except close to the coast where it was expected to become mixed with rain.

Along the East Coast, Coast Guardsmen searched isolated areas of Chincoteague Island for possible victims of the high tides. Two stations for typhoid inoculations were set up on the Virginia coast.

Army troops and road crews dug trenches in Virginia Beach to drain up to 4 feet of water from city streets of the resort.

National Guardsmen searched all persons leaving Ocean City, Md., and allowed only residents to enter the city. Two persons were arrested for questioning after they were found at an ocean front gift shop.

The commanding officer called for 150 reinforcements to supplement the 100 men already on duty in Ocean City.

Resort owners along an 80-mile strip of the Florida Gold Coast began adding up the damage done by Thursday's tidal waves. Their employes began cleaning up after the sand-filled water that crashed over seawalls and poured into basements and hotel lobbies.

Care Bill Protested By Doctors

ings," Dr. Burton explained.

He said the groups drafted the resolution because the King - Anderson bill:

1. Would not take care of people in need; rather it would provide medical care for Social Security recipients.

2. Projected costs of the program are extremely unrealistic while the acutal cost would impose a tremendous burden on those people paying Social Security taxes.

3. Does not make any provision as to the need of the recipient wherein the wealthy would receive benefits as well as the poor.

4. Would place the government in the position of being a third party in the traditional doctor-patient relationship.

5. Would not be needed, in that the truly needy people are currently covered under the Kerr-Mills bill.

Copies of the resolution are being sent to the Louisiana delegation in Congress. The American Medical Association and the Louisiana State Medical Society are opposed to the legislation.

House Group Set To Probe Red Literature

Communist literature infiltration into Louisiana comes in for a public airing next Tuesday in New Orleans, when the joint Legislative Committee on Un-American activities conducts an open hearing.

Ouachita Rep. Mike John of Monroe, committee member, terms the hearing "our first real breakthrough in the work we've been appointed to do."

The committee was organized under a House concurrent resolution in 1960, and given the task of investigating all subversive activities in Louisiana.

Tuesday's hearing in the State Supreme Court building has a dual purpose:

1. To alert the public to the influx of Commie reading material.

2. To help lawmakers determine what legislation will effectively squelch this influx.

John said that staff director Col. James B. Alexander and legal counsel Jack Rogers will present information in documentary form, with the 10 member senators and representatives asking questions.

Rosy Picture For Boating Is Indicated

By JACK WOLISTON
United Press International

One good barometer is New York City's annual National Motor Boat show, staged each January. This year's nine-day show drew an estimated attendance of 395,000, up 21 per cent from 1960.

And the starry-eyed visitors did much more than look. They signed on the dotted line for an estimated $34 million worth of boats and marine equipment, a record for the 52 shows that have been held.

Another note of optimism is contained in the U. S. Department of Commerce's 1962 outlook and 1961 review of the boating industry.

"Retail pleasure boating expenditures are expected to increase in 1962 over 1961," the department's Business and Defense Services Administration reported. "Sales were 10 per cent less in 1961 than the peak of $2.52 billion in 1960. In 1962, consumer purchases are expected to increase, financing will likely be easier, and participation in water sports is expected to grow."

The report listed these additional "favorable factors:"

"The population of the United States is increasing rapidly; workers are enjoying longer vacations and higher wages; disposable personal income is at record levels; and accelerated research and development programs have resulted in better engines, styling, safety features, and comfort.

"These factors in combination with increased Federal, State and local aid in the construction of additional berthing facilities, a stepped-up advertising campaign, more salesmanship, and better service indicate increased sales in 1962," the report concluded.

In reviewing 1961, the report said decreased sales in that year could be attributed to a late spring, a large 1960 inventory carried over into late 1961, and reduced consumer purchasing.

"The industry continued to make major changes in management and structure," it said. "It has now reached maturity, and only the stronger companies promise to survive the intense competition. Acquisitions, mergers and consolidations by large corporations continued during the year."

Asked about the department's remarks on "easier financing," an expert in that field agreed.

"There has never been a more favorable time to buy a boat than right now," said Robert E. Tobey, head of the marine products financing department of Universal C.I.T. Credit Corp. "Just about everything in today's market favors the buyer.

"Prices of 1962 models represent top value, particularly when all the new conveniences and safety features and engineering refinements are taken into consideration. Best of all, ample credit is available for the family that wants to acquire a really superior rig that can be financed sensibly and conveniently out of current income."

One of the products drawing considerable attention at the boat shows is a high-power radar featuring a new lightweight, wind-resistant antenna and indicator display console for use on boats as small as 30-feet.

A compact 7-kilowatt unit known as the MR-4, it is being exhibited by the Bendix Corporation.

Less power is required to rotate the antenna because of the modern design which cuts wind resistance. The console features a 7-inch viewing scope and range scales are from 25 yards to ½, 2, 6, or 12 miles. It can be mounted vertically or horizontally.

RESIDENTS BEGIN the task of cleaning up debris and seaweed in storm-lashed Chincoteaque, Va., after the area was inundated by high tides which washed these fishing boats into the middle of the town's main street. Homes and businesses on the island were badly battered in the storm. Water receded in some areas yesterday, permitting the cleanup to get underway. (AP Wirephoto) that the Communists work," he said.

Bitter Words Fly On PAR Survey

The opposition largely was made up of leaders among professional education groups.

Roberts said the opponents falsely claimed "to represent the bulk of our teachers, of our parents and of the state."

But, he said, persons from the education ranks told him they sent telegrams opposing the survey, when they actually favored it, because they were afraid.

Roberts complained the same group of opponents had fought every attempt in the past to study or evaluate the schools, including the noted Peabody survey and others.

After the education board meeting ended, F. F. Wimberly of Iberia Parish and a prime leader against the survey, walked up and stabbed a finger at Roberts' chest.

"I've been watching you, and I don't like the manner in which you operate," Wimberly told Roberts. "As a school board member, you are a good smear salesman."

Wimberly added, "I hope you can prove it in court that I am a Communist, because you are going to hear further from me."

Roberts replied he didn't like the way Wimberly operated.

James W. Morris, president of the Louisiana Teachers' Association, later issued a statement that his group regretted Roberts said "the elected officials of the teaching profession of the state of Louisiana, were in his opinion, operating along the lines of the Communists."

Roberts told newsmen, "I mentioned no names—if the shot fits them, let them wear it."

The education board voted unanimously in favor of both the motion to reject the request for endorsement because the board would have no control over it, and the motion to endorse the survey if PAR would give up some control. Each of the motions was offered by Davies.

FBI Agents Copying Vote Poll Books

HATTIESBURG, Miss. (AP) — FBI agents, armed with a federal court order, began Friday to copy vote registration and poll books in the office of Forcrest County registrar Theron Lynd.

The agents served the 400-pound Lynd with the order issued by federal District Judge Harold Cox and then moved electrically operated equipment into the records room of Lynd's office.

Friday's move ended 22 months of legal maneuverings and resistance by Lynd and his legal staff. Lynd and the attorneys said they had no further recourse in preventing federal agents from examining the records.

The order opens certain files to the Justice Department, which accused Lynd of discriminating against Negroes, commanding him to make the files available to federal examiners.

Earlier this week, Judge Cox recessed Lynd's trial on the discrimination charges and ordered him to reconsider voting applications of eight Negroes. Lynd has made no comment concerning this instruction.

The order delivered today instructs Lynd to make available: The registration lists of both accepted and rejected voter applicants in Forrest County since Feb. 25, 1959.

All documents used by Lynd since that date in administering the constitutional interpretation test to prospective voters.

Court Voids Subpoenas In Hoffa Case

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — Attempts of attorneys for Teamsters Union President James R. Hoffa to subpoena several government employes and newsmen for a federal court hearing ran into a roadblock Friday.

Still left to be argued and ruled on were motions to dismiss subpoenas for Sen. John L. McClellan, D-Ark., chairman of a Senate committee investigating racketeering; Secretary of Labor Arthur J. Goldberg; and Julian C. Sourwine, chief counsel for the Senate Internal Security Committee.

Hoffa's attorneys called McClellan, Goldberg and the others to testify Monday at a hearing at Orlando, Fla. The hearing is on a motion by Hoffa and Robert E. McCarthy Jr., a Detroit banking official, to dismiss a 16-count indictment against them.

The indictment charges they misused more than $500,000 in union funds in promoting a Florida housing development.

Dismissed by Judge Lieb were subpoenas for John Hunt of Westport, Conn., editor of the inside Newsletter; Willard M. Kiplinger of Bethesda, Md., editor of the Kipplinger Newsletter; Esther Settle, librarian for the Orlando Sentinel and Evening Star; Chief Postal Inspector Henry Montague, Washington; J. P. Baesler, a postal inspector in Orlando; and Baxter A. Watts, a supervisory employe in a Detroit post office.

Jacob Kossman of Philadelphia, a defense attorney, argued that the Hunt and Kipplinger newsletters had contained statements that were prejudicial to the Hoffa and McCarthy case.

"The grand jury was submerged by things prejudicial which were leaked to the public by government employes and the McClellan committee," he said. "We want to ask them (Hunt and Kipplinger) 'Where did you get this information.' "

In ruling that it wasn't necessary for the newsletter editors to testify, Lieb held that it was immaterial where they got their information.

Troops and additional police rushed to the area.

Dozens of Moslems streamed to a warehouse and, tightly packed, barricaded themselves within it. Troops drew fire when they approached, police said, and responded with bullets that killed 13. There was no announcement of security force casualties.

The Algiers Radja Hotel, which was used as a hideout by special government agents called "the bearded ones," was destroyed by a powerful explosion. Police said no one was injured, that the building had been vacated after a number of rightist European Secret Army Organization attacks on it in the past with bazookas and machine guns. There were rumors, unconfirmed, that the special agents have been called back to France.

A soldier was killed and two were wounded when a big plastic bomb, a favorite weapon of the secret army, blasted off the front of a latrine. Military sources suspected it was planted by some civilian employe of the barracks.

French authorities said it is possible that all the settlers—the dominant 10 per cent of Algeria's 10 million people—may be banned from entering French installations in Algiers. The settlers fear a cease-fire will mean North Africans will take over in an independent Algeria.

Eight persons, including five Europeans, were killed in terrorist attacks here and seven were wounded.

Army corps headquarters in Oran fired all of its civilian employes after two plastic bombs went off in a military building Thursday just before a visit of Armed Forces Minister Pierre Messmer on an inspection tour.

Artillery fire subsided around the fortified posts on the Tunisian frontier, where French troops face some 30,000 rebel guerrillas who are based in Tunisia.

Murder Cases Are Discussed At D.A. Meet

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — More than 400 of the nation's district attorneys turned their attention Friday to a television show and a best selling novel and said both have influenced murder cases across the land.

Dist. Atty. John W. Davies of Los Angeles, Calif., touched on the best selling novel "Anatomy of a Murder" in a discussion before the National District Attorneys Association mid-winter conference.

In the novel, author J. D. Voelker, a former Michigan justice, introduced the concept of "irresistible compulsion" as the defense for a husband who killed his wife's rapist.

Men So Tagged Subject To Call In Emergencies

Jan. 19 that the plan was being considered.

Preferably, he said, the pool would consist of men who had only six months of full-time training before entering the Reserve.

"These persons," he said, "would be carefully screened to eliminate all those not available for immediate recall for reasons of occupation, family status, etc."

The Defense Department said the Army, Navy, Air Force and Marines will carefully screen those selected for the pool to insure that they are available. Then, it said, they will be notified that they have been tagged for priority call to active duty.

The department also told of two new policies aimed at making it less disruptive for reserves when they shift from civilian to military life and back to civilian status.

Reservists called to active duty for a year may remain in service the full year even if their units are released earlier if a hardship would be created by early release. It was not clear what hardships would apply.

The units called to duty starting last October are expected for the most part to be released well before next October, probably in midsummer. However, the Pentagon has refrained from indicating any dates.

Students or teachers in the Ready Reserve who are not members of organized units may be granted a delay in any future call until the completion of the school quarter or the semester in which they are studying or teaching when they get their orders to duty.

A spokesman in discussing the emergency pool of Reservists said one service, which he did not identify, has considered avoiding the call of men who were mustered last fall, if another emergency should develop after they return to civilian life.

Earlier Dodge told the subcommittee that Gen. Lauris Norstad, U.S. commander in Europe, will report to the Defense Department within two weeks on a controversial publication, Overseas Weekly.

The publication was the first to report on the "pro-blue" anti-Communist troop indoctrination of former Maj. Gen. Edwin A. Walker before he was removed as commander of the 24th Infantry Division in Germany.

The Army said later that Walker's program was not based on policies of the John Birch Society Walker was admonished for certain statements about public figures and on charges of trying to influence the votes of his soldiers in the 1960 congressional elections.

Dodge said any regimental or division commander in Europe can ban the Overseas Weekly from Army newsstands.

Marcello Told To Give Details

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — U. S. Dist. Judge Robert A. Ainsworth Jr. ruled Friday that Jefferson Parish racketeer Carlos Marcello must give more details in his allegation that he was not represented by counsel in 1938 when he was sentenced to a year and a day for selling marijuana.

Marcello has pending in federal court an action aimed at nullifying this conviction which is the basis of a deportation order against him.

One good barometer is New York City's annual National Motor Boat show, staged each January. This year's nine-day show drew an estimated attendance of 395,000, up 21 per cent from 1960.

And the starry-eyed visitors did much more than look. They signed on the dotted line for an estimated $34 million worth of boats and marine equipment, a record for the 52 shows that have been held.

Another note of optimism is contained in the U. S. Department of Commerce's 1962 outlook and 1961 review of the boating industry.

"Retail pleasure boating expenditures are expected to increase in 1962 over 1961," the department's Business and Defense Services Administration reported. "Sales were 10 per cent less in 1961 than the peak of $2.52 billion in 1960. In 1962, consumer purchases are expected to increase, financing will likely be easier, and participation in water sports is expected to grow."

The report listed these additional "favorable factors:"

"The population of the United States is increasing rapidly; workers are enjoying longer vacations and higher wages; disposable personal income is at record levels; and accelerated research and development programs have resulted in better engines, styling, safety features, and comfort.

"These factors in combination with increased Federal, State and local aid in the construction of additional berthing facilities, a stepped-up advertising campaign, more salesmanship, and better service indicate increased sales in 1962," the report concluded.

In reviewing 1961, the report said decreased sales in that year could be attributed to a late spring, a large 1960 inventory carried over into late 1961, and reduced consumer purchasing.

"The industry continued to make major changes in management and structure," it said. "It has now reached maturity, and only the stronger companies promise to survive the intense competition. Acquisitions, mergers and consolidations by large corporations continued during the year."

Asked about the department's remarks on "easier financing," an expert in that field agreed.

"There has never been a more favorable time to buy a boat than right now," said Robert E. Tobey, head of the marine products financing department of Universal C.I.T. Credit Corp. "Just about everything in today's market favors the buyer.

"Prices of 1962 models represent top value, particularly when all the new conveniences and safety features and engineering refinements are taken into consideration. Best of all, ample credit is available for the family that wants to acquire a really superior rig that can be financed sensibly and conveniently out of current income."

One of the products drawing considerable attention at the boat shows is a high-power radar featuring a new lightweight, wind-resistant antenna and indicator display console for use on boats as small as 30-feet.

A compact 7-kilowatt unit known as the MR-4, it is being exhibited by the Bendix Corporation.

Less power is required to rotate the antenna because of the modern design which cuts wind resistance. The console features a 7-inch viewing scope and range scales are from 25 yards to ½, 2, 6, or 12 miles. It can be mounted vertically or horizontally.

Care Bill Protested By Doctors

ings," Dr. Burton explained.

He said the groups drafted the resolution because the King - Anderson bill:

1. Would not take care of people in need; rather it would provide medical care for Social Security recipients.
2. Projected costs of the program are extremely unrealistic while the acutal cost would impose a tremendous burden on those peopaying Social Security taxes.
3. Does not make any provision as to the need of the recipient wherein the wealthy would receive benefits as well as the poor.
4. Would place the government in the position of being a third party in the traditional doctor-patient relationship.
5. Would not be needed, in that the truly needy people are currently covered under the Kerr-Mills bill.

Copies of the resolution are being sent to the Louisiana delegation in Congress. The American Medical Association and the Louisiana State Medical Society are opposed to the legislation.

House Group Set To Probe Red Literature

Communist literature infiltration into Louisiana comes in for a public airing next Tuesday in New Orleans, when the joint Legislative Committee on Un-American activities conducts an open hearing.

Ouachita Rep. Mike John of Monroe, committee member, terms the hearing "our first real breakthrough in the work we've been appointed to do."

The committee was organized under a House concurrent resolution in 1960, and given the task of investigating all subversive activities in Louisiana.

Tuesday's hearing in the State Supreme Court building has a dual purpose:

1. To alert the public to the influx of Commie reading material.
2. To help lawmakers determine what legislation will effectively squelch this influx.

John said that staff director Col. James B. Alexander and legal counsel Jack Rogers will present information in documentary form, with the 10 member senators and representatives asking questions.

Committee members from north Louisiana are Senators Bill Carpenter of Morehouse Parish, Jackson B. Davis, Caddo, Harold Montgomery, Webster and Rep John.

Bitter Words Fly On PAR Survey

that the Communists work," he said.

The opposition largely was made up of leaders among professional education groups.

Roberts said the opponents falsely claimed "to represent the bulk of our teachers, of our parents and of the state."

But, he said, persons from the education ranks told him they sent telegrams opposing the survey, when they actually favored it, because they were afraid.

Roberts complained the same group of opponents had fought every attempt in the past to study or evaluate the schools, including the noted Peabody survey and others.

After the education board meeting ended, F. F. Wimberly of Iberia Parish and a prime leader against the survey, walked up and stabbed a finger at Roberts' chest.

"I've been watching you, and I don't like the manner in which you operate," Wimberly told Roberts. "As a school board member, you are a good smear salesman."

Wimberly added, "I hope you can prove it in court that I am a Communist, because you are going to hear further from me."

Roberts replied he didn't like the way Wimberly operated.

James W. Morris, president of the Louisiana Teachers' Association, later issued a statement that his group regretted Roberts said "the elected officials of the teaching profession of the state of Louisiana, were in his opinion, operating along the lines of the Communists."

Roberts told newsmen, "I mentioned no names—if the shot fits them, let them wear it."

The education board voted unanimously in favor of both the motion to reject the request for endorsement because the board would have no control over it, and the motion to endorse the survey if PAR would give up some control. Each of the motions was offered by Davies.

FBI Agents Copying Vote Poll Books

HATTIESBURG, Miss. (AP) — FBI agents, armed with a federal court order, began Friday to copy vote registration and poll books in the office of Forerest County registrar Theron Lynd.

The agents served the 400-pound Lynd with the order issued by federal District Judge Harold Cox and then moved electrically operated equipment into the records room of Lynd's office.

Friday's move ended 22 months of legal maneuverings and resistance by Lynd and his legal staff. Lynd and the attorneys said they had no further recourse in preventing federal agents from examining the records.

The order opens certain files to the Justice Department, which accused Lynd of discriminating against Negroes, commanding him to make the files available to federal examiners.

Earlier this week, Judge Cox recessed Lynd's trial on the discrimination charges and ordered him to reconsider voting applications of eight Negroes. Lynd has made no comment concerning this instruction.

The order delivered today instructs Lynd to make available:

The registration lists of both accepted and rejected voter applicants in Forrest County since Feb. 25, 1959.

All documents used by Lynd since that date in administering the constitutional interpretation test to prospective voters.

Court Voids Subpoenas In Hoffa Case

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — Attempts of attorneys for Teamsters Union President James R. Hoffa to subpoena several government employes and newsmen for a federal court hearing ran into a roadblock Friday.

Still left to be argued and ruled on were motions to dismiss subpoenas for Sen. John L. McClellan, D-Ark., chairman of a Senate committee investigating racketeering; Secretary of Labor Arthur J. Goldberg; and Julian C. Sourwine, chief counsel for the Senate Internal Security Committee.

Hoffa's attorneys called McClellan, Goldberg and the others to testify Monday at a hearing at Orlando, Fla. The hearing is on a motion by Hoffa and Robert E. McCarthy Jr., a Detroit banking official, to dismiss a 16-count indictment against them.

The indictment charges they misused more than $500,000 in union funds in promoting a Florida housing development.

Dismissed by Judge Lieb were subpoenas for John Hunt of Westport, Conn., editor of the inside Newsletter; Willard M. Kiplinger of Bethesda, Md., editor of the Kipplinger Newsletter; Esther Settle, librarian for the Orlando Sentinel and Evening Star; Chief Postal Inspector Henry Montague, Washington; J. P. Baesler, a postal inspector in Orlando; and Baxter A. Watts, a supervisory employe in a Detroit post office.

Jacob Kossman of Philadelphia, a defense attorney, argued that the Hunt and Kipplinger newsletters had contained statements that were prejudicial to the Hoffa and McCarthy case.

"The grand jury was submerged by things prejudicial which were leaked to the public by government employes and the McClellan committee," he said. "We want to ask them (Hunt and Kipplinger) 'Where did you get this information.' "

In ruling that it wasn't necessary for the newsletter editors to testify, Lieb held that it was immaterial where they got their information.

16 Moslems Die In Clash With French

Troops and additional police rushed to the area.

Dozens of Moslems streamed to a warehouse and, tightly packed, barricaded themselves within it. Troops drew fire when they approached, police said, and responded with bullets that killed 13. There was no announcement of security force casualties.

The Algiers Radja Hotel, which was used as a hideout by special government agents called "the bearded ones," was destroyed by a powerful explosion. Police said no one was injured, that the building had been vacated after a number of rightist European Secret Army Organization attacks on it in the past with bazookas and machine guns. There were rumors, unconfirmed, that the special agents have been called back to France.

A soldier was killed and two were wounded when a big plastic bomb, a favorite weapon of the secret army, blasted off the front of a latrine. Military sources suspected it was planted by some civilian employe of the barracks.

French authorities said it is possible that all the settlers—the dominant 10 per cent of Algeria's 10 million people—may be banned from entering French installations in Algiers. The settlers fear a cease-fire will mean North Africans will take over in an independent Algeria.

Eight persons, including five Europeans, were killed in terrorist attacks here and seven were wounded.

Army corps headquarters in Oran fired all of its civilian employes after two plastic bombs went off in a military building Thursday just before a visit of Armed Forces Minister Pierre Messmer on an inspection tour.

Artillery fire subsided around the fortified posts on the Tunisian frontier, where French troops face some 30,000 rebel guerrillas who are based in Tunisia.

Murder Cases Are Discussed At D.A. Meet

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — More than 400 of the nation's district attorneys turned their attention Friday to a television show and a best selling novel and said both have influenced murder cases across the land.

Dist. Atty. John W. Davies of Los Angeles, Calif., touched on the best selling novel "Anatomy of a Murder" in a discussion before the National District Attorneys Association mid-winter conference.

In the novel, author J. D. Voelker, a former Michigan justice, introduced the concept of "irresistible compulsion" as the defense for a husband who killed his wife's rapist.

Men So Tagged Subject To Call In Emergencies

Jan. 19 that the plan was being considered.

Preferably, he said, the pool would consist of men who had only six months of full-time training before entering the Reserve.

"These persons," he said, "would be carefully screened to eliminate all those not available for immediate recall for reasons of occupation, family status, etc."

The Defense Department said the Army, Navy, Air Force and Marines will carefully screen those selected for the pool to insure that they are available. Then, it said, they will be notified that they have been tagged for priority call to active duty.

The department also told of two new policies aimed at making it less disruptive for reserves when they shift from civilian to military life and back to civilian status.

Reservists called to active duty for a year may remain in service the full year even if their units are released earlier if a hardship would be created by early release. It was not clear what hardships would apply.

The units called to duty starting last October are expected for the most part to be released well before next October, probably in midsummer. However, the Pentagon has refrained from indicating any dates.

Students or teachers in the Ready Reserve who are not members of organized units may be granted a delay in any future call until the completion of the school quarter or the semester in which they are studying or teaching when they get their orders to duty.

A spokesman in discussing the emergency pool of Reservists said one service, which he did not identify, has considered avoiding the call of men who were mustered last fall, if another emergency should develop after they return to civilian life.

Earlier Dodge told the subcommittee that Gen. Lauris Norstad, U.S. commander in Europe, will report to the Defense Department within two weeks on a controversial publication, Overseas Weekly.

The publication was the first to report on the "pro - blue" anti-Communist troop indoctrination of former Maj. Gen. Edwin A. Walker before he was removed as commander of the 24th Infantry Division in Germany.

The Army said later that Walker's program was not based on policies of the John Birch Society Walker was admonished for certain statements about public figures and on charges of trying to influence the votes of his soldiers in the 1960 congressional elections.

Dodge said any regimental or division commander in Europe can ban the Overseas Weekly from Army newsstands.

Marcello Told To Give Details

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — U. S. Dist. Judge Robert A. Ainsworth Jr. ruled Friday that Jefferson Parish racketeer Carlos Marcello must give more details in his allegation that he was not represented by counsel in 1938 when he was sentenced to a year and a day for selling marijuana.

Marcello has pending in federal court an action aimed at nullifying this conviction which is the basis of a deportation order against him.

Al Smith's Long Walk

President John F. Kennedy is the first member of the Catholic faith ever to be elected president of the United States but if the people, back in 1928, had chosen to elect the late Al Smith, who was the Democratic nominee, they would have had a president who was staunch in his support of true Americanism.

More than a quarter of a century has passed since Governor Alfred E. Smith of New York took his famous walk out of the Democratic party but his speech in 1936 sounds today as if it could have been given tomorrow. In part, he said:

". . . Let me give this solemn warning. There can be only one capitol, Washington or Moscow!

"There can be only one atmosphere of government, the clear, pure fresh air of free America or the foul breath of communistic Russia.

"There can be only one flag, the Stars and Stripes or the Red Flag of the Godless Union of the Soviet.

"There can be only one national anthem: The Star-Spangled Banner or the International.

"There can be only one victor . . ."

This famed speech, parts of which are quoted in the San Diego Union, was delivered before the American Liberty League. It led many to believe that Smith, the beloved Happy Warrior of New York's East Side, would lead a third party in the 1936 presidential election. In the speech, Smith asked:

"What happens to the disciples of Jefferson and Jackson...? There is only one thing we can do. We can either take on the mantle of hypocracy or we can take a walk and we will probably do the latter."

Smith did take a walk. He went to Europe in the summer of 1936 and thus did not support the candidacy of Franklin D. Roosevelt. In 1940 he supported Wendell Willkie.

Smith, the Democratic party candidate for president, had been known as an opponent of President Roosevelt, who had followed him as governor of New York. His life-long party affiliation had prevented an open break. But, he told his friends, the steady movement of the country toward the left was too great not to be opposed now. He explained:

"I was born in the Democratic party and I expect to die there, but I can call upon innumerable witnesses to testify to the fact that during my whole public life, I put patriotism above partisanship."

Smith saw several dangers in the first year of the F.D.R. tenure in the White House.

"What are these dangers I see?" he asked. "The first is the arraignment of class against class.

"The next that I view as being dangerous to our national well-being is government bureauracy instead of what we have been taught to look for — government by law . . .

"The next thing that is apparent to me is the vast building up of new bureaus of government."

Smith, a strict advocate of constitutional government, pointed out that the writers of the constitution had seen the need for a balanced power of government. He said:

"What we want, and what we insist on, and what we are going to have," he explained, "is the absolute preservation of this balance of power which is the keystone, the arch upon which the whole theory of democratic government has got to rest.

"When you rattle that, you rattle the whole structure."

"Now, suggestions, and I make these as a Democrat anxious for the success of my party, and I make them in good faith.

"No. 1: I suggest to the members of my party on Capitol Hill here in Washington that they take their minds off the Tuesday that follows the first Monday in November. Just take their minds off it to the end that you may do the right thing and not the expedient thing.

"Next, I suggest to them that they dig up the 1932 platform from the grave that they buried it in, read it over, and study it, breathe life into it, and follow it in legislative and executive action, to the end that they make good their promises to the American people when they put forth that platform and the candidate that stood upon it 100 per cent. In short, make good!

"Next, I would suggest that they stop compromising with the fundamental principles laid down by Jackson and Jefferson and Cleveland.

"Fourth: Stop attempting to alter the form and structure of our government without recourse to the people themselves as provided in their own Constitution. This country belongs to the people, and it doesn't belong to any administration.

"Next, I suggest that they read their oath of office to support the Constitution of the United States. And I ask them to remember that they took that oath with their hands on the Holy Bible, thereby calling upon God Almighty Himself to witness their solemn promise. It is bad enough to disappoint us.

"Sixth: I suggest that from this moment they resolve to make the Constitution the Civil Bible of the United States, and pay it the same civil respect and reverence that they would religiously pay the Holy Scripture, and I ask them to read from the Holy Scripture the Parable of the Prodigal Son and to follow His example."

The fate of a nation may hinge on many things but a single circumstance may change its whole course. If Al Smith had been nominated in 1932, instead of Franklin D. Roosevelt, and if he had been elected, how different the course of the United States might have been. At that time Smith was confident he could be elected because the depression had largely turned the sentiment of the country against Herbert Hoover, the president, although with little justification. Nevertheless, there is strong likelihood that Smith could have been elected.

There are always many factors to be considered in electing a president but we know that if Smith had been chosen we would not have had the upsurge of communism which struck this country nor would we have had the scourge of arousing class against class, as has been done in the unwarranted drive for forced integration.

March Of Happiness

Usually when employes stage a march they are asking for something or protesting against something. They are either displeased or think they have to act as if they were. In London there was a march of a different kind. The marchers were marching because they were well pleased with everything.

The event took place through the west end of the city, where 18 employes of a ballroom carried banners saying, "We get top wages" and "We are happy in our work."

Allen Ferris, 32-year-old manager of the ballroom and leader of the march explained: "We are sick of people calling for strikes and moaning all the time. Some people are happy."

What a refreshing idea! It might catch on in the United States. Few people enjoy strikes and there might not be so many if they would let the world know this.

Ted Kennedy's Race Tough

Brother Of President Running For Senate Because He Can't Run For Governor Or Attorney General

A little-known provision in the Massachusetts Constitution is the inside reason Edward (Ted) Kennedy, 30-year-old youngest brother of the President, is about to anounce for the Senate against State Attorney General Edward McCormack, nephew of Speaker John McCormack.

Under Massachusetts' Constitution, young Kennedy can't run for Governor or Attorney General. He hasn't lived in the state long enough.

The constitution requires seven years' residence for governor, and five years for attorney general. "Ted" was born and reared in Boston, but switched his legal residence to Virginia while attending college there. He resumed his Massachusetts residence several years ago.

As a result, he is qualified to run only for the U. S. Senate or House of Representatives — and he is not interested in the latter. So he is throwing his hat into the ring for the Democratic nomination for the two remaining years of the Senate term to which his oldest brother was elected in 1958.

This constitutional quirk is the real reason for the impending sizzling battle between the President's baby brother, who has never run for public office before, and "Eddie" McCormack, 38-year-old nephew of the speaker, a graduate of Annapolis serving his second term as attorney general by a majority topped only by the President's in 1960.

This controlling background factor was explained by "Ted" to Representative Thomas (Tip) O'Neill, D-Mass., member of the powerful House Rules Committee and on close terms with both the Kennedys and McCormacks.

To avoid a bitter primary battle, O'Neill sought to persuade young "Ted" to run for governor or attorney general. The latter shook his head.

BATTLE ROYAL — "I can't," explained "Ted." "I'm barred by the State Constitution. I haven't been a legal resident of Massachusetts long enough. But I can run for the Senate and House, so I've decided to try for Jack's old seat."

" 'Eddie' will be awfully tough to beat," warned O'Neill. 'He's got an outstanding record, and he has won two statewide elections by huge majorities."

"I know that," replied young Kennedy. "But I've had a number of surveys made and they indicate I have a pretty good chance to win. The last polls gave Eddie the lead in Boston, but I was ahead of him in the rest of the state."

"Eddie" was equally adamant about running for the Senate when O'Neill talked to him about the governorship.

"I have a better than 50-50 chance of licking 'Ted'," said the tall, blond Navy veteran. "I won't have a million dollars backing me, but I have served my state and country, and the voters of Massachusetts know that. So I'm going to run for the Senate even if the odds are two to one against me. That's how intensely I feel about this. I feel I have earned the right to stand for the Senate."

Both the President and Speaker McCormack have kept hands-off these decisions.

The President was not enthusiastic about "Ted's" jumping into the Senate fight. But when the latter voiced his determination to do so, the President didn't intervene.

"If that's what you want to do, it's up to you," he said. "But you can expect rough going. 'Eddie' is an experienced and able politician and vote-getter. He will give you the fight of your life. So be prepared for the worst, because you're very apt to get it."

To a top Massachusetts Democrat, Speaker McCormack made clear he would do nothing to sway "Eddie" either way.

"He is his own master and knows what he wants to do," said McCormack. "I am not going to influence him one way or the other. It is his career and his decision, and he is perfectly competent to handle both without any advice from me."

Regardless of who wins the Democratic nomination, most likely Republican senatorial candidate is George Cabot Lodge, son of former Vice President Nixon's running mate. Young Lodge, only a few years older than "Ted" Kennedy, is being opposed by Representative Laurence Curtis, Boston, but appears to have the edge.

POLITICALS — Vice President Lyndon Johnson is the choice for this year's Four Freedoms Award. It will be given the Texan at a large annual banquet in New York. The Four Freedoms Award was established in honor of the late President Roosevelt to commemorate his famed four freedoms — "from want, fear, and for freedom of speech and worship." The award is administered by the Four Freedoms Foundation, headed by former Judge Ferdinand Pecora, noted New Deal Wall Street investigator, former Interior Secretary Oscar Chapman, former Ambassador Carlos Romulo, and Eric Johnston, head of the Motion Pictures Producers Association. Other recipients of this award have been former President Truman, the late General George Marshall, Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt, Dr. Ralph Bunche, former Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge, and George Meany, AFL-CIO president. . . . Mrs. Belford Lawson, general counsel of the National Council of Negro Women, is a likely choice for one of the two District of Columbia juvenile judgeships created by Congress last week, when the House decisively defeated Representative James Davis, D. - Ga., who stymied this legislation for six years.

Too Old At 60?

Some Have Aches And Pains And Can't Sleep Like Used To

I receive letters from many disheartened persons, who say that life is all over now that they have reached 50, 60, or 70.

They have aches and pains, can't sleep like they used to, and existence is no more than just staying alive, going to bed and trying to crawl out in the morning. For those who feel sorry for yourselves, I print this letter I found in my mail today:

Dear Dr. Steincrohn: My brother-in-law, who lives in British Columbia, wrote me:

"Since June I have been remodeling the house. I tore out all the partitions, piecemeal. They were only intended as a makeshift in any case. I put aluminum foil insulation inside all the outer walls and the ceiling. I propose adding a 10 x 14 extension, with a 12 x 12 bedroom in the rear, and a basement under all the additions.

But I had my fifth bladder operation recently, and my stay in the hospital and my convalescence has disarranged my schedule, and I shall have to defer the addition till the the spring."

Dr. Steincrohn, my brother-in-law was 90 years old the first of last month!—Mrs. B.

Comment: Wrong on both counts.

DENTAL PROBLEM

Dear Dr. Steincrohn: Which is better, to have dental plates put in soon after extraction or after a few months? I'm a young mother, active in P.T.A., etc. and I would dislike going without teeth unless it's really for the better. My dentist has left it up to me. What do you say?—Mrs. M.

Comment: The modern dentist can have temporary plates ready for you immediately after you have had your teeth extracted. You walk out of the office with a full set of teeth.

This procedure has been a boon to men who can't spare the time away from work.

Gums often shrink and cause the temporary plates to wiggle and become less effective in chewing. When this happens six to 12 months after extraction, it is advisable to have permanent appliances made. However, as your own dentist has told you, the choice is often up to the patient: whether to go toothless until the gums heal, or pay for the benefit of having early improvement in appearance and mastication.

NO SECRET CURE FOR CANCER

Dear Dr. Steincrohn: Is there a secret cure for cancer? I have heard so via the grapevine. And is it true that chronic appendicitis causes cancer? - Mrs. U.

Dr. Steincrohn's leaflet, "How To Manage Your Menopause," will be mailed to you on receipt of a stamped, self-addressed envelope and 10 cents in coin for handling. Address your request to Dr. Steincrohn, care of this newspaper.

Opera Matinee

Columnist Finds Getting Away From World Problems Helps

It is essential even for one who earns his living watching the doings of Khrushchev, struggling over what the inventions mean, which politican is really what one thinks he is and why another should believe some of the things that some do believe — it is essential to get away from it all and my way is to go to the opera of a Saturday afternoon when the atmosphere is more musical than on a Monday night for many reasons.

Last Saturday it was "Aida" which no singer or conductor can spoil or improve. So I settled down to a pleasant enough performance with the best lighting I have seen on any stage. After the first act, I dropped into Francis Robinson's cubby - hole of an office which I like to do because he is also a man of extremely wide culture and there is always good conversation which grows rarer these days as we limit ourselves either to the escapism of gossip or the argufying about things we know nothing about.

So last Saturday afternoon, Roland Hayes, the singer, also dropped in and we talked about how hard it is for a young conductor to get a chance to conduct and if perhaps it would not be wise for them to get their apprenticeships with high school orchestras, some of which, over the country, are quite good. For doctors, there is internship and a residency; for lawyers, there is clerkship. But young conductors have a rare chance to lead an orchestra or even a section of one. I am told that Leonard Bernstein takes three assistants a year which must do a great deal for young conductors. So we talked until the time came for Act II.

Then we all foregathered for tea and there was Georgie Jessel and he reminded me of the very distant days of the Gus Edwards show in vaudeville when many who later became great stars sang, "School Days, School Days, Dear Old Golden Rule Days." And we talked of Eddie Cantor, a childhood friend, who has been ill but does not take it lightly, which everyone should do, for ills of the flesh must come to us at one time or another and one either is frightened by them or says his prayers and leaves the rest to God.

And I remembered how one day when I was in the hospital with what looked like a terminal thing and Charlie Coburn, the actor, had a nurse roll him into my room to have a visit and Charlie asked me to spread it that he was in the hospital because then nobody would hire him to act. And we had several good laughts together. Charlie lived to a good ripe age and his passing was regretted but I often see him on the Late Show or even the Late Late Show since I have become addicted to such shenanigans at bed - time.

Then there was Act III to hear and Bill Ormerod, who should be addressed as Sir Berkeley, he being a British knight for whatever virtues or sins one becomes such, and I climbed some stairs, which I should not do, to hear Francis Robinson speak over the radio brilliantly and beautifully about Grace Moore. Robinson originated in Nashville, Tennessee, and is gifted with a speaking voice which reminds me of William Jennings Bryan although he is less resonant. The story he told of Grace Moore was most attractive, as she was.

And I conjured up the days when I could only afford Standing Room to listen to Farrar and Caruso and then it became so difficult to listen to the rest of the afternoon's "Aida." For as Roland Hayes said, it is hard to know where genius will strike and one must be helpful.

And I could not help thinking of youth as I looked into the eyes of Maria Jeritza, of another generation, who when she first sang at the Metropolitan Opera stirred opera lovers as they had not been in some time. She is still beautiful, for natural beauty never fades.

So here an entire afternoon passed and no one said one word about politicians and conniving and the trickeries of life. No wonder musicians have such longevity — they throw off the burdens of time and live in the eternities. Or might it be that all their work requires so much exercise?

Ball Tells How

Undersecretary Explains World Situation To Committee

WASHINGTON, D. C. — Western Civilization, as we know it in modern times, started somewhere near "the playing fields of Eton" and radiated outward from there, following the congenial lines of least resistance.

This was how the conversation at a tete-a-tete luncheon with a very cultivated historian was going the other day, less than an hour after I had heard Under Secretary of State George Ball explaining the World to the Stennis Subcommittee of Preparedness.

Needless to say, my luncheon companion has a very different opinion than did Secretary Ball of what American policy ought to be. The historian's view (which I presume he will express in his own time) is that the further the art of government is removed from the English-speaking systems, the more unworkable and unjust it becomes. In Britain and the Commonwealth, in the USA and wherever our flag flies, people are encouraged to learn and to think for themselves, to govern themselves, to dispense justice by the jury system of neighbors and equals, to be protected from tyrannous leaders and to earn and worship as they can and will.

But as government becomes removed from the English-speaking heart land — as it moves eastward in Europe through France, Germany, Poland and into Russia — the liberties historically recede. Limited but hereditary monarchies predominate in Scandinavia and the Low countries. As government moves southward in Europe, we find dictatorships in Spain and Portugal, ex-dictatorships in Italy and throughout the Balkans and the Middle East. By the time we reach the center of Africa, we run into the Congo and a cluster of other nations in which self-government and self - support are admittedly decades and centuries away.

This view of the World, I take it, is so axiomatic that it will not be disputed as fact, only as ideology. Secretary Ball was taking the course of the second part, arguing from assumptions that may be a la mode in Administration political circles, but quite without reality.

For example, Mr. Ball told the Subcommittee that "We are not the only people in the World — or, fortunately, the only people in the Free World. The population of the U. S. is less than one-tenth of the earth's population."

This is so far from being an intelligent and realistic statement that I wonder the Secretary would make it in public. He was using the old nose-count system to evaluate quality. He was indicating that the World, and the Free World, are full of other countries like ours. He did not mention any of the important indices of World power — such as Air and Sea power, the commitment of American forces both in Asia and Europe, the dispatch of American investment into all accessible areas of the globe.

In another part of his statement, the Under Secretary declared that public speeches by American officials, particularly military officials, reached "four audiences." The first, being the American domestic listeners, he quickly accounted for. He gave the other three, for whom speeches chiefly have to be censored, as:

"First, the peoples and governments in the countries allied with us. . .

"Second, the peoples and governments in those countries—many of which have just acquired nation status — that are uncommitted in the struggle between the Free World and the Sino-Soviet Bloc . .

"Third, the Communist leadership . . ."

It is hard to believe that the outcome of the Cold War can be favorably affected by keeping up polite pretenses or acting from unreason. The Allies and the Neutrals are not going to be driven into enemy arms by something that Admiral Burke or Lieut. General Trudeau says in an after dinner speech. Communist propaganda, which depicts the USA as a bloody-handed imperialist, is not going to be "fed," as the Under Secretary fears, by "bellicose" speeches—and it is not going to starve and cease to be if the bellicose speeches are censored.

Al Smith's Long Walk

President John F. Kennedy is the first member of the Catholic faith ever to be elected president of the United States but if the people, back in 1928, had chosen to elect the late Al Smith, who was the Democratic nominee, they would have had a president who was staunch in his support of true Americanism.

More than a quarter of a century has passed since Governor Alfred E. Smith of New York took his famous walk out of the Democratic party but his speech in 1936 sounds today as if it could have been given tomorrow. In part, he said:

". . . Let me give this solemn warning. There can be only one capitol, Washington or Moscow!

"There can be only one atmosphere of government, the clear, pure fresh air of free America or the foul breath of communistic Russia.

"There can be only one flag, the Stars and Stripes or the Red Flag of the Godless Union of the Soviet.

"There can be only one national anthem: The Star-Spangled Banner or the International.

"There can be only one victor . .."

This famed speech, parts of which are quoted in the San Diego Union, was delivered before the American Liberty League. It led many to believe that Smith, the beloved Happy Warrior of New York's East Side, would lead a third party in the 1936 presidential election. In the speech, Smith asked:

"What happens to the disciples of Jefferson and Jackson...? There is only one thing we can do. We can either take on the mantle of hypocracy or we can take a walk and we will probably do the latter."

Smith did take a walk. He went to Europe in the summer of 1936 and thus did not support the candidacy of Franklin D. Roosevelt. In 1940 he supported Wendell Willkie.

Smith, the Democratic party candidate for president, had been known as an opponent of President Roosevelt, who had followed him as governor of New York. His life-long party affiliation had prevented an open break. But, he told his friends, the steady movement of the country toward the left was too great not to be opposed now. He explained:

"I was born in the Democratic party and I expect to die there, but I can call upon innumerable witnesses to testify to the fact that during my whole public life, I put patriotism above partisanship."

Smith saw several dangers in the first year of the F.D.R. tenure in the White House.

"What are these dangers I see?" he asked. "The first is the arraignment of class against class.

"The next that I view as being dangerous to our national wellbeing is government bureaurracy instead of what we have been taught to look for — government by law . . .

"The next thing that is apparent to me is the vast building up of new bureaus of government."

Smith, a strict advocate of constitutional government, pointed out that the writers of the constitution had seen the need for a balanced power of government. He said:

"What we want, and what we insist on, and what we are going to have," he explained, "is the absolute preservation of this balance of power which is the keystone, the arch upon which the whole theory of democratic government has got to rest.

"When you rattle that, you rattle the whole structure."

In concluding, Smith repeated his lifelong party advocacy and suggested a group of remedies:

"Now, suggestions, and I make these as a Democrat anxious for the success of my party, and I make them in good faith.

"No. 1: I suggest to the members of my party on Capitol Hill here in Washington that they take their minds off the Tuesday that follows the first Monday in November. Just take their minds off it to the end that you may do the right thing and not the expedient thing.

"Next, I suggest to them that they dig up the 1932 platform from the grave that they buried it in, read it over, and study it, breathe life into it, and follow it in legislative and executive action, to the end that they make good their promises to the American people when they put forth that platform and the candidate that stood upon it 100 per cent. In short, make good!

"Next, I would suggest that they stop compromising with the fundamental principles laid down by Jackson and Jefferson and Cleveland.

"Fourth: Stop attempting to alter the form and structure of our government without recourse to the people themselves as provided in their own Constitution. This country belongs to the people, and it doesn't belong to any administration.

"Next, I suggest that they read their oath of office to support the Constitution of the United States. And I ask them to remember that they took that oath with their hands on the Holy Bible, thereby calling upon God Almighty Himself to witness their solemn promise. It is bad enough to disappoint us.

"Sixth: I suggest that from this moment they resolve to make the Constitution the Civil Bible of the United States, and pay it the same civil respect and reverence that they would religiously pay the Holy Scripture, and I ask them to read from the Holy Scripture the Parable of the Prodigal Son and to follow His example."

The fate of a nation may hinge on many things but a single circumstance may change its whole course. If Al Smith had been nominated in 1932, instead of Franklin D. Roosevelt, and if he had been elected, how different the course of the United States might have been. At that time Smith was confident he could be elected because the depression had largely turned the sentiment of the country against Herbert Hoover, the president, although with little justification. Nevertheless, there is strong likelihood that Smith could have been elected.

There are always many factors to be considered in electing a president but we know that if Smith had been chosen we would not have had the upsurge of communism which struck this country nor would we have had the scourge of arousing class against class, as has been done in the unwarranted drive for forced integration.

GETTING WARMER?
Our atmosphere is slowly heating up-perhaps because carbon dioxide from factory smoke acts as a lid to keep the earth's heat in! But don't worry-the increase is only about one degree each century!

Opera Matinee

It is essential even for one who earns his living watching the doings of Khrushchev, struggling over what the inventions mean, which politican is really what one thinks he is and why another should believe some of the things that some do believe — it is essential to get away from it all and my way is to go to the opera of a Saturday afternoon when the atmosphere is more musical than on a Monday night for many reasons.

Last Saturday it was "Aida" which no singer or conductor can spoil or improve. So I settled down to a pleasant enough performance with the best lighting I have seen on any stage. After the first act, I dropped into Francis Robinson's cubby - hole of an office which I like to do because he is also a man of extremely wide culture and there is always good conversation which grows rarer these days as we limit ourselves either to the escapism of gossip or the argufying about things we know nothing about.

So last Saturday afternoon, Roland Hayes, the singer, also dropped in and we talked about how hard it is for a young conductor to get a chance to conduct and if perhaps it would not be wise for them to get their apprenticeships with high school orchestras, some of which, over the country, are quite good. For doctors, there is internship and a residency; for lawyers, there is clerkship. But young conductors have a rare chance to lead an orchestra or even a section of one. I am told that Leonard Bernstein takes three assistants a year which must do a great deal for young conductors. So we talked until the time came for Act II.

Then we all foregathered for tea and there was Georgie Jessel and he reminded me of the very distant days of the Gus Edwards show in vaudeville when many who later became great stars sang, "School Days, School Days, Dear Old Golden Rule Days." And we talked of Eddie Cantor, a childhood friend, who has been ill but does not take it lightly, which everyone should do, for ills of the flesh must come to us at one time or another and one either is frightened by them or says his prayers and leaves the rest to God.

And I remembered how one day when I was in the hospital with what looked like a terminal thing and Charlie Coburn, the actor, had a nurse roll him into my room to have a visit and Charlie asked me to spread it that he was in the hospital because then nobody would hire him to act. And we had several good laughts together. Charlie lived to a good ripe age and his passing was regretted but I often see him on the Late Show or even the Late Late Show since I have become addicted to such shenanigans at bed - time.

Then there was Act III to hear and Bill Ormerod, who should be addressed as Sir Berkeley, he being a British knight for whatever virtues or sins one becomes such, and I climbed some stairs, which I should not do, to hear Francis Robinson speak over the radio brilliantly and beautifully about Grace Moore. Robinson originated in Nashville, Tennessee, and is gifted with a speaking voice which reminds me of William Jennings Bryan although he is less resonant. The story he told of Grace Moore was most attractive, as she was.

And I conjured up the days when I could only afford Standing Room to listen to Farrar and Caruso and then it became so difficult to listen to the rest of the afternoon's "Aida." For as Roland Hayes said, it is hard to know where genius will strike and one must be helpful.

And I could not help thinking of youth as I looked into the eyes of Maria Jeritza, of another generation, who when she first sang at the Metropolitan Opera stirred opera lovers as they had not been in some time. She is still beautiful, for natural beauty never fades.

So here an entire afternoon passed and no one said one word about politicians and conniving and the trickeries of life. No wonder musicians have such longevity — they throw off the burdens of time and live in the eternities. Or might it be that all their work requires so much exercise?

Ball Tells How

Undersecretary Explains World Situation To Committee

WASHINGTON, D. C. — Western Civilization, as we know it in modern times, started somewhere near "the playing fields of Eton" and radiated outward from there, following the congenial lines of least resistance.

This was how the conversation at a tete-a-tete luncheon with a very cultivated historian was going the other day, less than an hour after I had heard Under Secretary of State George Ball explaining the World to the Stennis Subcommittee of Preparedness.

Needless to say, my luncheon companion has a very different opinion than did Secretary Ball of what American policy ought to be. The historian's view (which I presume he will express in his own time) is that the further the art of government is removed from the English-speaking systems, the more unworkable and unjust it becomes. In Britain and the Commonwealth, in the USA and wherever our flag flies, people are encouraged to learn and to think for themselves, to govern themselves, to dispense justice by the jury system of neighbors and equals, to be protected from tyrannous leaders and to earn and worship as they can and will.

But as government becomes removed from the English-speaking heart land — as it moves eastward in Europe through France, Germany, Poland and into Russia — the liberties historically recede. Limited but hereditary monarchies predominate in Scandinavia and the Low countries. As government moves southward in Europe, we find dictatorships in Spain and Portugal, ex-dictatorships in Italy and throughout the Balkans and the Middle East. By the time we reach the center of Africa, we run into the Congo and a cluster of other nations in which self-government and self - support are admittedly decades and centuries away.

This view of the World, I take it, is so axiomatic that it will not be disputed as fact, only as ideology. Secretary Ball was taking the course of the second part, arguing from assumptions that may be a la mode in Administration political circles, but quite without reality.

For example, Mr. Ball told the Subcommittee that "We are not the only people in the World — or, fortunately, the only people in the Free World. The population of the U. S. is less than one-tenth of the earth's population."

This is so far from being an intelligent and realistic statement that I wonder the Secretary would make it in public. He was using the old nose-count system to evaluate quality. He was indicating that the World, and the Free World, are full of other countries like ours. He did not mention any of the important indices of World power — such as Air and Sea power, the commitment of American forces both in Asia and Europe, the dispatch of American investment into all accessible areas of the globe.

In another part of his statement, the Under Secretary declared that public speeches by American officials, particularly military officials, reached "four audiences." The first, being the American domestic listeners, he quickly accounted for. He gave the other three, for whom speeches chiefly have to be censored, as:

"First, the peoples and governments in the countries allied with us. . .

"Second, the peoples and governments in those countries—many of which have just acquired nation status — that are uncommitted in the struggle between the Free World and the Sino-Soviet Bloc . .

"Third, the Communist leadership . . ."

It is hard to believe that the outcome of the Cold War can be favorably affected by keeping up polite pretenses or acting from unreason. The Allies and the Neutrals are not going to be driven into enemy arms by something that Admiral Burke or Lieut. General Trudeau says in an after dinner speech. Communist propaganda, which depicts the USA as a bloody-handed imperialist, is not going to be "fed," as the Under Secretary fears, by "bellicose" speeches—and it is not going to starve and cease to be if the bellicose speeches are censored.

Today is Saturday, March 10, the 69th day of the year with 296 to follow in 1962.

The Moon is approaching its first quarter.

The morning star is Saturn.

On this day in history:

In 1775, Daniel Boone and a company of frontiersmen were hired to cut a road through the wilderness to the Kentucky River.

In 1949, Mildred Gillars, better known to GI's as "Axis Sally," was convicted of treason for her wartime broadcasts for the Nazis.

A thought for the day: Spanish born philosopher George Santayana said: "Fanaticism consists in redoubling your efforts when you have forgotten your aim."

Billings, Mont., Austin, Nev., and Lynchburg, Va., report 7 inches of snow in 6 hours.

SUMMARY

The Middle Atlantic states after recovering from the big snow earlier in the week were spared for the most part from further heavy accumulations out of a new storm center drifting slowly eastward across Ohio while weakening and another developing off the Carolina coast. Heavy snow deposits up to 6 inches were confined to mountain areas with a lesser fall taking place from southeast Michigan into Ohio and western ends of New York state and Pennsylvania. Much of the Ohio Valley had rain as did coastal areas down into the Carolinas and Georgia. Light snow is expected to spread into the north Atlantic states by midnight.

The western side of the country also experienced its share of inclement weather. Showers were scattered over lower elevations while a vigorous low pressure system winding up over eastern Nevada set off snows, at times moderate, northward into Montana and eastward through Utah. To the south of the Nevada low strong gusty winds raised clouds of dust over the arid southwest. Thermal, Calif., reported wind gusts peaking in excess of 60 miles per hour.

A surge of cold Canadian air sinking southward is expected to tumble temperatures to near cold wave proportions during the night east of the Divide into Montana and Wyoming. By late evening, Montana areas were registering cold readings in the teens which differed markedly with warm 70's and 80's over the Gulf coast, southern Texas and Florida. Most of the northern half of the country had 30's or 40's. The Pacific Coastal Plain had 50's and the windy desert southwest near 70.

The outlook for Saturday — improving conditions are in store for the east as precipitation ends by morning except for some light snow continuing over portions of interior New York state and New England. Meantime, out west, snowy windy and colder weather is expected to spread down the Rocky Mountain states and into the west central High Plains. Occasional light snow is also likely across the Dakotas into Minnesota and Iowa. South of the snow belt scattered rain or showers are forecast reaching into Texas and the central Gulf Coast.

Three Escape After Locking Jailer In Cell

POPLARVILLE, Miss. (AP) — Pearl River County Sheriff Bill Owens said Friday three white prisoners locked their jailer in the county jail and sped to freedom in a convertible.

The sheriff said Jack McLain, 19, Richard Riemann, 25, and Paul Reimann, 20, were believed heading to Bogalusa, La. and then to Jackson. All were in jail on minor charges and scheduled for release shortly.

The sheriff said the two Riemann youths had been jailed on traffic charges, while McLean had served about two months on a breaking and entering sentence. Richard Reimann had also been convicted of contempt of court.

Owens said the three locked jailer Jewell Alford in the colored cell about 6:30 am. as he brought breakfast to the area.

U.S. Reports 'Flu' Epidemics Now On Decline

ATLANTA (UPI) — Epidemic influenza is on the decline throughout the United States with the lone exception of Wyoming, the federal Communicable Disease Center (CDC) here reported Friday.

CDC said two new outbreaks of flu-like disease have broken out in the northeast part of Wyoming.

Meanwhile, Oklahoma and Virginia have been added to the list where Type B influenza has been confirmed, raising the total number of states making such confirmation to 36.

CDC said that Louisiana and South Dakota are the only continental states which reported no significant outbreaks of respiratory disease this winter.

The number of deaths due to pneumonia and influenza in 108 cities reached its highest level of the year this past week, CDC said. New England and Middle Atlantic states reported figures in excess of expected levels for the first time this year.

Child Is Hurt In Fall At 'Y'

Janella Gattis, 11, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Gattis, 1401 West St., suffered injuries last night—believed to include a broken arm—in a fall at the Monroe Y.M.C.A. building.

Friends of the youngster said she was practicing flips and somersaults in the gym at the time and fell as she was attempting to flip over a chair.

She was taken to the St. Francis Hospital by Hixson Brothers ambulance soon after the fall at 8:30 p.m.

Lawyers Ask Integration Ruling Delay

BATON ROUGE (AP)—A group of 11 Baton Rouge attorneys filed a federal court brief asking that a decision on public school desegregation here be put off until after this summer's school board election.

The East Baton Rouge Parish School Board is involved in a National Association for Advancement of Colored People lawsuit, which is pushing for public school desegregation in the capital city.

The "friend of the court" brief, filed Thursday, said the new board may have a chance to effectively implement pupil placement. It stressed that the U. S. Supreme Court has upheld Alabama's pupil placement law and added that Louisiana's 1958 pupil placement legislation "contains in almost the exact language the factors guiding student assignment."

Those filing the brief included Carlos Spaht, onetime candidate for governor; C. C. Bird Jr.; H. Payne Breazeale Sr.; C. V. Porter, L. W. Brooks, Ben R. Miller, Calvin E. Hardin Jr., Roland C. Kizer, Fred Blanche, G. T. Owen Jr. and Victor A. Sachse Sr.

The East Baton Rouge Parish School Board was increased by four new members by the legislature last year, and the new members were appointed by Gov. Jimmie H. Davis. The appointed members serve until elected members are named in the next election.

"We believe," said the brief, "that the interests of the community and its inhabitants of all races will be served by awaiting submission of a plan from a fully elected school board."

Each of the 23 candidates in the upcoming election, three running for mayor, 15 for alderman and five for executive committeeman, are eligile to submit one name for each voting place.

SAY CRISIS NOT OVER

Berlin GIs Rap Guard Gripers

BERLIN (UPI) — American GI's stationed in this Communist-encircled city have little respect for any soldiers who want to get out of the Army because they think the Berlin crisis is over.

"The crisis isn't over and anyone who says so is foolish," said Spec. 4-C Clarence Riley, 20, of New Orleans.

Riley and other U. S. soldiers told United Press International how they felt about the protests staged at Fort Bragg, N. C., and Fort Polk, La., by reservists complaining over being kept on active duty. Some of the reservists claim the Berlin crisis has passed.

Riley himself was hit by the Pentagon order which extended military service for many Berlin garrison soldiers.

"It was necessary," he said with a shrug. "Plenty of us would rather be home, too. It's tough sometimes on guys settled into civilian life, but we've all got an obligation to defend our country. If President Kennedy gives in to the gripers a lot of guys around here will feel pretty sore and let down."

Sgt. N. A. Smith, 25, of San Diego, Calif., said "the rest of the world would think we were stupid and pretty naive if we relax now."

Pfc. Jerry Patterson, 21, of Bethel Springs, Tenn., who is stationed at Giessen in West Germany, toured the Communist wall dividing West from East Berlin.

"If we ease up now that wall is going to move clear across West Berlin, then right up to the end of the Berlin Autobahn and there's no telling where it will stop," he said.

Auxiliary Holds Planning Session

The Northeast Louisiana Homebuilders auxiliary met Thursday night in the Rendezvous restaurant and made plans for future activities.

Preliminary plans were discussed for a spring dance, as well as the April candy sale and other means of raising funds to benefit the Hope Bettylon Scholarship fund.

Mrs. Gerri Gross, president, said the group hoped to receive wide support for the candy sale, "in order to secure as much as possible for this worthwhile scholarship fund."

Mrs. Diddie Butler, Mrs. Helen Ketchell and Mrs. Sunshine Hazel will be hostesses at the April meeting which is scheduled at the Paragon Club. Members attending the meeting included Mrs. Mary Bradford, Mrs. Dittie Butler, Mrs. Blanche Gates, Mrs. Boyce Gibson, Mrs. Geri Gross, Mrs. Yvonne Gross, Mrs. Helen Ketchell, Mrs. Mildred Zeagler, and Mrs. E. C Bess.

Billings, Mont., Austin, Nev., and Lynchburg, Va., report 2 inches of snow in 6 hours.

SUMMARY

The Middle Atlantic states after recovering from the big snow earlier in the week were spared for the most part from further heavy accumulations out of a new storm center drifting slowly eastward across Ohio while weakening and another developing off the Carolina coast. Heavy snow deposits up to 6 inches were confined to mountain areas with a lesser fall taking place from southeast Michigan into Ohio and western ends of New York state and Pennsylvania. Much of the Ohio Valley had rain as did coastal areas down into the Carolinas and Georgia. Light snow is expected to spread into the north Atlantic states by midnight.

The western side of the country also experienced its share of inclement weather. Showers were scattered over lower elevations while a vigorous low pressure system winding up over eastern Nevada set off snows, at times moderate, northward into Montana and eastward through Utah. To the south of the Nevada low strong gusty winds raised clouds of dust over the arid southwest. Thermal, Calif., reported wind gusts peaking in excess of 60 miles per hour.

A surge of cold Canadian air sinking southward is expected to tumble temperatures to near cold wave proportions during the night east of the Divide into Montana and Wyoming. By late evening, Montana areas were registering cold readings in the teens which differed markedly with warm 70's and 80's over the Gulf coast, southern Texas and Florida. Most of the northern half of the country had 30's or 40's. The Pacific Coastal Plain had 50's and the windy desert southwest near 70.

The outlook for Saturday — improving conditions are in store for the east as precipitation ends by morning except for some light snow continuing over portions of interior New York state and New England. Meantime, out west, snowy windy and colder weather is expected to spread down the Rocky Mountain states and into the west central High Plains. Occasional light snow is also likely across the Dakotas into Minnesota and Iowa. South of the snow belt scattered rain or showers are forecast reaching into Texas and the central Gulf Coast.

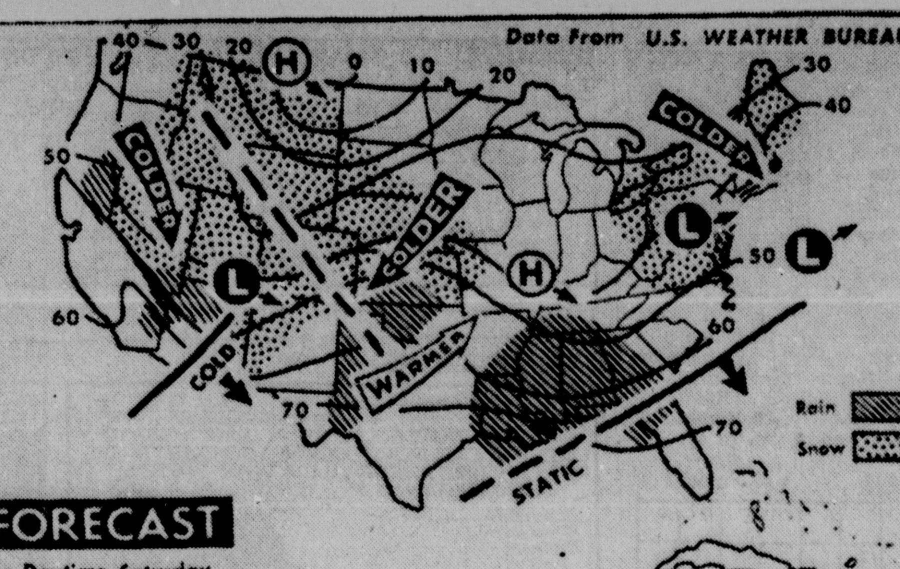
Three Escape After Locking Jailer In Cell

POPLARVILLE, Miss. (AP) — Pearl River County Sheriff Bill Owens said Friday three white prisoners locked their jailer in the county jail and sped to freedom in a convertible.

The sheriff said Jack McLain, 19, Richard Riemann, 25, and Paul Reimann, 20, were believed heading to Bogalusa, La. and then to Jackson. All were in jail on minor charges and scheduled for release shortly.

The sheriff said the two Riemann youths had been jailed on traffic charges, while McLean had erved about two months on a breaking and entering sentence. Richard Reimann had also been convicted of contempt of court.

Owens said the three locked jailer Jewell Alford in the colored cell about 6:30 am. as he brought breakfast to the area.



MIXTURE OF SNOW and rain is due Saturday for parts of middle Atlantic states, Great Lakes and New England. Snow, mixed with rain along southern and eastern edges, is due in southern and central Plains westward to eastern Pacific region. Rain will spread through eastern Gulf and lower Mississippi vally. It will be colder in New England, south Atlantic states, the Plateau, northern Plains and southwest Gulf region. It will be warmer in southern Plains. (AP Wirephoto Map)

U.S. Reports 'Flu' Epidemics Now On Decline

ATLANTA (UPI) — Epidemic influenza is on the decline throughout the United States with the lone exception of Wyoming, the federal Communicable Disease Center (CDC) here reported Friday.

CDC said two new outbreaks of flu-like disease have broken out in the northeast part of Wyoming.

Meanwhile, Oklahoma and Virginia have been added to the list where Type B influenza has been confirmed, raising the total number of states making such confirmation to 36.

CDC said that Louisiana and South Dakota are the only continental states which reported no significant outbreaks of respiratory disease this winter.

The number of deaths due to pneumonia and influenza in 108 cities reached its highest level of the year this past week, CDC said. New England and Middle Atlantic states reported figures in excess of expected levels for the first time this year.

Child Is Hurt In Fall At 'Y'

Janella Gattis, 11, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Gattis, 1401 West St., suffered injuries last night—believed to include a broken arm—in a fall at the Monroe Y.M.C.A. building.

Friends of the youngster said she was practicing flips and somersaults in the gym at the time and fell as she was attempting to flip over a chair.

She was taken to the St. Francis Hospital by Hixson Brothers ambulance soon after the fall at 8:30 p.m.

Lawyers Ask Integration Ruling Delay

BATON ROUGE (AP)—A group of 11 Baton Rouge attorneys filed a federal court brief asking that a decision on public school desegregation here be put off until after this summer's school board election.

The East Baton Rouge Parish School Board is involved in a National Association for Advancement of Colored People lawsuit, which is pushing for public school desegregation in the capital city.

The "friend of the court" brief, filed Thursday, said the new board may have a chance to effectively implement pupil placement. It stressed that the U. S. Supreme Court has upheld Alabama's pupil placement law and added that Louisiana's 1958 pupil placement legislation "contains in almost the exact language the factors guiding student assignment."

Those filing the brief included Carlos Spaht, onetime candidate for governor; C. C. Bird Jr.; H. Payne Breazeale Sr.; C. V. Porter, L. W. Brooks, Ben R. Miller, Calvin E. Hardin Jr., Roland C. Kizer, Fred Blanche, G. T. Owen Jr. and Victor A. Sachse Sr.

The East Baton Rouge Parish School Board was increased by four new members by the legislature last year, and the new members were appointed by Gov. Jimmie H. Davis. The appointed members serve until elected members are named in the next election.

Committee Set To Draw Names Of Poll Workers

Names of commissioners and deputies for the West Monroe first Democratic primary April 7 will be drawn at a meeting of the city's executive committee at 10 this morning.

Those selected will be responsible for the conduct of the vote at each of West Monroe's eight polling places, accroding to committeeman Charles Traylor.

Each of the 23 candidates in the upcoming election, three running for mayor, 15 for alderman and five for executive committeeman, are eligile to submit one name for each voting place.

Names of commissioners will be announced "soon," Traylor said.

"We believe," said the brief, "that the interests of the community and its inhabitants of all races will be served by awaiting submission of a plan from a fully elected school board."

GIANT VINE FOR SALE

KIPPEN, Scotland (AP)—Duncan Buchanan, owner of the famous Kippen grape vine started by his father 71 years ago, has put the giant growth up for sale because he has no male descendants to look after it.

Promotion Due For Goldwater

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy has sent to the Senate a routine promotion for Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., to the rank of major general in the Air Force Reserve.

Goldwater, a World War II ferry command pilot, heads an Air Force Reserve unit made up of members of Congress and staff assistants with Reserve commissions.

Goldwater has qualified for piloting latest types of military jets.

SAY CRISIS NOT OVER

Berlin GIs Rap Guard Gripers

BERLIN (UPI) — American GI's stationed in this Communist-encircled city have little respect for any soldiers who want to get out of the Army because they think the Berlin crisis is over.

"The crisis isn't over and anyone who says so is foolish," said Spec. 4-C Clarence Riley, 20, of New Orleans.

Riley and other U. S. soldiers told United Press International how they felt about the protests staged at Fort Bragg, N. C., and Fort Polk, La., by reservists complaining over being kept on active duty. Some of the reservists claim the Berlin crisis has passed.

Riley himself was hit by the Pentagon order which extended military service for many Berlin garrison soldiers.

"It was necessary," he said with a shrug. "Plenty of us would rather be home, too. It's tough sometimes on guys settled into civilian life, but we've all got an obligation to defend our country. If President Kennedy gives in to the gripers a lot of guys around here will feel pretty sore and let down."

Sgt. N. A. Smith, 25, of San Diego, Calif., said "the rest of the world would think we were stupid and pretty naive if we relax now."

Pfc. Jerry Patterson, 21, of Bethel Springs, Tenn., who is stationed at Giessen in West Germany, toured the Communist wall dividing West from East Berlin.

"If we ease up now that wall is going to move clear across West Berlin, then right up to the end of the Berlin Autobahn and there's no telling where it will stop," he said.

Auxiliary Holds Planning Session

The Northeast Louisiana Homebuilders auxiliary met Thursday night in the Rendezvous restaurant and made plans for future activities.

Preliminary plans were discussed for a spring dance, as well as the April candy sale and other means of raising funds to benefit the Hope Bettylon Scholarship fund.

Mrs. Gerri Gross, president, said the group hoped to receive wide support for the candy sale, "in order to secure as much as possible for this worthwhile scholarship fund."

Mrs. Diddie Butler, Mrs. Helen Ketchell and Mrs. Sunshine Hazel will be hostesses at the April meeting which is scheduled at the Paragon Club. Members attending the meeting included Mrs. Mary Bradford, Mrs. Dittie Butler, Mrs. Blanche Gates, Mrs. Boyce Gibson, Mrs. Geri Gross, Mrs. Yvonne Gross, Mrs. Helen Ketchell, Mrs. Mildred Zeagler, and Mrs. E. C. Bess.

HERE is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you. 3-10

Voice Of Broadway

By Dorothy Kilgallen

Rock Hudson is most likely to succeed in getting the Sir Lancelot role in "Camelot" — the part originated on Broadway by Robert Goulet — when the hit musical is made into a movie. . . . Comedian Bernie Allen is conferring with his friend and booster Martha Raye, and they must do an act together. Martha has been quoted as saying he's the funniest man since W. C. Fields. . . .

Gary Crosby and Desi Arnaz didn't form any lasting friendship the other night at the Friars' testimonial dinner. Gary didn't appreciate Desi's heckling — the other guests agreed it wasn't that funny — and Bing's boy won out in the exchange. Although Edie Adams bowed out of the starring role in "Venus at Large" because of her sudden widowhood, don't be surprised if she turns up in the Feuer and Martin musical comedy, "Little Me" . . . "Lizzie Borden," a song that's made quite a hit as done by the Chad Mitchell Trio, has been banned by several top TV shows — among them the "Bell Telephone Hour." It's considered "too controversial."

THE MOST INTERESTING SIDELIGHT TO the tragic crash of the jet plane that went down on Glenn - Day in New York was the discovery that Alton "Pete" Jones was carrying more than $60,000 in cash when disaster came. Granted he was a millionaire, and could afford as much pocket money as he felt like toting, but his credit would have been honored any place he was going, any merchant would be happy to accept his personal check if he impulsively purchased a Renoir and his office could have telegraphed him thousands of dollars in a matter of a couple of hours if he wired home for money.

Figure out, if you can, how anyone needs that much money for tips and souvenirs for a brief trip. (And Mr. Jones was a big tipper; at Christmas time he'd think nothing of dropping into a favorite New York restaurant and leaving a $1,000 bill to be split among the waiters and captains who had served him during the year.)

"SATAN IN HIGH HEELS," which opens at the Forum Theatre on Broadway late this month, will prove fascinating to photography buffs. Cameraman Bernard Herschensen, who has never before filmed a feature movie, has devised some of the softest, most sensuous pictorial effects ever seen on the screen . . . . Hoagy Carmichael doesn't let New York affect his mode of dress. He made his entrance at the elegant Colony wearing a suntan, a camel - colored coat and checkered shirt. And the pretty brunette with him didn't seem to mind at all that checkered shirts simply aren't worn at the Colony . . . .

Cuba now is as much as Iron Curtain country as Hungary. And all the MIGs and bombs and other military hardware sent there by the Kremlin aren't entirely designed to be used against the United States. They're also ready to quell any uprising by the people of Cuba, if they decide to rebel against their Communist masters. They'll get the same treatment the Hungarian freedom fighters got.

Several of the "ban nuclear testing" peace demonstrators who staged a sit - down strike in Times Square to protest President Kennedy's decision aren't as peace - loving as they seem. High police officials have dossiers on some of them, indicating they're pro - Red agitators from 'way back. (One woman's opinion: I don't get the psychology of the mother who wants to protect the world against fallout, but doesn't mind exposing her very small child to pneumonia by dragging it into the fracas in freezing weather. The newspapers printed a picture of one such nuclear-age madonna, and it wasn't very pretty. If her ideals compelled her to fight a losing battle against the nation's policy — because you know President Kennedy and other decision - makers aren't going to pay any attention to HER — she should have parked her toddler with her mother, or the neighbors.)

Kim Kovak figures to make $500,000 from her "Boys Night Out" deal, which was $500,000 plus a percentage . . . . Jack Gleason plans to do "Papa's Delicate Condition" as soon as he's made final plans for his TV variety hour in the Fall . . . Go ahead and cry. Mickey Cohen, the gangster, is said to be broke and the movie stars he "helped" won't pay back the money he says they owe him.

TEMPE, Ariz. (AP)—Dr. Herbert Stanke, Arizona State University biology professor, recently received two preserved scorpions that gave off a peculiar odor.

An attacked note from donor Stanford Stevens explained:

HERE is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you. 3-10

Voice Of Broadway

By Dorothy Kilgallen

Rock Hudson is most likely to succeed in getting the Sir Lancelot role in "Camelot" — the part originated on Broadway by Robert Goulet — when the hit musical is made into a movie. . . . Comedian Bernie Allen is conferring with his friend and booster Martha Raye, and they must do an act together. Martha has been quoted as saying he's the funniest man since W. C. Fields. . . .

Gary Crosby and Desi Arnaz didn't form any lasting friendship the other night at the Friars' testimonial dinner. Gary didn't appreciate Desi's heckling — the other guests agreed it wasn't that funny — and Bing's boy won out in the exchange. Although Edie Adams bowed out of the starring role in "Venus at Large" because of her sudden widowhood, don't be surprised if she turns up in the Feuer and Martin musical comedy, "Little Me" . . . "Lizzie Borden," a song that's made quite a hit as done by the Chad Mitchell Trio, has been banned by several top TV shows — among them the "Bell Telephone Hour." It's considered "too controversial."

THE MOST INTERESTING SIDELIGHT TO the tragic crash of the jet plane that went down on Glenn - Day in New York was the discovery that Alton "Pete" Jones was carrying more than $60,000 in cash when disaster came. Granted he was a millionaire, and could afford as much pocket money as he felt like toting, but his credit would have been honored any place he was going, any merchant would be happy to accept his personal check if he impulsively purchased a Renoir and his office could have telegraphed him thousands of dollars in a matter of a couple of hours if he wired home for money.

Figure out, if you can, how anyone needs that much money for tips and souvenirs for a brief trip. (And Mr. Jones was a big tipper; at Christmas time he'd think nothing of dropping into a favorite New York restaurant and leaving a $1,000 bill to be split among the waiters and captains who had served him during the year.)

"SATAN IN HIGH HEELS," which opens at the Forum Theatre on Broadway late this month, will prove fascinating to photography buffs. Cameraman Bernard Herschensen, who has never before filmed a feature movie, has devised some of the softest, most sensuous pictorial effects ever seen on the screen . . . . Hoagy Carmichael doesn't let New York affect his mode of dress. He made his entrance at the elegant Colony wearing a suntan, a camel - colored coat and checkered shirt. And the pretty brunette with him didn't seem to mind at all that checkered shirts simply aren't worn at the Colony . . . .

Cuba now is as much as Iron Curtain country as Hungary. And all the MIGs and bombs and other military hardware sent there by the Kremlin aren't entirely designed to be used against the United States. They're also ready to quell any uprising by the people of Cuba, if they decide to rebel against their Communist masters. They'll get the same treatment the Hungarian freedom fighters got.

Several of the "ban nuclear testing" peace demonstrators who staged a sit - down strike in Times Square to protest President Kennedy's decision aren't as peace - loving as they seem. High police officials have dossiers on some of them, indicating they're pro - Red agitators from 'way back. (One woman's opinion: I don't get the psychology of the mother who wants to protect the world against fallout, but doesn't mind exposing her very small child to pneumonia by dragging it into the fracas in freezing weather. The newspapers printed a picture of one such nuclear-age madonna, and it wasn't very pretty. If her ideals compelled her to fight a losing battle against the nation's policy — because you know President Kennedy and other decision - makers aren't going to pay any attention to HER — she should have parked her toddler with her mother, or the neighbors.)

Kim Kovak figures to make $500,000 from her "Boys Night Out" deal, which was $500,000 plus a percentage . . . . Jack Gleason plans to do "Papa's Delicate Condition" as soon as he's made final plans for his TV variety hour in the Fall . . . Go ahead and cry. Mickey Cohen, the gangster, is said to be broke and the movie stars he "helped" won't pay back the money he says they owe him.

THIS WAS THE CIVIL WAR

By MERTON T. AKERS
United Press International

Col. Peter J. Osterhaus' Union division — many of them Germans — stared in disbelief at what they saw. This was the Civil War, they reasoned — organized, civilized warfare — not an Indian War.

But what they saw really were Indians — about 3,500 of them— and they were charging on Osterhaus' men, waving tomahawks and scalping knives, firing six-shooters, some shooting arrows and all warwhooping.

Osterhaus' troops took one look and ran.

All that happened at the battle of Pea Ridge (Elkhorn Tavern) March 7-8, 1862 in the northwest corner of Arkansas.

The Indian division of this Confederate Army of the West— Cherokees, Choctaws, Creeks, Chickasaws and Seminoles—was the only unit of its kind to fight in the Civil War. It was organized by Brig. Gen. Albert Pike, a New Englander turned Confederate, poet, explorer and writer and a man of prodigious size with an appetite to match.

In full Indian regalia complete to feathered headdress, Pike had led the Indians from the old Indian Territory (now Oklahoma) riding in a carriage driven by a Negro coachman.

Pike's next in command was Col. (later Brig. Gen.) Stand Watie, a three - quarter blood Cherokee and the only Indian to reach that rank in the Southern army.

It was Watie who led the charge that routed Osterhaus' troops.

His Indians poured down a ridge against the Federals with some Texas cavalry and captured a Union battery. They swarmed around the "shooting wagons" as they called the artillery, whooping, firing and dancing with horse collars around their necks.

Pike tried to reorganize his celebrating Indians as the Federals counterattacked but they preferred to sharpshoot from trees or hunt out Union wagon trains for loot and fall back, more or less in order.

The battle was going better for the Confederates on other parts of the field.

Maj. Gen. Earl Van Dorn, 41, a peppery little West Pointer who had fought in the Mexican War and against the Comanches, was commanding his Confederate Army of the West from an ambulance, too ill to ride his blooded mount because he had rashly swum his horse across an icy river. The horse came through the ducking without injury but Van Dorn was paying the price in chills and fever.

"Soldiers! Behold your leader! He comes to show you the way to glory and immortal renown."

Van Dorn turned his retreating army of Arkansans, Texans, Missourians and Indians northward to face the troops of Brig. Gen. Samuel R. Curtis, 44, West Pointer, civil engineer, lawyer and congressman.

Curtis and his troops had advanced slowly from Rolla, Mo., the railhead, toward Springfield, Mo. which they occupied without a fight Feb. 13, 1862. The winter was uncommonly cold and the roads even worse than usual but Curtis pushed his men on toward the Arkansas - Missouri border. He was well informed about the movements of the Confederates for he had organized a detail of scouts who fanned over the countryside, danced at parties and attended suppers as they gathered information. One of the scouts was "Wild Bill" Hickok, even then becoming a legend.

By March 6 Curtis' army was at Pea Ridge, a series of hills with Elkhorn Tavern at the eastern end. The tavern was a two-story log structure, large for a backwoods community, with a big chimney at each end. Mounted on the rooftree, midway between the chimneys, was a massive pair of elk horns from which the tavern took its name.

Curtis' army was facing south that night when "Wild Bill" and his scouts brought word that the Conefderates were approaching from that direction.

Early on the 7th, Curtis detected the turning movement and about-faced his army. He marched about a mile north to meet the Confederates.

By 10:30 a.m. the battle was on.

The Federal right around Elkhorn Tavern attacked first and made some progress but soon was driven back — 2,500 Unionists against 6,500 Rebels. They repulsed a second determined Confederate attack but by sundown had been driven back south of the tavern.

Brig. Gen. Ben McCulloch in a dove-colored coat, sky blue pants and Wellington boots, took advantage of the Union break on the left and attacked in the center. His advance was successful at first against the Union troops commanded by Jefferson C. Davis, no kin to the Confederate president.

McCulloch, brave to the point of rashness, rode with his skirmishers. The 36th Illinois Infantry was posted behind a rail fence. When McCulloch and his men came into range the 36th gave them a volley. McCulloch was shot off his horse and killed. That night Pvt. Peter Pelican of Co. B, 36th Illinois, displayed a gold watch he had taken off the body of an officer in "sky blue britches" and Wellington boots. He had picked off McCulloch.

Brig. Gen. James M. McIntosh, Mexican War veteran and West Pointer, succeeded to McCulloch's command but he, too, was killed in less than an hour.

That night when the battle died down, Curtis took stock. Obviously the advantage lay with the Confederates. Both McCulloch and McIntosh were dead, Col. Louis Hebert, a Louisiana officer, was captured, Price was wounded — all that added up to the Rebels being hurt, Curtis reasoned. By drawing in his flanks and shortening his lines he felt he could deliver a decisive blow against Van Dorn in the morning.

Sigel deployed his 40 guns and blasted the Confederates on the edge of Pea Ridge. They retreated to the top of the ridge and Sigel's guns blasted them there. Van Dorn threw in reinforcements and they, too, fell before Sigel's artillery. When the Federal infantry went into action their rifled muskets easily outdistanced the Confederate shotguns.

That was the break.

By 11 a.m. the Confederates were retiring in every direction away from the Federals.

Curtis counted his casualties as 203 killed, 980 wounded and 200 missing of 10,000 effectives; Van Dorn, 600 killed and wounded, 200 missing of 14,000.

It would be more than two years before the Confederates mounted another major campaign in Missouri and then the antagonists again would be Curtis and Price.

ELMIRA, N.Y. (AP) — Peace Justice Elwin Brown recalled the time a man was arrasted for driving through a barricade of a road under repair.

"Let's just change places," Brown said. "How do you think— in justice — that I should handle his situation?"

"Well," said the man, "I think a good talking to would do me more good than anything else."

How To Keep Well

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

PRESSURE LOWERING AGENTS

There are many excellent drugs on the market that lower blood pressure but none that corrects the basic cause of primary hypertension. In this respect, we are still at a stage comparable to the way fever was treated 25 years ago. Drugs that lowered temperature were available but nothing like penicillin to kill the causative germs. Despite these drawbacks, we are fortunate in having hypertensive agents that relive symptoms and lower the reading.

The nervous system and the blood pressure appear to be related. Any nervous stimulation will raise the pressure a few points. But the person with primary hypertension has a rise of 10 to 20 points. Constant stress keeps the reading higher than normal levels. No one knows why some men and women are hyper - reactors.

Anything that tends to quiet and relax this group helps decrease blood pressure. This varies from making adjustments in working to the use of sedatives or tranquilizers. The more severe and progressive forms of hypertension are treated with strong drugs that depress or deaden the sympathetic nervous system.

There also is a chemical aspect to blood pressure because elevated readings can be lowered by the use of diuretic drugs. These products encourage the kidneys to eliminate more salt and, in so doing, reduce the amount of fluid in the tissues of the body. Salt, per se, does not raise blood pressure but seems to aggravate the condition when it exists.

Many physicians believe that only certain types of hypertension need treatment. The list includes persons with a severe and progressive condition in which the diastolic pressure is above 120 to 140 mm. Hypertension in young men also is serious and calls for attention.

There is a question whether treatment alters the outcome of the remaining hypertensives, even tho the pressure reading is lowered. After all, the level of the blood pressure is not always a good indication of what is going on. It is what hypertension is doing to the individual that counts. Hypertension along this line is less troublesome to women and older persons. They often live a long life despite the pressure.

PROLONGED BLEEDING TIME

P. S. writes: After every cut and dental extraction I bleed for a long time. The doctor says I don't have hemophilia. Are there any medicines, foods, or other measures that would shorten the bleeding time?

REPLY

You need a diagnosis as there are many other bleeding disorders besides hemophilia. Vitamin K, for example, may be helpful in one type.

ENLARGEMENT OF NOSE

C. I. writs: Why does the nose enlarge during pregnancy?

REPLY

This is news to me. I didn't realize it was the nose that enlarged. The membranes lining the nasal passageway may become congested, leading to symptoms similar to a cold.

ALLERGIC TO FISH

E. M. writes: I cannot eat any kind of fish because of allergy to it. What can I eat as a substitute to give me the same food value?

REPLY

LUMPS IN LOBES

L. P. writes: What would be the explanation of a pea sized lump in each ear lobe? They swell periodically and discharge pus.

REPLY

These lesions may be infected cysts or related to the use of earrings.

THIS WAS THE CIVIL WAR

By MERTON T. AKERS
United Press International

Col. Peter J. Osterhaus' Union division — many of them Germans — stared in disbelief at what they saw. This was the Civil War, they reasoned — organized, civilized warfare — not an Indian War.

But what they saw really were Indians — about 3,500 of them—and they were charging on Osterhaus' men, waving tomahawks and scalping knives, firing six-shooters, some shooting arrows and all warwhooping.

Osterhaus' troops took one look and ran.

All that happened at the battle of Pea Ridge (Elkhorn Tavern) March 7-8, 1862 in the northwest corner of Arkansas.

The Indian division of this Confederate Army of the West—Cherokees, Choctaws, Creeks, Chickasaws and Seminoles—was the only unit of its kind to fight in the Civil War. It was organized by Brig. Gen. Albert Pike, a New Englander turned Confederate, poet, explorer and writer and a man of prodigious size with an appetite to match.

In full Indian regalia complete to feathered headdress, Pike had led the Indians from the old Indian Territory (now Oklahoma) riding in a carriage driven by a Negro coachman.

Pike's next in command was Col. (later Brig. Gen.) Stand Watie, a three - quarter blood Cherokee and the only Indian to reach that rank in the Southern army.

It was Watie who led the charge that routed Osterhaus' troops.

His Indians poured down a ridge against the Federals with some Texas cavalry and captured a Union battery. They swarmed around the "shooting wagons" as they called the artillery, whooping, firing and dancing with horse collars around their necks.

Pike tried to reorganize his celebrating Indians as the Federals counterattacked but they preferred to sharpshoot from trees or hunt out Union wagon trains for loot and fall back, more or less in order.

The battle was going better for the Confederates on other parts of the field.

Maj. Gen. Earl Van Dorn, 41, a peppery little West Pointer who had fought in the Mexican War and against the Comanches, was commanding his Confederate Army of the West from an ambulance, too ill to ride his blooded mount because he had rashly swum his horse across an icy river. The horse came through the ducking without injury but Van Dorn was paying the price in chills and fever.

"Soldiers! Behold your leader! He comes to show you the way to glory and immortal renown."

Van Dorn turned his retreating army of Arkansans, Texans, Missourians and Indians northward to face the troops of Brig. Gen. Samuel R. Curtis, 44, West Pointer, civil engineer, lawyer and congressman.

Curtis and his troops had advanced slowly from Rolla, Mo., the railhead, toward Springfield, Mo. which they occupied without a fight Feb. 13, 1862. The winter was uncommonly cold and the roads even worse than usual but Curtis pushed his men on toward the Arkansas. - Missouri border. He was well informed about the movements of the Confederates for he had organized a detail of scouts who fanned over the countryside, danced at parties and attended suppers as they gathered information. One of the scouts was "Wild Bill" Hickok, even then becoming a legend.

By March 6 Curtis' army was at Pea Ridge, a series of hills with Elkhorn Tavern at the eastern end. The tavern was a two-story log structure, large for a backwoods community, with a big chimney at each end. Mounted on the rooftree, midway between the chimneys, was a massive pair of elk horns from which the tavern took its name.

Curtis' army was facing south that night when "Wild Bill" and his scouts brought word that the Conefderates were approaching from that direction.

Early on the 7th, Curtis detected the turning movement and about-faced his army. He marched about a mile north to meet the Confederates.

By 10:30 a.m. the battle was on.

The Federal right around Elkhorn Tavern attacked first and made some progress but soon was driven back — 2,500 Unionists against 6,500 Rebels. They repulsed a second determined Confederate attack but by sundown had been driven back south of the tavern.

Brig. Gen. Ben McCulloch in a dove-colored coat, sky blue pants and Wellington boots, took advantage of the Union break on the left and attacked in the center. His advance was successful at first against the Union troops commanded by Jefferson C. Davis, no kin to the Confederate president.

McCulloch, brave to the point of rashness, rode with his skirmishers. The 36th Illinois Infantry was posted behind a rail fence. When McCulloch and his men came into range the 36th gave them a volley. McCulloch was shot off his horse and killed. That night Pvt. Peter Pelican of Co. B, 36th Illinois, displayed a gold watch he had taken off the body of an officer in "sky blue britches" and Wellington boots. He had picked off McCulloch.

Brig. Gen. James M. McIntosh, Mexican War veteran and West Pointer, succeeded to McCulloch's command but he, too, was killed in less than an hour.

That night when the battle died down, Curtis took stock. Obviously the advantage lay with the Confederates. Both McCulloch and McIntosh were dead, Col. Louis Hebert, a Louisiana officer, was captured, Price was wounded — all that added up to the Rebels being hurt, Curtis reasoned. By drawing in his flanks and shortening his lines he felt he could deliver a decisive blow against Van Dorn in the morning.

Sigel deployed his 40 guns and blasted the Confederates on the edge of Pea Ridge. They retreated to the top of the ridge and Sigel's guns blasted them there. Van Dorn threw in reinforcements and they, too, fell before Sigel's artillery. When the Federal infantry went into action their rifled muskets easily outdistanced the Confederate shotguns.

That was the break.

By 11 a.m. the Confederates were retiring in every direction away from the Federals.

Curtis counted his casualties as 203 killed, 980 wounded and 200 missing of 10,000 effectives; Van Dorn, 600 killed and wounded, 200 missing of 14,000.

It would be more than two years before the Confederates mounted another major campaign in Missouri and then the antagonists again would be Curtis and Price.

WOULDN'T GET TOUGH

ELMIRA, N.Y. (AP) — Peace Justice Elwin Brown recalled the time a man was arrasted for driving through a barricade of a road under repair.

"Let's just change places," Brown said. "How do you think—in justice — that I should handle his situation?"

"Well," said the man, "I think a good talking to would do me more good than anything else."

How To Keep Well

PRESSURE LOWERING AGENTS

There are many excellent drugs on the market that lower blood pressure but none that corrects the basic cause of primary hypertension. In this respect, we are still at a stage comparable to the way fever was treated 25 years ago. Drugs that lowered temperature were available but nothing like penicillin to kill the causative germs. Despite these drawbacks, we are fortunate in having hypertensive agents that relive symptoms and lower the reading.

The nervous system and the blood pressure appear to be related. Any nervous stimulation will raise the pressure a few points. But the person with primary hypertension has a rise of 10 to 20 points. Constant stress keeps the reading higher than normal levels. No one knows why some men and women are hyper - reactors.

Anything that tends to quiet and relax this group helps decrease blood pressure. This varies from making adjustments in working to the use of sedatives or tranquilizers. The more severe and progressive forms of hypertension are treated with strong drugs that depress or deaden the sympathetic nervous system.

There also is a chemical aspect to blood pressure because elevated readings can be lowered by the use of diuretic drugs. These products encourage the kidneys to eliminate more salt and, in so doing, reduce the amount of fluid in the tissues of the body. Salt, per se, does not raise blood pressure but seems to aggravate the condition when it exists.

Many physicians believe that only certain types of hypertension need treatment. The list includes persons with a severe and progressive condition in which the diastolic pressure is above 120 to 140 mm. Hypertension in young men also is serious and calls for attention.

There is a question whether treatment alters the outcome of the remaining hypertensives, even tho the pressure reading is lowered. After all, the level of the blood pressure is not always a good indication of what is going on. It is what hypertension is doing to the individual that counts. Hypertension along this line is less troublesome to women and older persons. They often live a long life despite the pressure.

PROLONGED BLEEDING TIME

P. S. writes: After every cut and dental extraction I bleed for a long time. The doctor says I don't have hemophilia. Are there any medicines, foods, or other measures that would shorten the bleeding time?

REPLY

You need a diagnosis as there are many other bleeding disorders besides hemophilia. Vitamin K, for example, may be helpful in one type.

ENLARGEMENT OF NOSE

C. I. writs: Why does the nose enlarge during pregnancy?

REPLY

This is news to me. I didn't realize it was the nose that enlarged. The membranes lining the nasal passageway may become congested, leading to symptoms similar to a cold.

ALLERGIC TO FISH

E. M. writes: I cannot eat any kind of fish because of allergy to it. What can I eat as a substitute to give me the same food value?

REPLY

LUMPS IN LOBES

L. P. writes: What would be the explanation of a pea sized lump in each ear lobe? They swell periodically and discharge pus.

REPLY

These lesions may be infected cysts or related to the use of earrings.

Architects See 'Excellent Year' For Construction

Architects forecast an "excellent year" in the construction industry yesterday as Roy Johns was elected president of the Monroe Chapter of the American Institute of Architects.

"We think that the year will be an excellent one for the construction industry in the Monroe area," outgoing president Lon Heuer said.

Johns was elected with Henry Wells, secretary-treasurer, who succeeded John I. Neel.

Their election came at the regular meeting of the chapter at the Frances Hotel yesterday at noon where a program for the coming year was outlined.

Two items in the program call for studies of the federal urban renewal program and the proposed department or urban affairs.

Three Perish In Plane Crash Near Coushatta

COUSHATTA, La. (AP) — Two Texas businessmen and a man from Oklahoma were killed when their light plane crashed Thursday night in a swampy area near this northwest Louisiana town.

Chick left Baton Rouge Thursday en route to Longview. He had exhibited cattle at the Louisiana State University livestock show and earlier in the week had attended the New Orleans Mardi Gras celebration.

ON COMBAT MISSIONS

U.S. Pilots Give Vietnamese Aid

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Military men are flying on combat missions in South Viet Nam to train Vietnamese crews, an authorized U.S. source said Friday.

Sources in Saigon said the Americans were going along on strafing and bombing runs purely as a stopgap measure.

The State Department, in a formal statement, said U.S. Air Force pilots "are working with the Vietnamese, the objective being the training of their pilots and other air force personnel." This statement made no mention of combat missions.

But the Washington source said Americans had gone along on some air strikes against Communist guerrillas in Viet Nam. He said this would be discontinued after the Vietnamese crews become proficient in their work.

He was emphatic that the U.S. personnel had flown none of the missions alone—that they were merely accompanying Vietnamese in training.

The source turned aside questions as to whether Americans were in command of the flights. A dispatch from Viet Nam said they were.

Meanwhile, State Department Press Officer Joseph Reap read this formal response to questions on the subject:

"As has been said on several occasions we are helping the Vietnamese at their request in their struggle to preserve the independence of their country against Communist aggression.

"Our role is that of advising and training the Vietnamese defense forces and also to provide support in logistics and supply.

"In training and advising the Vietnamese air force, U.S. pilots are working with Vietnamese, the objective being the training of their pilots and other air free personnel."

Reap added, after reading the statement, "this is not a U.S. war. This is a Vietnamese war and we are helping them in that effort."

President Kennedy said at his Feb. 14 news conference that the U.S. military was playing purely a logistic and training role in the southeast Asian country. He said:

"We have not sent combat troops there, though the training missions that we have there have been instructed if they are fired upon to . . . fire back to protect themselves."

With Viet Nam under increasing Communist attack, the United States has been stepping up its military aid to the country. The number of American military personnel there has been estimated at between 3,000 and 4,000.

Engineering Use Urged For Clothing

By WALTER LOGAN
United Press International

NEW YORK (UPI) — Stanley J. Capelin was pretty sore. He had paid $195 for a ready-made suit and then was charged $9 for alterations. So he decided to revolutionize another phase of the men's clothing field.

Capelin is a management and consultant engineer and when he goes about revolutionizing an industry such terms as "product-oriented planning" and "conveyorization" roll off his tongue as he sets about producing something faster, better and for less money.

"Our object," he said, "is more uniform quality, higher standards and a lower cost product. And we are getting a better commodity at a lower cost with improved wages and yet at a lower cost per garment."

Capelin is head of S. J. Capelin Associates with offices in New York and Geneva, Switzerland, and has a corps of 70 production and management engineers who operate as consultants through the United States and Puerto Rico as well as in every western European country.

He once showed the ladies' garment industry how to turn out skirts in one plant five times faster than in similar plants merely by arranging things a little more scientifically. More recently he showed the National Association of Shirt, Pajama and Sportswear Manufacturers a pattern reduction system saving thousands of dollars in time and eliminating fabric waste.

In 1930 industrial engineers created a system that could produce trousers in 35 minutes and a dress shirt in 16. Capelin and his engineers went to work on that and showed how trousers could be made in 10 minutes.

He urges manufacturers to streamline operations and get rid of the old status quo, the "disorderliness that marks both the care and maintenance of both work and equipment." Otherwise, he said, they cannot compete with wages in Spain of 10 cents an hour, 20 cents in the Netherlands, 50 cents in West Germany.

"If United States garment manufacturing is to maintain its supremacy in the world market, and if individual companies are to survive and prosper, they must eschew the traditional, trial-and-error approach to production in favor of the proven methods of scientific management," he said.

"Through specialization we are so product-oriented most of us engineers are almost tailors," he said. "You have to be a tailor befor you are an engineer — the tailors give us a hard time. Perish the thought that a manufacturer of ties would think you know anything about apparel unless you know more about it than he does."

Which brings up the $9 charge for altering one of his own suits and what he called his supreme annoyance. A survey to see what could be done about cutting alteration costs was begun in the Kauffman Department Store in Pittsburgh.

"It has reached a point where we can identify the store even if it is not a fait accompli," he said. He explained the whole move was to cut down the consumer wait for an alteration to be completed, to cut down store costs and to save the customer money.

"It took a man on a bench to alter a garment," he said. "Now we break it down into specialized operations. Three or four girls will go to work on alterations, each with a specialized skill. And although each would have less skill (than a tailor) standards of production are higher and faster. It is like a barber shop where one person goes to work on your hair, another on your shoes and another on your nails."

Times Change—Hanging Room Is For Storing

Ouachita Police jury purchasing committee members inspected the newly-painted parish jail Friday afternoon, and found two contrasting rooms.

Thirteen steps upward lead to the hanging room, now converted to a storeroom. Still suspended from the ceiling is the metal circle that the hangman's rope was attached to. Directly below, and now welded together, is the old trap door.

In direct contrast is parish pysician Dr. John P. Burton's examination room, well-stocked with medical supplies.

"All prisoners have the privilege to see the doctor for any complaint," explained Deputy Sheriff J. W. Welch. "Dr. Burton is here three times a week. I personally ask each prisoner if he needs to see the doctor."

Negroes Booked In West Monroe

West Monroe police booked two Negroes Friday night, charging one with issuing worthless checks and the second with disturbing the peace by appearing in public in an intoxicated condition and carrying a concealed weapon.

Picked up on a warrant on the check charge was 40 year old Willie E. DeBurr, 619 Riggs St., West Monroe, who was free after posting bond of $250. The warrant was sworn by E. L. Spillers of the Tillman Oil Company.

Booked at 11 p.m. for disturbing the peace and carrying a concealed weapon was C. C. Scott, 28, of Chatham. He is being held under bond of $100.

City Officials Named To Posts

NEW ORLEANS (Special) — Two Monroe officials were elected to offices in their state organizations at conventions here in conjunction with the Louisiana Municipal Association's meeting.

Haynes L. Harkey Jr., Monroe city attorney, was named president of the state City Attorneys' Association and Mel J. Cook, Monroe city clerk, was named secretary-treasurer of the state City Clerks' Association.

Bonn Intends To Relieve Soviet Envoy

BONN, Germany (AP) — The West German Foreign Office said Friday night it intends to relieve its controversial ambassador to Moscow, Hans Kroll.

The 63-year-old envoy was called back to Bonn last week after it was reported he had proposed his government should recognize the Oder-Neisse line that forms Poland's western border. Kroll has been known as a strong advocate of closer relations between Bonn and Moscow.

The Foreign Office said in a statement that Kroll denied the Oder-Neisse report in an interview with Foreign Minister Gerhard Schroeder.

"He regrets that statements he made on Eastern policy were misunderstood," said the Foreign Office statement. "In the conversation, Dr. Kroll declared he was in full agreement with the Eastern policy of the federal government."

Nevertheless, the Foreign Office said it intends to relieve him of the Moscow post and assign him to the Foreign Office in Bonn as an adviser on Eastern policy. The statement said Kroll will take a vacation, then return to Moscow before being recalled home.

The uproar over Kroll marked the second time in four months that the ambassador became involved in controversy.

Last November he was recalled to Bonn to explain reports of proposals he allegedly made to Premier Khrushchev on Berlin and Germany which did not conform to government policy. On that occasion Chancellor Konrad Adenauer exonerated him after he denied the reports.

Kennedy Shows No Concern On Defense Strikes

WASHINGTON (UPI)— President Kennedy apparently does not share the concern of two senators over strikes at missile bases, it was learned Friday.

Sen. John L. McClellan, D-Ark., and Sen. Karl E. Mundt, R-S.D., Thursday warned labor unions that they would seek legislation to outlaw strikes at defense installations unless there were fewer walkouts at the missile sites.

Blast Set Off At Berlin Wall

West Berlin police said an explosive charge was set off about three feet from the wall on the Western side of the border in the Kreuzberg district shortly after 10 p.m.

A policeman said the blast knocked a chunk out of the wall and shattered some of the stone blocks but did not blow a hole in the wall.

ELMER D. FRANK

Woman Tells Sheriff Of Ride, Theft

The Ouachita Parish sheriff's department had two local women in custody Friday after a third one told a strange story about a ride to Camp Ki-Ro-Li where she was beaten and robbed.

Held in parish jail under bond of $1,000 each in connection with the incident, according to Sheriff Bailey Grant, were Mrs. Jean Henderson, 211 Stella St., and Mrs. Linda Holley, 515 Alabama St., each 20 years of age. Both are charged with simple robbery.

Deputies quoted Eunice Chapman, 23, who gave her address as a local hotel, as saying the pair picked her up yesterday morning at the hotel to take her for a ride.

On arrival at the big Boy Scout camping reservation near West Monroe, however, Miss Chapman, according to her statement, was ordered from the car, told to remove her blouse and informed she was to be beaten up. Deputies said Friday afternoon it appeared she had been struck several times in the face.

After the alleged beating, the Henderson and Holley women are reported to have driven away, after first removing $6 from Miss Chapman's wallet which had been left on the car seat.

They threw the wallet away at Ki-Ro-Li, officers said, but later led deputies back to the spot. The victim's blouse was found on North Eleventh Street in West Monroe.

Newspaper Keeps Troops Informed

The production manager of the European edition of the service newspaper "Stars and Stripes," visiting here yesterday, said the publication is a necessary undertaking because it is the "best medium of keeping the troops informed."

Elmer D. Frank, who arrived here Wednesday and was scheduled to leave town this morning, visited with his uncle, Frank Schallo, News - Star — World advertising counselor.

Frank, in charge of the mechanical operation of the newspaper, which has its offices located at Darmstadt, Germany, prints four editions each day, seven days per week.

He said 170,000 copies of the newspaper are printed each day for distribution to service personnel only. The publication is distributed throughout the free European mainland, Turkey, Iran, Sudan, Libya, Morocco and the British Isles.

The paper, a familiar sight to GI's during World War II, has greatly expanded its operations since the 1940's, according to Frank.

He said the paper now operates with "much later equipment" and aims for "breakfast room" sales to all service points.

U. S. servicemen work along side German nationals, civilian Americans, Dutch, Scots and English in producing the newspaper, Frank said. The paper serves the Army, Navy and Air Force units in Europe.

It pays for itself through sales of the paper itself and job printing operations. Frank noted that in addition to numerous bureaus, both the Associated Press and United Press International service the publication.

The newspaper carries no editorials since it comes under the jurisdiction of the United States government.

Cubans Get Communist Ruling Board

HAVANA (UPI) — Ten top Cuban Communists were named Friday to a 25-man national board to convert the Integrated Revolutionary Organizations (IRO) to a Soviet-type single political party.

The IRO presently functions as a Cuban politburo. When it becomes the "United Party of the Cuban Socialist Revolution," it will have achieved the unilateral status of the Russian Communist party.

Membership will be limited, as in Russia, to a comparatively select few or, as the official announcement put it, "to the best Cuban men and women." One woman was named a board member.

Premier Fidel Castro was listed as titular head of the board. Its Communist party veterans include Blas Roca, Carlos Rafael Rodriguez, the Escalante brothers, Anibal and Cesar, and Lazaro Pena. They are Moscow-trained party veterans of from 18 to 35 years experience in Cuba.

Not named to the board was Juan Marinello, aged and ailing Cuban Communist party president. Marinello, whose eyesight has been failing, was named recently as rector of Havana University.

However, Marinello was the only member of the Cuban Communist party hierarchy to be passed over. Other veteran Communists named to the national board included Severo Aguirre, Flavoi Bravo and Joaquin Ordoqui. The young blood in the Cuban Communist world is represented by Ernesto (Che) Guevara, Maj. Raul Castro, Maj. Juan Almeida and Education Minister Armando Hart and his wife, Mrs. Haydee Santamaria Hart.

The board has at least one representative from each of the revolutionary groups comprising the IRO. It includes 14 members of Castro's original 26th of July movement, only 5 of whom, however, participated in his 82-man invasion of Cuba from Mexico to combat the Batista dictatorship in 1956.

Architects See 'Excellent Year' For Construction

Architects forecast an "excellent year" in the construction industry yesterday as Roy Johns was elected president of the Monroe Chapter of the American Institute of Architects.

"We think that the year will be an excellent one for the construction industry in the Monroe area," outgoing president Lon Heuer said.

Johns was elected with Henry Wells, secretary-treasurer, who succeeded John I. Neel.

Their election came at the regular meeting of the chapter at the Frances Hotel yesterday at noon where a program for the coming year was outlined.

Two items in the program call for studies of the federal urban renewal program and the proposed department or urban affairs.

Three Perish In Plane Crash Near Coushatta

COUSHATTA, La. (AP) — Two Texas businessmen and a man from Oklahoma were killed when their light plane crashed Thursday night in a swampy area near this northwest Louisiana town.

Chick left Baton Rouge Thursday en route to Longview. He had exhibited cattle at the Louisiana State University livestock show and earlier in the week had attended the New Orleans Mardi Gras celebration.

ON COMBAT MISSIONS

U.S. Pilots Give Vietnamese Aid

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Military men are flying on combat missions in South Viet Nam to train Vietnamese crews, an authorized U.S. source said Friday.

Sources in Saigon said the Americans were going along on strafing and bombing runs purely as a stopgap measure.

The State Department, in a formal statement, said U.S. Air Force pilots "are working with the Vietnamese, the objective being the training of their pilots and other air force personnel." This statement made no mention of combat missions.

But the Washington source said Americans had gone along on some air strikes against Communist guerrillas in Viet Nam. He said this would be discontinued after the Vietnamese crews become proficient in their work.

He was emphatic that the U.S. personnel had flown none of the missions alone—that they were merely accompanying Vietnamese in training.

The source turned aside questions as to whether Americans were in command of the flights. A dispatch from Viet Nam said they were.

Meanwhile, State Department Press Officer Joseph Reap read this formal response to questions on the subject:

"As has been said on several occasions we are helping the Vietnamese at their request in their struggle to preserve the independence of their country against Communist aggression.

"Our role is that of advising and training the Vietnamese defense forces and also to provide support in logistics and supply.

"In training and advising the Vietnamese air force, U.S. pilots are working with Vietnamese, the objective being the training of their pilots and other air frce personnel."

Reap added, after reading the statement, "this is not a U.S. war. This is a Vietnamese war and we are helping them in that effort."

President Kennedy said at his Feb. 14 news conference that the U.S. military was playing purely a logistic and training role in the southeast Asian country. He said:

"We have not sent combat troops there, though the training missions that we have there have been instructed if they are fired upon to . . . fire back to protect themselves."

With Viet Nam under increasing Communist attack, the United States has been stepping up its military aid to the country. The number of American military personnel there has been estimated at between 3,000 and 4,000.

Engineering Use Urged For Clothing

By WALTER LOGAN
United Press International

NEW YORK (UPI) — Stanley J. Capelin was pretty sore. He had paid $195 for a ready-made suit and then was charged $9 for alterations. So he decided to revolutionize another phase of the men's clothing field.

Capelin is a management and consultant engineer and when he goes about revolutionizing an industry such terms as "product-oriented planning" and "conveyorization" roll off his tongue as he sets about producing something faster, better and for less money.

"Our object," he said, "is more uniform quality, higher standards and a lower cost product. And we are getting a better commodity at a lower cost with improved wages and yet at a lower cost per garment."

Capelin is head of S. J. Capelin Associates with offices in New York and Geneva, Switzerland, and has a corps of 70 production and management engineers who operate as consultants through the United States and Puerto Rico as well as in every western European country.

He once showed the ladies' garment industry how to turn out skirts in one plant five times faster than in similar plants merely by arranging things a little more scientifically. More recently he showed the National Association of Shirt, Pajama and Sportswear Manufacturers a pattern reduction system saving thousands of dollars in time and eliminating fabric waste.

In 1930 industrial engineers created a system that could produce trousers in 35 minutes and a dress shirt in 16. Capelin and his engineers went to work on that and showed how trousers could be made in 10 minutes.

He urges manufacturers to streamline operations and get rid of the old status quo, the "disorderliness that marks both the care and maintenance of both work and equipment." Otherwise, he said, they cannot compete with wages in Spain of 10 cents an hour, 20 cents in the Netherlands, 50 cents in West Germany.

"If United States garment manufacturing is to maintain its supremacy in the world market, and if individual companies are to survive and prosper, they must eschew the traditional, trial-and-error approach to production in favor of the proven methods of scientific management," he said.

"Through specialization we are so product-oriented most of us engineers are almost tailors," he said. "You have to be a tailor befor you are an engineer — the tailors give us a hard time. Perish the thought that a manufacturer of ties would think you know anything about apparel unless you know more about it than he does."

Which brings up the $9 charge for altering one of his own suits and what he called his supreme annoyance. A survey to see what could be done about cutting alteration costs was begun in the Kauffman Department Store in Pittsburgh.

"It has reached a point where we can identify the store even if it is not a fait accompli," he said. He explained the whole move was to cut down the consumer wait for an alteration to be completed, to cut down store costs and to save the customer money.

"It took a man on a bench to alter a garment," he said. "Now we break it down into specialized operations. Three or four girls will go to work on alterations, each with a specialized skill. And although each would have less skill (than a tailor) standards of production are higher and faster. It is like a barber shop where one person goes to work on your hair, another on your shoes and another on your nails."

Times Change—Hanging Room Is For Storing

Ouachita Police jury purchasing committee members inspected the newly-painted parish jail Friday afternoon, and found two contrasting rooms.

Thirteen steps upward lead to the hanging room, now converted to a storeroom. Still suspended from the ceiling is the metal circle that the hangman's rope was attached to. Directly below, and now welded together, is the old trap door.

In direct contrast is parish pysician Dr. John P. Burton's examination room, well-stocked with medical supplies.

"All prisoners have the privilege to see the doctor for any complaint," explained Deputy Sheriff J. W. Welch. "Dr. Burton is here three times a week. I personally ask each prisoner if he needs to see the doctor."

Negroes Booked In West Monroe

West Monroe police booked two Negroes Friday night, charging one with issuing worthless checks and the second with disturbing the peace by appearing in public in an intoxicated condition and carrying a concealed weapon.

Picked up on a warrant on the check charge was 40 year old Willie E. DeBurr, 619 Riggs St., West Monroe, who was free after posting bond of $250. The warrant was sworn by E. L. Spillers of the Tillman Oil Company.

Booked at 11 p.m. for disturbing the peace and carrying a concealed weapon was C. C. Scott, 28, of Chatham. He is being held under bond of $100.

City Officials Named To Posts

NEW ORLEANS (Special) — Two Monroe officials were elected to offices in their state organizations at conventions here in conjunction with the Louisiana Municipal Association's meeting.

Haynes L. Harkey Jr., Monroe city attorney, was named president of the state City Attorneys' Association and Mel J. Cook, Monroe city clerk, was named secretary-treasurer of the state City Clerks' Association.

Bonn Intends To Relieve Soviet Envoy

BONN, Germany (AP) — The West German Foreign Office said Friday night it intends to relieve its controversial ambassador to Moscow, Hans Kroll.

The 63-year-old envoy was called back to Bonn last week after it was reported he had proposed his government should recognize the Oder-Neisse line that forms Poland's western border. Kroll has been known as a strong advocate of closer relations between Bonn and Moscow.

The Foreign Office said in a statement that Kroll denied the Oder-Neisse report in an interview with Foreign Minister Gerhard Schroeder.

"He regrets that statements he made on Eastern policy were misunderstood," said the Foreign Office statement. "In the conversation, Dr. Kroll declared he was in full agreement with the Eastern policy of the federal government."

Nevertheless, the Foreign Office said it intends to relieve him of the Moscow post and assign him to the Foreign Office in Bonn as an adviser on Eastern policy. The statement said Kroll will take a vacation, then return to Moscow before being recalled home.

The uproar over Kroll marked the second time in four months that the ambassador became involved in controversy.

Last November he was recalled to Bonn to explain reports of proposals he allegedly made to Premier Khrushchev on Berlin and Germany which did not conform to government policy. On that occasion Chancellor Konrad Adenauer exonerated him after he denied the reports.

Kennedy Shows No Concern On Defense Strikes

WASHINGTON (UPI)— President Kennedy apparently does not share the concern of two senators over strikes at missile bases, it was learned Friday.

Sen. John L. McClellan, D-Ark., and Sen. Karl E. Mundt, R-S.D., Thursday warned labor unions that they would seek legislation to outlaw strikes at defense installations unless there were fewer walkouts at the missile sites.

Blast Set Off At Berlin Wall

West Berlin police said an explosive charge was set off about three feet from the wall on the Western side of the border in the Kreuzberg district shortly after 10 p.m.

A policeman said the blast knocked a chunk out of the wall and shattered some of the stone blocks but did not blow a hole in the wall.

Woman Tells Sheriff Of Ride, Theft

The Ouachita Parish sheriff's department had two local women in custody Friday after a third one told a strange story about a ride to Camp Ki-Ro-Li where she was beaten and robbed.

Held in parish jail under bond of $1,000 each in connection with the incident, according to Sheriff Bailey Grant, were Mrs. Jean Henderson, 211 Stella St., and Mrs. Linda Holley, 515 Alabama St., each 20 years of age. Both are charged with simple robbery.

Deputies quoted Eunice Chapman, 23, who gave her address as a local hotel, as saying the pair picked her up yesterday morning at the hotel to take her for a ride.

On arrival at the big Boy Scout camping reservation near West Monroe, however, Miss Chapman, according to her statement, was ordered from the car, told to remove her blouse and informed she was to be beaten up. Deputies said Friday afternoon it appeared she had been struck several times in the face.

After the alleged beating, the Henderson and Holley women are reported to have driven away, after first removing $6 from Miss Chapman's wallet which had been left on the car seat.

They threw the wallet away at Ki-Ro-Li, officers said, but later led deputies back to the spot. The victim's blouse was found on North Eleventh Street in West Monroe.

Baseball Opens Exhibition Slate

Pre-Season Trouble List Led By Reds

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer

Swelled by the addition of New York and Houston to the National League, major league baseball begins an expanded exhibition program Saturady that will provide the final test for managers confronted with unsettled problems.

Heading the list of problem-plagued field bosses is Fred Hutchinson, the amiable Cincinnati manager who guided the long-shot Reds to their first NL flag in 20 years during the 1961 season by successfully fusing outstanding veterans and a host of unwanted castoffs.

SATURDAY'S GAMES

Milwaukee vs. Detroit at Lakeland
New York (N) vs. St. Louis at St. Petersburg
Philadelphia vs. Minesota at Orlando
Pittsburgh vs. Washington at Fort Myers
Chicago (N) vs. Boston at Mesa
Houston vs. Los Angeles (A) at Palm Springs
San Francisco vs. Cleveland at Tucson

SUNDAY'S SCHEDULE

Milwaukee vs. Detroit at Bradenton, Fla.
New York (N) vs. St. Louis at St. Petersburg
Philadelphia vs. Minnesota at Clearwater
Pittsburgh vs. Washington at Fort Myers
Chicago (N) vs. Boston at Scottsdale
Houston vs. Los Angeles (A) at Palm Springs
San Francisco vs. Cleveland at Phoenix
New York (N) vs Baltimore at Miami

Freese fractured an ankle in the spring's most serious accident so far and will be lost to the Reds for at least three months.

Chief contender for the berth is Cliff Cook, outstanding prospect promoted from Indianapolis where he hit .311 with 32 home runs and 119 runs batted in. If Cook is unable to make it, Hutch may have to switch outfielder Frank Robinson to the infield.

While the Reds hold the NL spotlight, most attention in the American League will be centered at Fort Lauderdale, Fla., where the world champion New York Yankees, and home run king Roger Maris, will make their debut and continue looking for a shortstop.

The Yankees were dealt a stiff blow when shortstop Tony Kubek was called into the service by Uncle Sam during a defense build-up that found 23 major leaguers trading their flannels for khaki. Vying for the vacancy are rookies Phil Linz and Tom Tresh.

The Yankees open against Baltimore with three young members of the pitching staff—Bill Stafford, Ralph Terry and Jim Coates—scheduled to hurl. The Orioles will start left-hander Billy Hoeft, hopeful of taking up the slack left when southpaw Steve Barber went into the armed forces.

The Orioles, who also lost shortstop Ron Hanson to Uncle Sam, are giving Hoeft a full trial off his 7-4 record in relief after he was acquired from the Detroit Tigers. Barber was the top winner for the Birds last season with 18 wins.

The remainder of the schedule shows Los Angeles (N) vs. Kansas City at Vero Beach, Fla.; Milwaukee vs. Detroit at Lakeland, Fla.; Philadelphia vs. Minnesota at Orlando, Fla.; Pittsburgh vs. Washington at Fort Myers, Fla.; Chicago (N) vs. Boston at Mesa, Ariz., and San Francisco vs. Cleveland at Tucson, Ariz.

The Mets likely will go with two former Dodgers—Roger Craig and Clem Labine—as their pitchers against the Cards while Bob Bruce is slated to start for the Colts in their opener with the Angels.

Lindy McDaniel, who slumped to a 10-6 record and a big 4.88 earned run average after he was a vital stopper in 1960, will get his first test for the Cards while Eli Grba probably will tackle the opening assignment for the Angels.

St. Aloysius Upsets Baton Rouge, 55-52

SHREVEPORT, La. (AP)—Two defending champions were upset and a rematch of last year's double-A finals were assured as the state's prep basketball tourney completed semi-final play Friday night.

Triple-A defending titlist Baton Rouge was stunned by St. Aloysius 55-52 in an overtime contest and Newman of New Orleans — the defending class A champion — fell to Oakdale 58-52.

St. Aloysius, second-place finisher in the New Orleans Catholic School district in regular season play, will meet that district's first place finisher, De La Salle, Saturday night for the triple-A championship.

In the second game of Friday's afternoon round, French Settlement moved into the class C finals by defeating Ebarb 54-44. French Settlement will meet defending champion Athens for the title Saturday.

Three other semi-finals in Class AA, A and B were scheduled for Friday night. All five state championships will be decided Saturday.

St. Aloysius jumped into a 17-15 first quarter lead and increased the margin to 35-27 at halftime. But Baton Rouge outscored Aloysius 10-2 in the third quarter to tie the score at 35-35 and the regulation game ended 46-46.

James Little paced French Settlement with 21 points while Carroll Sepulvado was tops for Ebarb with 20. French Settlement will carry a 26-12 record into the finals while Ebarb bowed out with a 30-10 season record.

In other games, Natchitoches defeated Baton Rouge Redemptorist 65-52 to gain the finals in double-A competition for the second straight year, Florien downed St. Francisville 59-50 in class B and French Settlement whipped Ebarb 54-44 in class C.

The state championships in the five prep classes will be decided Saturday, beginning with the class C games between Athens, the defending champion, and French Settlement.

Florien meets Colfax for the class B title, Oakdale and West Lake battle for the class A crown; Natchitoches and defending titlist Ruston duel for the double-A title and St. Aloysius and De La Salle—bitter rivals in the New Orleans Catholic league—meet for the triple-A championship.

In the night session, Friday, Oakdale led Newman all the way to upset the New Orleans champions with Frank Brown hitting 26 points for Oakdale, the highest barrage of the tourney. Bob Lane's 14 points topped Newman. Oakdale is now 28-8 while Newman closed with a 27-7 mark.

David Clark pumped in 18 points to pace Natchitoches over Redemptorist, whose John Lambert got 12. Natchitoches carries a 25-3 record into the finals with arch-rival Ruston. Redemptorist ended 23-11.

Bob Leake was high for St. Francisville with 25 points while Billy Ochiltree hit 20 for victorious Florien, which now is 43-5 while St. Francisville bowed out with a 25-4 mark.

The second day attendance of 2,995 brought the tournament total to 5,463. Last year, with a Shreveport team participating, the two-day total was 7,228. High school commissioner T. H. (Muddy) Waters said: "We are approximately $1,500 below last year after the semifinals but feel very optimistic about Saturday's championship crown. We should make that up and maybe come out a little ahead of last year."

Tulane Beats LSU, Kerwin Breaks Mark

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Jim Kerwin broke Tulane's individual season scoring record for the second straight year Friday night and became the first Greenie to score 1,000 points in two varsity seasons as he led the Wave to an 84-69 Southeastern Conference victory over arch-rival Louisiana State.

Kerwin, a 6-foot-3 junior from Long Branch, N. J., was held to 10 points in the first half by a collapsing LSU defense but poured 21 points through the net in the second half to bring his 1961-62 total to 509 points. His old record of 493 points last season gives him a total of 1,002 2ith one season left.

The outcome of the game was never in doubt after 6-foot-9 Jack Arond, who had a torrid first half, paced Tulane to a 41-24 intermission lead. Ardon, playing his final varsity game, made eight of nine field goal attempts and four free throws for 20 points in the first half. He wound up with 24 points for the night.

Paced by George Nattin, LSU pressed the Greenies all over the floor in the second half and cut the margin to 74-67 before Tulane pulled away again. Nattin ended the evening with 17 points, all but two in the second half.

A key factor was the continued fouling by LSU which leads the nation in personal fouls. The Tigers made 24 personals and Tulane converted 28 of 35 free throws.

It was the final game of the season for both teams. Tulane ended with 13 victories in 23 games, including a 6-9 SEC record. LSU won 14 and lost 11, splitting its 14 SEC contests.

Ardon, one of four seniors on Tulane's team, ended his 3-year career with 1,106 points, making him the third highest scorer in the school's history.

Knicks Swamp Los Angeles In 122-100 Win

NEW YORK (AP) — The New York Knicks, NBA Eastern Division cellar dwellers, closed out their best home court season in three years Friday night by defeating the Los Angeles Lakers, Western Division pennant winners, 122-100, before 4,138 in Madison Square Garden.

The Knicks staged 16-3 spurts in each of the first two quarters to open a second period 25-point margin, 53-28. They outscored the Lakers, 17-6 in a third quarter burst to take a 30-point lead, 77-47.

Richie Guerin and Johnny Green scored nine straight Knick points in the next 70 seconds to stop the Laker rally.

Davenport Slowed

OPEN 11-GAME CARD

Northeast Frosh Play Ouachita 9

"A lot of these boys will see frequent action on the varsity and all of them are good future prospects," Luffey said. "These boys need experience, however, and we have lined up a fine schedule against some outstanding high school teams."

Bess played high school baseball at Byrd High in Shreveport and then served a stint in the air force.

Either basketball star Jerry Salley of Pleasant Hill or Gladden Hearn of Farmerville will catch for the Indians with former Menard star Don Boniol set for first base. Smoothfielding Keith Prince is expected to start at second, ex-Ouachita star James Cromwell at short and Charley Dykes of West Monroe at third.

Two other Indian baseballers, shortstop Ronnie Myrick and third sacker Ronnie Graham may also see action. Neither was expected to play earlier because of a grid scrimmage Saturday but the scrimmage has been called off. Myrick, a grid quarterback, is from Oak Grove and fullback Graham from Ruston.

The schedule:
March 10 — Ouachita
March 12 — West Monroe
March 13 — Bastrop
March 27 — Neville
April 2 — Neville
April 3 — West Monroe
April 18 — West Monroe
April 19 — Rayville
April 23 — Neville
April 27 — West Monroe
(All games will be played on opponents' diamonds)

Red Raiders Smother SMU Rally To Win

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP)—Texas Tech's Red Raiders held off a frantic bid in the fading minutes to nudge Southern Methodist University 71-67 Friday night and earn a berth opposite the Air Force Academy in the first round of the NCAA basketball playoffs.

The two teams had finished in a tie for the Southwest Conference championship and this was a one-game playoff to send a representative to the collegiate championships.

The spirited Red Raiders took the lead for good at 56-55 with 8:50 left and then clung desperately to a slim margin the rest of the way before an overflow crowd of 7,350 in the new Daniel-Meyer Coliseum.

A quartet of Red Raiders figured prominently in the victory while Jan Loudermilk, the Mustangs' rangy pointmaker and the league's top scorer, paced the losers with 30 points. Roger Hennig scored 22, Mac Percival 16, Del Ray Mounts 15, and Harold Hudgens 10 for Tech.

Mounts, Hennig and Percival came through mgnificently in the clutch as Tech took command in the final minutes to shatter time and again the threatening SMU uprising.

A driving layup by Mounts with 3 minutes left gave Tech a 64-59 lead, Hennig less than a minute later made it 66-61 with a jump shot and Percival connected on two free throws and a field goal to offset two pointers by Dave Sigmund and Jim Hammond for SMU.

Tech wound up with a 48.1 field goal percentage, hitting on 26 of 54. SMU sumped in 24 of 50 for 48.0 per cent.

Tech led 33-30 at halftime.

The Red Raiders will make their fourth appearance in the NCAA playoff Monday night at Dallas.

Ferriday's Girls Win State Title

The talented sextet from Ferriday easily won the District 2-A crown with a perfect 10-0 mark, and compiled a remarkable 37-3 record for the entire campaign.

All - Stater Dorothy Staggs paced the champions last night with 22 points. Teammate Jo Ann Manchester, who was an All-State selection as a sophomore last year at Jena before transfering to Ferriday, was second with 19.

Amite was led by Lovett and Wayne with 13 and 11 apiece.

Mailyn Stephens, an All - State guard last year, turned in another fine performance on defense as did Margerete Bateman and Walley Pullen. Bateman and Pullen are juniors this year.

Celtics Rally For Victory Over Detroit

DETROIT (AP) — The Boston Celtics, roaring from behind with a 47-point second quarter, Friday night moved closer to a National Basketball Association record for victories in a single season as they routed the Detroit Pistons 130-111 in the second half of a doubleheader.

The Celtics' victory boosted their total to 58, one shy of the mark they set last year. Boston has only two games remaining, meeting Los Angeles Sunday and Syracuse on Tuesday.

With second stringers, except for Bill Russellin the lineup at the outset, the Celtics fell behind 31-20 after the first quarter. But the rest of the Boston regulars then entered the action and outscored Detroit 19-5 during the first 4 minutes of the second period and were never in serious trouble the rest of the way.

A bruised nose forced Russell to sit out the second half and he was joined on the sidelines by Sam Jones with an injured knee and Bob Cousy, who complained of the flu. But the Boston assault continued in the third period as the team upped its lead 104-84.

Tom Heinsohn added 15 points in seven minutes to take game honors with 32. John Egan led Detroit with 20.

Recreation Basketball

Championships in two recreation leagues, the Junior C League and Church B League, were decided at the LTI gym last night, while another, the Church A League finished its semi-final activity.

In the Junior C League, the Flying Tigers downed Trinity, 30-23, for the loop crown. Trousdale poked in 11 points for the Tigers and Moody got 10 for the losers.

In Church B League action, First Baptist' tall cagers out scorred a battling group from Fellowship, 49-43, for the championship in that league. Prince managed 19 for First Baptist, and Grady Jones popped in 16 for the losers, mostly on some fine outside shooting.

Trinity took a thrilling, 39-38, victory over College Place in Church A play to earn the right to advance into the finals next week. Furlow paced the winners with 17, and College Place's ace guard, McGowen, netted 14 for high point honors on the losers.

Trinity meets Liberty on Monday and Tuesday of next week in the finals for Church A League.

Baseball Opens Exhibition Slate

Pre-Season Trouble List Led By Reds

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer

Swelled by the addition of New York and Houston to the National League, major league baseball begins an expanded exhibition program Saturday that will provide the final test for managers confronted with unsettled problems.

Heading the list of problem-plagued field bosses is Fred Hutchinson, the amiable Cincinnati manager who guided the long-shot Reds to their first NL flag in 20 years during the 1961 season by successfully fusing outstanding veterans and a host of unwanted castoffs.

Houston vs. Los Angeles (A) at Palm Springs
San Francisco vs. Cleveland at Phoenix
New York (N) vs Baltimore at Miami

Freese fractured an ankle in the spring's most serious accident so far and will be lost to the Reds for at least three months.

Chief contender for the berth is Cliff Cook, outstanding prospect promoted from Indianapolis where he hit .311 with 32 home runs and 119 runs batted in. If Cook is unable to make it, Hutch may have to switch outfielder Frank Robinson to the infield.

While the Reds hold the NL spotlight, most attention in the American League will be centered at Fort Lauderdale, Fla., where the world champion New York Yankees, and home run king Roger Maris, will make their debut and continue looking for a shortstop.

The Yankees were dealt a stiff blow when shortstop Tony Kubek was called into the service by Uncle Sam during a defense build-up that found 23 major leaguers trading their flannels for khaki. Vying for the vacancy are rookies Phil Linz and Tom Tresh.

The Yankees open against Baltimore with three young members of the pitching staff—Bill Stafford, Ralph Terry and Jim Coates—scheduled to hurl. The Orioles will start left-hander Billy Hoeft, hopeful of taking up the slack left when southpaw Steve Barber went into the armed forces.

The Orioles, who also lost shortstop Ron Hanson to Uncle Sam, are giving Hoeft a full trial off his 7-4 record in relief after he was acquired from the Detroit Tigers. Barber was the top winner for the Birds last season with 18 wins.

The remainder of the schedule shows Los Angeles (N) vs. Kansas City at Vero Beach, Fla.; Milwaukee vs. Detroit at Lakeland, Fla.; Philadelphia vs. Minnesota at Orlando, Fla.; Pittsburgh vs. Washington at Fort Myers, Fla.; Chicago (N) vs. Boston at Mesa, Ariz., and San Francisco vs. Cleveland at Tucson, Ariz.

The Mets likely will go with two former Dodgers—Roger Craig and Clem Labine—as their pitchers against the Cards while Bob Bruce is slated to start for the Colts in their opener with the Angels.

Lindy McDaniel, who slumped to a 10-6 record and a big 4.88 earned run average after he was a vital stopper in 1960, will get his first test for the Cards while Eli Grba probably will tackle the opening assignment for the Angels.

David Clark pumped in 18 points to pace Natchitoches over Redemptorist, whose John Lambert got 12. Natchitoches carries a 25-3 record into the finals with arch-rival Ruston. Redemptorist ended 23-11.

Bob Leake was high for St. Francisville with 25 points while Billy Ochiltree hit 20 for victorious Florien, which now is 43-5 while St. Francisville bowed out with a 25-4 mark.

The second day attendance of 2,995 brought the tournament total to 5,463. Last year, with a Shreveport team participating, the two-day total was 7,228. High school commissioner T. H. (Muddy) Waters said: "We are approximately $1,500 below last year after the semifinals but feel very optimistic about Saturday's championship crown. We should make that up and maybe come out a little ahead of last year."

Tulane Beats LSU, Kerwin Breaks Mark

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Jim Kerwin broke Tulane's individual season scoring record for the second straight year Friday night and became the first Greenie to score 1,000 points in two varsity seasons as he led the Wave to an 84-69 Southeastern Conference victory over arch-rival Louisiana State.

Kerwin, a 6-foot-3 junior from Long Branch, N. J., was held to 10 points in the first half by a collapsing LSU defense but poured 21 points through the net in the second half to bring his 1961-62 total to 509 points. His old record of 493 points last season gives him a total of 1,002 2ith one season left.

The outcome of the game was never in doubt after 6-foot-9 Jack Arond, who had a torrid first half, paced Tulane to a 41-24 intermission lead. Ardon, playing his final varsity game, made eight of nine field goal attempts and four free throws for 20 points in the first half. He wound up with 24 points for the night.

Paced by George Nattin, LSU pressed the Greenies all over the floor in the second half and cut the margin to 74-67 before Tulane pulled away again. Nattin ended the evening with 17 points, all but two in the second half.

A key factor was the continued fouling by LSU which leads the nation in personal fouls. The Tigers made 24 personals and Tulane converted 28 of 35 free throws.

It was the final game of the season for both teams. Tulane ended with 13 victories in 23 games, including a 6-9 SEC record. LSU won 14 and lost 11, splitting its 14 SEC contests.

Ardon, one of four seniors on Tulane's team, ended his 3-year career with 1,106 points, making him the third highest scorer in the school's history.

NEW YORK (AP) — The New York Knicks, NBA Eastern Division cellar dwellers, closed out their best home court season in three years Friday night by defeating the Los Angeles Lakers, Western Division pennant winners, 122-100, before 4,138 in Madison Square Garden.

The Knicks staged 16-3 spurts in each of the first two quarters to open a second period 25-point margin, 53-28. They outscored the Lakers, 17-6 in a third quarter burst to take a 30-point lead, 77-47.

Richie Guerin and Johnny Green scored nine straight Knick points in the next 70 seconds to stop the Laker rally.

West led the scorers with 28 points and Willie Naulls led the Knicks with 27.

Northeast Frosh Play Ouachita 9

"A lot of these boys will see frequent action on the varsity and all of them are good future prospects," Luffey said. "These boys need experience, however, and we have lined up a fine schedule against some outstanding high school teams."

Bess played high school baseball at Byrd High in Shreveport and then served a stint in the air force.

Either basketball star Jerry Salley of Pleasant Hill or Gladden Hearn of Farmerville will catch for the Indians with former Menard star Don Boniol set for first base. Smoothfielding Keith Prince is expected to start at second, ex-Ouachita star James Cromwell at short and Charley Dykes of West Monroe at third.

Two other Indian baseballers, shortstop Ronnie Myrick and third sacker Ronnie Graham may also see action. Neither was expected to play earlier because of a grid scrimmage Saturday but the scrimmage has been called off. Myrick, a grid quarterback, is from Oak Grove and fullback Graham from Ruston.

The schedule:
March 12 — West Monroe
March 13 — Bastrop
March 17 — Bastrop
March 27 — Neville
April 2 — Neville
April 3 — West Monroe
April 18 — West Monroe
April 19 — Rayville
April 23 — Neville
April 27 — West Monroe
(All games will be played on opponents' diamonds)

Red Raiders Smother SMU Rally To Win

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP)—Texas Tech's Red Raiders held off a frantic bid in the fading minutes to nudge Southern Methodist University 71-67 Friday night and earn a berth opposite the Air Force Academy in the first round of the NCAA basketball playoffs.

The two teams had finished in a tie for the Southwest Conference championship and this was a one-game playoff to send a representative to the collegiate championships.

The spirited Red Raiders took the lead for good at 56-55 with 8:50 left and then clung desperately to a slim margin the rest of the way before an overflow crowd of 7,350 in the new Daniel-Meyer Coliseum.

A quartet of Red Raiders figured prominently in the victory while Jan Loudermilk, the Mustangs' rangy pointmaker and the league's top scorer, paced the losers with 30 points. Roger Hennig scored 22, Mac Percival 16, Del Ray Mounts 15, and Harold Hudgens 10 for Tech.

Mounts, Hennig and Percival came through mgnificently in the clutch as Tech took command in the final minutes to shatter time and again the threatening SMU uprising.

A driving layup by Mounts with 3 minutes left gave Tech a 64-59 lead, Hennig less than a minute later made it 66-61 with a jump shot and Percival connected on two free throws and a field goal to offset two pointers by Dave Sigmund and Jim Hammond for SMU.

Tech wound up with a 48.1 field goal percentage, hitting on 26 of 54. SMU sumped in 24 of 50 for 48.0 per cent.

Tech led 33-30 at halftime.

The Red Raiders will make their fourth appearance in the NCAA playoff Monday night at Dallas.

Ferriday's Girls Win State Title

The talented sextet from Ferriday easily won the District 2-A crown with a perfect 10-0 mark, and compiled a remarkable 37-3 record for the entire campaign.

All - Stater Dorothy Staggs paced the champions last night with 22 points. Teammate Jo Ann Manchester, who was an All-State selection as a sophomore last year at Jena before transfering to Ferriday, was second with 19.

Amite was led by Lovett and Wayne with 13 and 11 apiece.

Mailyn Stephens, an All - State guard last year, turned in another fine performance on defense as did Margerete Bateman and Walley Pullen. Bateman and Pullen are juniors this year.

Celtics Rally For Victory Over Detroit

DETROIT (AP) — The Boston Celtics, roaring from behind with a 47-point second quarter, Friday night moved closer to a National Basketball Association record for victories in a single season as they routed the Detroit Pistons 130-111 in the second half of a doubleheader.

The Celtics' victory boosted their total to 58, one shy of the mark they set last year. Boston has only two games remaining, meeting Los Angeles Sunday and Syracuse on Tuesday.

With second stringers, except for Bill Russellin the lineup at the outset, the Celtics fell behind 31-20 after the first quarter. But the rest of the Boston regulars then entered the action and outscored Detroit 19-5 during the first 4 minutes of the second period and were never in serious trouble the rest of the way.

A bruised nose forced Russell to sit out the second half and he was joined on the sidelines by Sam Jones with an injured knee and Bob Cousy, who complained of the flu. But the Boston assault continued in the third period as the team upped its lead 104-84.

Tom Heinsohn added 15 points in seven minutes to take game honors with 32. John Egan led Detroit with 20.

Recreation Basketball

Championships in two recreation leagues, the Junior C League and Church B League, were decided at the LTI gym last night, while another, the Church A League finished its semi-final activity.

In the Junior C League, the Flying Tigers downed Trinity, 30-23, for the loop crown. Trousdale poked in 11 points for the Tigers and Moody got 10 for the losers.

In Church B League action, First Baptist' tall cagers out scored a battling group from Fellowship, 49-43, for the championship in that league. Prince managed 19 for First Baptist, and Grady Jones popped in 16 for the losers, mostly on some fine outside shooting.

Trinity took a thrilling, 39-38, victory over College Place in Church A play to earn the right to advance into the finals next week. Furlow paced the winners with 17, and College Place's ace guard, McGowen, netted 14 for high point honors on the losers team.

Trinity meets Liberty on Monday and Tuesday of next week in the finals for Church A League.

Crandall About Ready

BRADENTON, Fla (AP)—Del Crandall, out of action for the 1961 season with a shoulder injury, said Friday he was "90 to 95 per cent ready" after catching a Milwaukee Braves intra-squad game.

In catching for one of the teams through the entire 6½-inning game Thursday, Crandall did everything but cut loose trying to catch a runner stealing, for the simple reason that nobody tried to steal.

"Even if they had," Crandall said, "I think I would have lobbed the ball to second just to be on the safe side. I'm past the stage where I'd be tempted to throw hard in a spot like that. I don't know when I'll be ready but I don't think the day will be far off . . . I never had so much fun in my life."

Manager Birdie Tebbetts said he was "delighted and surprised" by Crandall's ability behind the plate.

Tebbetts added: "Now the next step is testing him in a regular game. That's up to him. He's going to tel' me when he's ready."

Crandall suffered an inflamed tendon in his right shoulder in a game with Philadelphia last April 20.

Vernon Pleased

POMPANO BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Washington's Senators open their 26-game exhibition schedule Saturday with little hope of equalling their 15-10 mark of the 1961 Grapefruit League season — but Manager Mickey Vernon is pleased.

Each exhibition game this year will be against a first string major league team. The 1961 schedule was scratched together hastily and most of the opponents were the B units of major league clubs.

Against this year's tougher opposition, Vernon is convinced the Senators will learn more baseball and he'll learn more about his team—than was possible last year.

Craig To Start

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla (AP) —The junior varsity whipped the regulars 6-0 in a five-inning intrasquad game Friday and Manager Casey Stengel named Roger Craig to start the first exhibition game for the New York Mets against the St. Louis Cardinals Saturday.

Craig, however, has a stiff neck suffered in sliding practice. If he can't go, Jay Hook will start for the new National League entry, with Clem Labine going the last four innings for either pitcher. Lindy McDaniel will start for the Cards.

Right-hander Mark Hoy, Miami collegian with a year in the minors, and Ray Daviault, veteran minor leaguer, threw the shutout for the junior varsity. Dawes Hamilt, third baseman with no previous experience, who has been the rookie sensation of the camp, went 3-for-3.

Reds Ready

TAMPA, Fla. (AP)—The Cincinnati Reds are ready and raring to go for their Grapefruit League season opener against the Chicago White Sox Saturday at Sarasota.

"With the exception of Gene (Freese) we're in excellent shape and ready to go," Hutchinson said Friday ofter putting the National League champions through a final 3-hour workout.

"We've had fine weather and don't have a sore arm in camp. No manager could ask for more."

Runnels To Leadoff

SCOTTSDALE, Ariz. (AP) — Boston Manager Mike Higgins has moved veteran infielder Pete Runnels into the leadoff spot for Saturday's Cactus League exhibition opener in Mesa against the Chicago Cubs.

Bill Monbouquette will pitch the first three innings against the Cubs. He will be followed by Earl Wilson and Galen Cisco.

Veteran pitcher Tom Brewer, who as a free agent is trying a comeback this spring with his old club, pitched batting practice for the second time this spring. Brewer worked for 10 minutes and showed he still has a good curve ball. Tommy was wild, however, with his fast ball.

Davis Catches

VERO BEACH, Fla (AP) — Tommy Davis, an outfielder and third baseman, got his baptism under fire as a major league catcher in an intra-squad game Friday and will be employed behind the plate this spring in an experiment by the Los Angeles Dodgers.

Davis suggested the move to Manager Walter Alston last week but had delayed going behind the plate because of a sprained back.

New Orioles

Olivares Out

APACHE JUNCTION, Ariz. (AP)—The National League Houston Colts have lost Eddie Olivares, a $50,000 infielder purchased from St. Louis, for five weeks.

Dangerous Duren

The result:

Pirates Slowed

FORT MYERS, Fla. (AP)—Outfielder Rex Johnston spiked himself in the leg Friday while working out in the sliding pit at the Pittsburgh Pirates training camp.

The gash below Johnston's right knee required 14 stitches. He was not hospitalized.

Meanwhile, veteran southpaw pitcher Harvey Haddix came down with the flu. He's expected to be out of action two or three days.

Cubs Tuneup

MESA, Ariz. (AP)—The Chicago Cubs devoted the day to play situations and fundamentals as a final tuneup for their 1962 Cactus League opener against the Boston Red Sox Saturday.

The competition will mark the debut of rookies Lou Brock and Ken Hubbs, the shift of Ernie Banks, long-time shortstop, to first base and the installation of veteran Andre Rodgers at short.

Duliba Returns

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP) —Bob Duliba, whose major league pitching career was interrupted by a serious automobile accident two years ago, made his first bid Friday for a job as relief pitcher with the St. Louis Cardinals.

Keane also was impressed with the hitting of young outfielders Don Landrum and Carl Warwick. Landrum singled, doubled and tripled and Warwick had three hits as Landrum's side defeated Julian Javier's team 8-2.

White Sox Hurlers

SARASOTA, Fla. (AP)—Right-handers Joel Horlen and Dom Zanni, both newcomers with an excellent chance of making the club, will work three innings each Saturday when the Chicago White Sox launch a 29-game exhibition schedule against the Cincinnati Reds.

Veteran southpaw Frank Baumann will work the middle three innings for the Chisox.

Manager Al Lopez listed all of his regulars for the Grapefruit League opener, including Charley Smith at third base and Joe Cunningham at first. Both came to the club in winter trades.

TAKES 3-STROKE LEAD

Sanders Blasts Ahead In Pensacola Tourney

By ROSS HAGEN

PENSACOLA, Fla. (AP)—Doug Sanders shrugged off the effects of minor foot surgery and blasted into a three-stroke lead Friday in the $20,000 Pensacola Open Golf Tournament.

He toured the 6,700-yard Pensacola Country Club course in 67 strokes, matching his first round performance and giving him a 36-hole total of 134.

Six players jammed into a tie for second place with 137s at the halfway mark including favored Arnold Palmer. Locked with him were Dave Ragan Jr., Jerry Barber, Paul Harney, Bert Weaver and Don Fairfield.

Pete Mazur of Tonawanda, N.Y., the surprise first-day leader with an astrounding 9-under-par 63, faded badly and wound up with a 36-hole total of 141.

The field for the final two days was cut to the low 63 players—61 professionals and two amateurs. Ken Venturi was among those who failed to make the final field.

Despite the injured hoff, Sanders opened fast with birdies on the first and third hole. He then drew a bogey on No. 4 when his ball rolled into a trap and he missed a 61-foot putt. He closed out the front nine with birdies on the sixth and eighth holes.

On the backside, the 28-year-old star was alternately hot and cold, rolling home with four birdies and two bogies.

"I felt shaky, but I would have played even if I shot a 95," he said after the round. Sanders picked up the glass sliver in his hotel room when he bumped into a table and knocked an ashtray to the floor, shattering it.

Sanders said he didn't know about the sliver until the morning. He was treated at the club house and then taken to a hospital where the sliver was removed.

Indian Linksmen Down Centenary

Freshman Glen Walker shot a 1-over-par 71 to lead Northeast State's golfers to a 15½-½ victory over Centenary in the opening match of the season for both teams here yesterday.

Playing over the soggy 6,095-yard Bayou DeSiard Country Club course, Walker shot the first nine in one two over to take medalist honors.

Centenary's Gents picked up their only points of the afternoon in the day's closest match, the No. 1 pairing of Northeast's Jim Harper and Gent Don Easterwood. Both Harper and Easterwood finished the first nine with 1-over-par 36's and even in match play. Harper took the lead on the back nine by winning on number 12, but Easterwood came back to win 15 to tie the match, and then go ahead on 16. Easterwood finished a 1-up victor and took the individual match, 2½-½.

Northeast's other golfers won easily. No. 2 man Gene Adams whipped Don Harris, 4-up on the front nine, and 2-up on the back nine to finish 6-up on the full 18 and win the match, 3-0.

The team of Adams and Harper shot a best ball of 1-under-par 69 to blank Easterwood and Harris, 3-0.

Ken Renwick, Northeast's no. 4 man, whipped Centenary's Freddie Peters 3-up and then teamed with Walker to beat Yarbarough and Peters 7-up in the team match.

Next action for Coach Bob DeMoss' linksmen comes next Wednesday versus McNeese at Lake Charles. They will begin play in the two-day McNeese Invitational the following day.

Team of Walker-Renwick shot 33-38—71 to beat Yarbarough-Peters (40-45—85).

Jones Sharp

LAKELAND, Fla. (AP)—Manager Bob Scheffing was cheered Friday by the pitching performance of veteran Sam Jones in the Detroit Tigers' last workout before the start of the Grapefruit League season.

"Sam was putting the ball just where he wanted to and he was throwing the way he should," said Scheffing.

Jones, who would bolster the Tigers' pennant chances if he returns to the form that made him a big winner with San Francisco, did his first serious throwing in more than a week. He didn't show much speed in his stint.

"But those hitters will tell you how much stuff he had," said Scheffing. "He'll get faster after he's thrown more."

Tech Netmen To Vie For Five Places

RUSTON (Special) — Louisiana Tech tennis coach Cecil Crowley has eight candidates for the Bulldog tennis team and they will compete in intra-squad tournaments to decide the five places on the Tech team.

Captain Thay Butchee of Shreveport will lead the Tech team in its bid for a Gulf States conference championship. Tech finished second to McNeese last year.

McNeese's four-year domination of the GSC in tennis is in jeopardy as the Cowboys lost their three four-year Mexican stars who led them to four consecutive loop net crowns.

Tech's tennis team will compete in two tournaments and 12 dual matches during the 1962 season, according to the schedule released by Athletic Director Joe Aillet.

The Tech schedule includes:

Monday, March 26 — Centenary at Shreveport.

Wednesday, March 28 — Northwestern State at Ruston.

Thursday, April 5 — Southeastern at Hammond.

Friday and Saturday, April 6-7—Miss. Southern tournament at Hattiesburg with Tech, Southern, Spring Hill and Pensacola Navy.

Tuesday, April 10 — Northeast State at Monroe.

Tuesday, April 17 — Centenary at Ruston.

Wednesday, April 18 — Northwestern at Natchitoches.

Friday, April 27 — U. of Southwestern at Lafayette.

Tuesday, May 1 — McNeese State at Ruston.

Tech Frosh Tilt With Rebels Is Called Off

RUSTON (Special) — West Monroe High's baseball game game with the Louisiana Tech freshmen slated for here yesterday was cancelled because of wet ground.

Rebel coach Dan McClure said the game would not be made up.

West Monroe's next game is Monday at home against the Northeast State freshmen.

TOURING GOLF PRO Doug Sanders, of Ojai, Calif., got a sliver of glass in his foot Thursday night but thought nothing of it — yesterday morning he could hardly walk. Here Dr. J. W. Douglas treats the foot at the clubhouse. Sanders was back in action yesterday but with a limp. He's among the top five in the tournament. Navy medic in the background was not identified. Crandall About Ready

BRADENTON, Fla. (AP)—Del Crandall, out of action for the 1961 season with a shoulder injury, said Friday he was "90 to 95 per cent ready" after catching a Milwaukee Braves intra-squad game.

In catching for one of the teams through the entire 6½-inning game Thursday, Crandall did everything but cut loose trying to catch a runner stealing, for the simple reason that nobody tried to steal.

"Even if they had," Crandall said, "I think I would have lobbed the ball to second just to be on the safe side. I'm past the stage where I'd be tempted to throw hard in a spot like that. I don't know when I'll be ready but I don't think the day will be far off . . . I never had so much fun in my life."

Manager Birdie Tebbetts said he was "delighted and surprised" by Crandall's ability behind the plate.

Tebbetts added: "Now the next step is testing him in a regular game. That's up to him. He's going to tel' me when he's ready."

Crandall suffered an inflamed tendon in his right shoulder in a game with Philadelphia last April 20.

Vernon Pleased

POMPANO BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Washington's Senators open their 26-game exhibition schedule Saturday with little hope of equalling their 15-10 mark of the 1961 Grapefruit League season — but Manager Mickey Vernon is pleased.

Each exhibition game this year will be against a first string major league team. The 1961 schedule was scratched together hastily and most of the opponents were the B units of major league clubs.

Against this year's tougher opposition, Vernon is convinced the Senators will learn more baseball and he'll learn more about his team—than was possible last year.

Craig To Start

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla (AP)—The junior varsity whipped the regulars 6-0 in a five-inning intra-squad game Friday and Manager Casey Stengel named Roger Craig to start the first exhibition game for the New York Mets against the St. Louis Cardinals Saturday.

Craig, however, has a stiff neck suffered in sliding practice. If he can't go, Jay Hook will start for the new National League entry, with Clem Labine going the last four innings for either pitcher. Lindy McDaniel will start for the Cards.

Right-hander Mark Hoy, Miami collegian with a year in the minors, and Ray Daviault, veteran minor leaguer, threw the shutout for the junior varsity. Dawes Hamilt, third baseman with no previous experience, who has been the rookie sensation of the camp, went 3-for-3.

Reds Ready

TAMPA, Fla. (AP)—The Cincinnati Reds are ready and raring to go for their Grapefruit League season opener against the Chicago White Sox Saturday at Sarasota.

"With the exception of Gene (Freese) we're in excellent shape and ready to go," Hutchinson said Friday ofter putting the National League champions through a final 3-hour workout.

"We've had fine weather and don't have a sore arm in camp. No manager could ask for more."

Runnels To Leadoff

SCOTTSDALE, Ariz. (AP) — Boston Manager Mike Higgins has moved veteran infielder Pete Runnels into the leadoff spot for Saturday's Cactus League exhibition opener in Mesa against the Chicago Cubs.

Bill Monbouquette will pitch the first three innings against the Cubs. He will be followed by Earl Wilson and Galen Cisco.

Veteran pitcher Tom Brewer, who as a free agent is trying a comeback this spring with his old club, pitched batting practice for the second time this spring. Brewer worked for 10 minutes and showed he still has a good curve ball. Tommy was wild, however, with his fast ball.

Davis Catches

VERO BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Tommy Davis, an outfielder and third baseman, got his baptism under fire as a major league catcher in an intra-squad game Friday and will be employed behind the plate this spring in an experiment by the Los Angeles Dodgers.

Davis suggested the move to Manager Walter Alston last week but had delayed going behind the plate because of a sprained back.

New Orioles

Olivares Out

APACHE JUNCTION, Ariz. (AP)—The National League Houston Colts have lost Eddie Olivares, a $50,000 infielder purchased from St. Louis, for five weeks.

Dangerous Duren

The result:

Pirates Slowed

FORT MYERS, Fla. (AP)—Outfielder Rex Johnston spiked himself in the leg Friday while working out in the sliding pit at the Pittsburgh Pirates training camp.

The gash below Johnston's right knee required 14 stitches. He was not hospitalized.

Meanwhile, veteran southpaw pitcher Harvey Haddix came down with the flu. He's expected to be out of action two or three days.

Cubs Tuneup

MESA, Ariz. (AP)—The Chicago Cubs devoted the day to play situations and fundamentals as a final tuneup for their 1962 Cactus League opener against the Boston Red Sox Saturday.

The competition will mark the debut of rookies Lou Brock and Ken Hubbs, the shift of Ernie Banks, long-time shortstop, to first base and the installation of veteran Andre Rodgers at short.

Duliba Returns

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP)—Bob Duliba, whose major league pitching career was interrupted by a serious automobile accident two years ago, made his first bid Friday for a job as relief pitcher with the St. Louis Cardinals.

Keane also was impressed with the hitting of young outfielders Don Landrum and Carl Warwick. Landrum singled, doubled and tripled and Warwick had three hits as Landrum's side defeated Julian Javier's team 8-2.

White Sox Hurlers

SARASOTA, Fla. (AP)—Right-handers Joel Horlen and Dom Zanni, both newcomers with an excellent chance of making the club, will work three innings each Saturday when the Chicago White Sox launch a 29-game exhibition schedule against the Cincinnati Reds.

Veteran southpaw Frank Baumann will work the middle three innings for the Chisox.

Manager Al Lopez listed all of his regulars for the Grapefruit League opener, including Charley Smith at third base and Joe Cunningham at first. Both came to the club in winter trades.

TAKES 3-STROKE LEAD

Sanders Blasts Ahead In Pensacola Tourney

By ROSS HAGEN

PENSACOLA, Fla. (AP)—Doug Sanders shrugged off the effects of minor foot surgery and blasted into a three-stroke lead Friday in the $20,000 Pensacola Open Golf Tournament.

He toured the 6,700-yard Pensocola Country Club course in 67 strokes, matching his first round performance and giving him a 36-hole total of 134.

Six players jammed into a tie for second place with 137s at the halfway mark including favored Arnold Palmer. Locked with him were Dave Ragan Jr., Jerry Barber, Paul Harney, Bert Weaver and Don Fairfield.

Pete Mazur of Tonawanda, N.Y., the surprise first-day leader with an astrounding 9-under-par 63, faded badly and wound up with a 36-hole total of 141.

The field for the final two days was cut to the low 63 players—61 professionals and two amateurs. Ken Venturi was among those who failed to make the final field.

Despite the injured hoff, Sanders opened fast with birdies on the first and third hole. He then drew a bogey on No. 4 when his ball rolled into a trap and he missed a 61-foot putt. He closed out the front nine with birdies on the sixth and eighth holes.

On the backside, the 28-year-old star was alternately hot and cold, rolling home with four birdies and two bogies.

"I felt shaky, but I would have played even if I shot a 95," he said after the round. Sanders picked up the glass sliver in his hotel room when he bumped into a table and knocked an ashtray to the floor, shattering it.

Sanders said he didn't know about the sliver until the morning. He was treated at the club house and then taken to a hospital where the sliver was removed.

IN FIRST MATCH

Indian Linksmen Down Centenary

Freshman Glen Walker shot a 1-over-par 71 to lead Northeast State's golfers to a 15½-½ victory over Centenary in the opening match of the season for both teams here yesterday.

Playing over the soggy 6,095-yard Bayou DeSiard Country Club course, Walker shot the first nine in one two over to take medalist honors.

Centenary's Gents picked up their only points of the afternoon in the day's closest match, the No. 1 pairing of Northeast's Jim Harper and Gent Don Easterwood. Both Harper and Easterwood finished the first nine with 1-over-par 36's and even in match play. Harper took the lead on the back nine by winning on number 12, but Easterwood came back to win 15 to tie the match, and then go ahead on 16. Easterwood finished a 1-up victor and took the individual match, 2½-½.

Northeast's other golfers won easily. No. 2 man Gene Adams whipped Don Harris, 4-up on the front nine, and 2-up on the back nine to finish 6-up on the full 18 and win the match, 3-0.

The team of Adams and Harper shot a best ball of 1-under-par 69 to blank Easterwood and Harris, 3-0.

Ken Renwick, Northeast's no. 4 man, whipped Centenary's Freddie Peters 3-up and then teamed with Walker to beat Yarbarough and Peters 7-up in the team match.

Next action for Coach Bob DeMoss' linksmen comes next Wednesday versus McNeese at Lake Charles. They will begin play in the two-day McNeese Invitational the following day.

Summary:

No. 1 — Easterwood, Centenary, shot 36-36—72 to defeat Northeast's Jim Harper (36-37—73), 2½-½.

No. 2 — Gene Adams, Northeast, shot 38-36—74 to beat Centenary's Don Harris (43-38—81), 3-0.

No. 3—Glenn Walker, Northeast, shot 34-37—71 to defeat Centenary's Charles Yarbarough (42-44—86), 3-0.

No. 4—Northeast's Ken Renwick shot 38-40—78 to beat Freddy Peters of Centenary (42-44—86), 3-0.

Jones Sharp

LAKELAND, Fla. (AP)—Manager Bob Scheffing was cheered Friday by the pitching performance of veteran Sam Jones in the Detroit Tigers' last workout before the start of the Grapefruit League season.

"Sam was putting the ball just where he wanted to and he was throwing the way he should," said Scheffing.

Jones, who would bolster the Tigers' pennant chances if he returns to the form that made him a big winner with San Francisco, did his first serious throwing in more than a week. He didn't show much speed in his stint.

"But those hitters will tell you how much stuff he had," said Scheffing. "He'll get faster after he's thrown more."

Tech Netmen To Vie For Five Places

RUSTON (Special) — Louisiana Tech tennis coach Cecil Crowley has eight candidates for the Bulldog tennis team and they will compete in intra-squad tournaments to decide the five places on the Tech team.

Captain Thay Butchee of Shreveport will lead the Tech team in its bid for a Gulf States conference championship. Tech finished second to McNeese last year.

McNeese's four-year domination of the GSC in tennis is in jeopardy as the Cowboys lost their three four-year Mexican stars who led them to four consecutive loop net crowns.

Tech's tennis team will compete in two tournaments and 12 dual matches during the 1962 season, according to the schedule released by Athletic Director Joe Aillet.

The Tech schedule includes:

Monday, March 26 — Centenary at Shreveport.

Wednesday, March 28 — Northwestern State at Ruston.

Thursday, April 5 — Southeastern at Hammond.

Friday and Saturday, April 6-7—Miss. Southern tournament at Hattiesburg with Tech, Southern, Spring Hill and Pensacola Navy.

Tuesday, April 10 — Northeast State at Monroe.

Wednesday, April 18 — Northwestern at Natchitoches.

Friday, April 27 — U. of Southwestern at Lafayette.

Tuesday, May 1 — McNeese State at Ruston.

Thursday, May 3 — Southeastern at Ruston.

Monday, May 7 — Northeast State at Ruston.

Thursday and Friday, May 10-11—Gulf States conference meet at Hammond.

TOURING GOLF PRO Doug Sanders, of Ojai, Calif., got a sliver of glass in his foot Thursday night but thought nothing of it — yesterday morning he could hardly walk. Here Dr. J. W. Douglas treats the foot at the clubhouse. Sanders was back in action yesterday but with a limp. He's among the top five in the tournament. Navy medic in the background was not identified. Hayes Jones Dashes World Hurdle Mark

By CHARLES CHAMBERLAIN

CHICAGO (AP) — Hayes Jones, Detroit schoolteacher, smashed the American 60-yard high hurdle record with a :06.9 time Friday night in the Chicago Daily News Relays.

Jones, former Western Michigan star, clipped one tenth of a second off his own indoor American mark which he shared with Milt Campbell. Campbell first set it in 1957 at New York while competing for Indiana.

The victory gave Jones his fifth Chicago Daily News Relays hurdle record and left him unbeaten in 31 straight hurdle events. He drew a round of applause from 15,189 Chicago Stadium fans.

Pole vaulter John Uelses, who last month topped 16 feet ¾ inches, missed on three chances with the bar at 15-4¾. Once he hit the bar. Two other times his timing was off and he went under it. He cleared 14-11¾.

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP) — The Minnesota Twins lost the services of a shortstop for the second time in two days Friday when Zoilo Versalles came down with mumps.

51 Colleges Enter IC4A Track Meet

By ED CORRIGAN

NEW YORK (AP)— A record 51 colleges have entered the indoor IC4A Track and Field Championships at Madison Square Garden Saturday night and if Villanova doesn't win the team title it will provide the biggest shocker in the 41 years of the meet.

The powerful Wildcats from Philadelphia won the crown in 1957-58-60 but were dethroned by Yale by a single point last year, 30-29.

"I'll admit we are capable of from 25 to 27 points," said Villanova Coach Jumbo Jim Elliott. "But I'd be silly to be overconfident. Look what happened to us last year when a single disqualification (the mile relay) cost us the championship."

Said Yale Coach Bob Giegengack:

"Count us out. We don't have a chance. We couldn't even win the Heptagonal championship last week, so how are we going to do anything in the IC4A?"

Here's how the Villanova legions shape up:

Vic Zwolak has hit 4:11.2 for the mile this winter and could get fourth or fifth.

Pat Traynor, fourth in the mile last year, has switched to the 2-mile and probably will grab a point or two.

Billy Joe and Gerry Donini, 1-2 in the shotput last year, probably will be 2-3 this time behind Gary Gubner of New York University.

The points are figured on a 5-4-3-2-1 basis.

Michigan State and Notre Dame, which don't often run in the IC4A championship, both will have strong delegations. The 10-man Irish team will be headed by John Mulrooney, Central Collegiate Conference 60-yard hurdles champion.

The Spartans, who won the title in both 1949 and 1950, have entered a 20-man delegation. John Parker, Michigan State's No. 1 hope, shows a 1:11 clocking for the 600 and a 23-11 broad jump this year. No one in the meet has done as well in either event. Sophomore Sherm Lewis can run the 60-yard dash in :06.2 and broad jump over 23 feet.

The mile will pair Georgetown's John Reilly and Harvard's Mark Mullin, both 4:07 performers. Bobby Mack of Yale is shooting for a record 8:53 in the 2-mile, while John Thomas of Boston University is the high jump favorite.

Rens, Pipers Add 2 More Games

PITTSBURGH (AP)—The Pittsburgh Rens of the American Basketball League said Friday they had scheduled two additional games with the Cleveland Pipers at Cleveland.

The games will be played March 21 and March 24, the latter an afternoon game.

The Rens said the games were slated to give the two clubs 39 second half games each, the same as the other two teams in the Eastern Division.

NELLIE FOX appears to have Luis Aparicio well in hand in this camera angle at the Chicago White Sox second base combination. They have combined to produce enough double plays through the years to rank them amongst the leaders in baseball. (AP Wirephoto)

Atlanta To Keep Franchise In IL

ATLANTA (AP) — A lease agreement was signed Friday that will keep the International League baseball franchise in Atlanta.

Earl Mann, owner of Ponce de Leon Park, said he and Joe Ryan, Atlanta general manager, reached agreement on a lease for the 1962 and 1963 seasons with the right of renewal for 1964-66.

The signing of the lease setting a rental ceiling on the ball park for the next two International League seasons ended the possibility that the franchise might be taken elsewhere.

The Crackers withdrew from the defunct Southern Association at the end of last season, and the Charleston, W.Va., International League franchise was shifted to Atlanta.

Causey Homers

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP)—The Kansas City Athletics shipped five players to their minor league camp at Daytona Beach Friday and also completed their intra-squad series, with the Kingfish defeating the Barracudas 6-5.

The intra-squad game was decided principally by a four-run second inning in which the Kingfish tagged Dave Wickersham for five hits. Wayne Causey homered for the losers in the sixth.

51 Colleges Enter IC4A Track Meet

By ED CORRIGAN

NEW YORK (AP)— A record 51 colleges have entered the indoor IC4A Track and Field Championships at Madison Square Garden Saturday night and if Villanova doesn't win the team title it will provide the biggest shocker in the 41 years of the meet.

The powerful Wildcats from Philadelphia won the crown in 1957-58-60 but were dethroned by Yale by a single point last year, 30-29.

"I'll admit we are capable of from 25 to 27 points," said Villanova Coach Jumbo Jim Elliott. "But I'd be silly to be overconfident. Look what happened to us last year when a single disqualification (the mile relay) cost us the championship."

Said Yale Coach Bob Giegengack:

"Count us out. We don't have a chance. We couldn't even win the Heptagonal championship last week, so how are we going to do anything in the IC4A?"

Here's how the Villanova legions shape up:

Vic Zwolak has hit 4:11.2 for the mile this winter and could get fourth or fifth.

Pat Traynor, fourth in the mile last year, has switched to the 2-mile and probably will grab a point or two.

Billy Joe and Gerry Donini, 1-2 in the shotput last year, probably will be 2-3 this time behind Gary Gubner of New York University.

The points are figured on a 5-4-3-2-1 basis.

Michigan State and Notre Dame, which don't often run in the IC4A championship, both will have strong delegations. The 10-man Irish team will be headed by John Mulrooney, Central Collegiate Conference 60-yard hurdles champion.

The Spartans, who won the title in both 1949 and 1950, have entered a 20-man delegation. John Parker, Michigan State's No. 1 hope, shows a 1:11 clocking for the 600 and a 23-11 broad jump this year. No one in the meet has done as well in either event. Sophomore Sherm Lewis can run the 60-yard dash in :06.2 and broad jump over 23 feet.

The mile will pair Georgetown's John Reilly and Harvard's Mark Mullin, both 4:07 performers. Bobby Mack of Yale is shooting for a record 8:53 in the 2-mile, while John Thomas of Boston University is the high jump favorite.

Rens, Pipers Add 2 More Games

PITTSBURGH (AP)—The Pittsburgh Rens of the American Basketball League said Friday they had scheduled two additional games with the Cleveland Pipers at Cleveland.

The games will be played March 21 and March 24, the latter an afternoon game.

The Rens said the games were slated to give the two clubs 39 second half games each, the same as the other two teams in the Eastern Division.

NELLIE FOX appears to have Luis Aparicio well in hand in this camera angle at the Chicago White Sox second base combination. They have combined to produce enough double plays through the years to rank them amongst the leaders in baseball. (AP Wirephoto)

Atlanta To Keep Franchise In IL

ATLANTA (AP) — A lease agreement was signed Friday that will keep the International League baseball franchise in Atlanta.

Earl Mann, owner of Ponce de Leon Park, said he and Joe Ryan, Atlanta general manager, reached agreement on a lease for the 1962 and 1963 seasons with the right of renewal for 1964-66.

The signing of the lease setting a rental ceiling on the ball park for the next two International League seasons ended the possibility that the franchise might be taken elsewhere.

The Crackers withdrew from the defunct Southern Association at the end of last season, and the Charleston, W.Va., International League franchise was shifted to Atlanta.

Causey Homers

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP)—The Kansas City Athletics shipped five players to their minor league camp at Daytona Beach Friday and also completed their intra-squad series, with the Kingfish defeating the Barracudas 6-5.

The intra-squad game was decided principally by a four-run second inning in which the Kingfish tagged Dave Wickersham for five hits. Wayne Causey homered for the losers in the sixth.

New Hospital In Jackson Parish Opens

The Parish police jury in 1959 called a special bond election to provide $400,000 in funds to be matched by the federal government, for building the new hospital.

The bond issue passed and work began.

The hospital consists of 40 rooms both private and semi - private, with the latest-known facilities incorporated throughout the structure.

The building is equipped with a massive 125-ton cooling unit and circulating pumps with automatically controlled compression mechanisms to maintain exact temperature.

The nursery is equipped with ultra - modern incubators, including an isolation incubator for premature youngsters, and even an explosion-proof incubator for exact safety measures.

The operating room is equipped with the modern Bovie cutting unit for removal of skin growths and other tissues and also houses the famous cardiographic machine that performs both internal and external tests on heart patients.

Among the equipment, and probably the most important, is the giant emergency generator located directly beneath the building. This massive machine is responsible for restoring the hospital's electrical power instantaneously in the event of all types of power failure.

The following names are those of the police jury members when the hospital project was initiated: Alfred May, A. D. McGraw, Billy Aldy, O. F. Wheelis, J. E. Alexander, J. B. Chambless, Luther Rhymes, Noel Rasbury, J. A. Watson, W. W. Anderson, and C. E. Thompson.

Average Man Unimpressed By Paris Showings

By FLORENCE de SANTIS

Paris fashion openings look different to spectators according to the reasons they are there.

Private customers see sheer beauty, tempered by an occasional comment about whether some idea, such as a mink suit, is practical for spring. The store buyer sits there with her customers back in Kokomo on her shoulders, muttering constantly, "They won't wear that in my town."

Manufacturers, mostly men, consider how many models may be gotten out of splitting up the ideas in one thousand - dollar original and which one they'll pick.

The average man? At first he may be dazzled by the swift parade of colors and fabrics, the spectacular models. But pretty soon he begins to say thing like, "Must cost a fortune!" or "How's he going to sit down in that one?"

Shushed by his wife, whose dreams are being spoiled by these mundane remarks, he retreats into his own thoughts.

He likes women's hair, but all the models have every bit tucked under the hats. He likes plunging necklines, but he's lucky to see one in a collection.

He is also aghast at the manners that women can display when they want something they shouldn't get. Couture openings are crowded, and everyone has a ticket, but gate - crashers shove their way in, plump down in seats reserved for others, refuse to move no matter what.

Women Need Space

By VIVIAN BROWN

AP Newsfeatures Writer

That's the view of Doris Schweitzer of Mineola, Long Island, who has turned the idea into a lucrative home improvement business with 300 employes.

"Women have their feet on the ground," she says. "They want more closets, bathrooms, bedrooms, recreation rooms. Men builders, architects and home improvement specialists live in the stratosphere when it comes to the realities of the home."

Mrs. Schweitzer discovered the problems of conveying to men the needs of a home when she wanted to remodel her own six - room ranch house to accommodate a growing daughter. She decided to do it herself.

"What began as a hobby eight years ago has skyrocketed into a major business," she says. "At first I thought I'd buy land and build houses. There's a crying need for imagination and planning at the start. They just keep building houses as always, and then you've got to improve them later. But tracts of land were costly so instead, I formed my own company."

Her employes include architects, engineers, artists. Mrs. Schweitzer had been office manager for a builder and consequently was in contact with every sequence of a building job.

One must remember in planning special needs for a home, she says that you might want to sell it some day. Maybe the other fellow won't want a swing in the living room.

She now recalls her first job with glee, but it wasn't funny then.

"I couldn't believe my eyes. The house was built on maple tree stumps, and they wanted a foundation, finished basement, kitchen and bathroom."

Mrs. Schweitzer shivered but the challenge appealed to her. She took the job for $3,000, and the grateful owner pressed $1,000 deposit on her, frightening her still more. From that first newspaper ad and first successful job, she has gotten more than $100,000 in business, she says.

Miss Pamela Terral Feted With Lake Providence Tea

Hostesses for the prenuptial tea were Mrs. George Lensing, Mrs. Leon Minsky, Mrs. Leo Lensing, and Mrs. William Gilbert of Tibedeaux.

Miss Terral, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Terral, was attired in a pale pink, raw silk sheath with draped skirt and cap sleeves. She wore a corsage of white carnations at the waist line.

With the hostesses to receive guests stood the honoree, her mother, and grandmother, Mrs. Tom Terral of Farmerville. The guests were welcomed in the foyer by Miss Mullady Voelker, Miss Beth Lensing and Miss Elaine Lensing.

Mrs. Reynold Minsky presided at the register table which was covered with a Maderia cloth and held an arrangement of daffodils.

The linen covered refreshment tables were centered with arrangements of white carnations and plumosis in silver bowls.

Presiding, alternately, at the punch bowl were Mrs. W. A. Harris and Mrs. Zinra Moorman, while at the coffee service were Mrs. Frank Voelker, Jr. and Mrs. A. N. Amacker.

The spacious reception rooms were attractive with arrangements of spring flowers. The coffee table held an arrangement of red bud and purple magnolia, while on smaller tables there were arrangements of camellias, jonquils and other spring flowers. On the podium, and forming a background setting for the occasion, there were massive arrangements of red bud and pear blossoms.

By FLORENCE de SANTIS

Paris fashion openings look different to spectators according to the reasons they are there.

Private customers see sheer beauty, tempered by an occasional comment about whether some idea, such as a mink suit, is practical for spring. The store buyer sits there with her customers back in Kokomo on her shoulders, muttering constantly, "They won't wear that in my town."

Manufacturers, mostly men, consider how many models may be gotten out of splitting up the ideas in one thousand - dollar original and which one they'll pick.

The average man? At first he may be dazzled by the swift parade of colors and fabrics, the spectacular models. But pretty soon he begins to say thing like, "Must cost a fortune!" or "How's he going to sit down in that one?"

Shushed by his wife, whose dreams are being spoiled by these mundane remarks, he retreats into his own thoughts.

He likes women's hair, but all the models have every bit tucked under the hats. He likes plunging necklines, but he's lucky to see one in a collection.

He is also aghast at the manners that women can display when they want something they shouldn't get. Couture openings are crowded, and everyone has a ticket, but gate - crashers shove their way in, plump down in seats reserved for others, refuse to move no matter what.

Women Need Space

By VIVIAN BROWN

AP Newsfeatures Writer

That's the view of Doris Schweitzer of Mineola, Long Island, who has turned the idea into a lucrative home improvement business with 300 employes.

"Women have their feet on the ground," she says. "They want more closets, bathrooms, bedrooms, recreation rooms. Men builders, architects and home improvement specialists live in the stratosphere when it comes to the realities of the home."

Mrs. Schweitzer discovered the problems of conveying to men the needs of a home when she wanted to remodel her own six - room ranch house to accommodate a growing daughter. She decided to do it herself.

"What began as a hobby eight years ago has skyrocketed into a major business," she says. "At first I thought I'd buy land and build houses. There's a crying need for imagination and planning at the start. They just keep building houses as always, and then you've got to improve them later. But tracts of land were costly so instead, I formed my own company."

Her employes include architects, engineers, artists. Mrs. Schweitzer had been office manager for a builder and consequently was in contact with every sequence of a building job.

One must remember in planning special needs for a home, she says that you might want to sell it some day. Maybe the other fellow won't want a swing in the living room.

She now recalls her first job with glee, but it wasn't funny then.

"I couldn't believe my eyes. The house was built on maple tree stumps, and they wanted a foundation, finished basement, kitchen and bathroom."

Mrs. Schweitzer shivered but the challenge appealed to her. She took the job for $3,000, and the grateful owner pressed $1,000 deposit on her, frightening her still more. From that first newspaper ad and first successful job, she has gotten more than $100,000 in business, she says.

'Bare Back' Fashions Are New Trend In Decor

By BETTY PEPIS

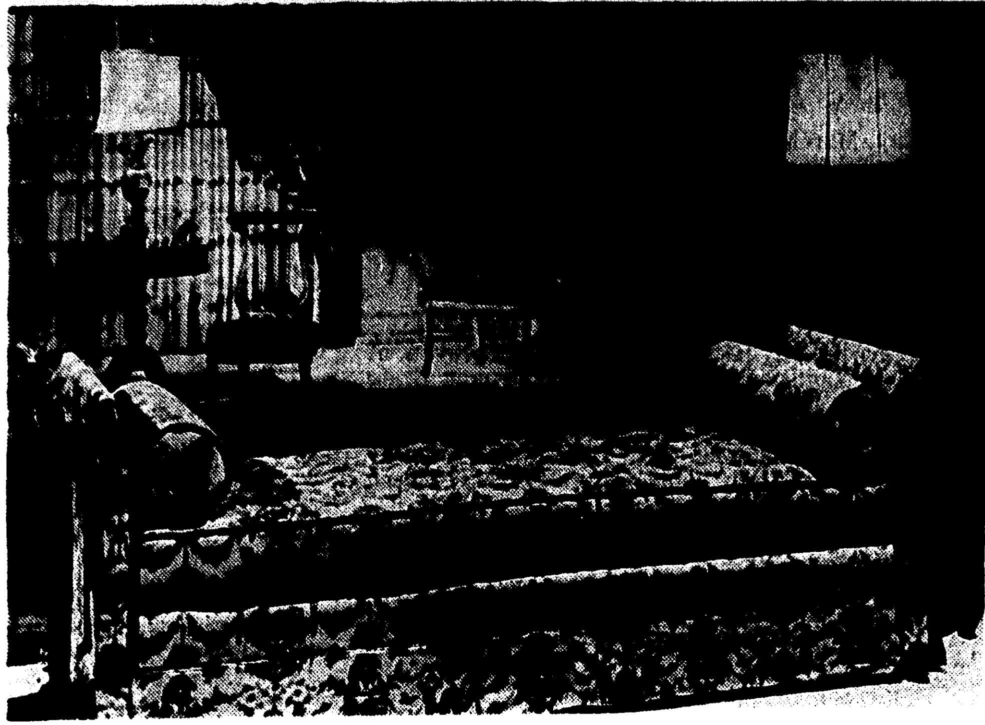
There has been a notable trend recently toward the use of seating pieces devoid of a back. Although these are not to be recommended for comfortable sitting during an evening of conversation they do have other and decidedly decorative advantages when used for extra sitting.

And the newest of this type to be introduced at the summer home furnishings markets in Chicago next week converts to a bed. The piece, by Burton - Dixie, has low upholstered arms at either side. It's lines are softened with a round bolster at each end but no back.

Because of its tailored un-bedroomy look, it would be happily at home even in a living room where it might be placed jutting out from the wall in a room where an entrance door opens directly into the room. Such a piece is ideal in this situation for it creates a kind of foyer without barring the view into the room beyond. Yet this quite formal piece converts with ease to a bed, double its daylight width when the bottom portion is pulled out.

Other variations of the chaise lounge, so popular in the twenties, are also finding their way into the living room. One upholstered in silvery gray satin angled out from the fire place wall in a decorators setting. Facing the chaise was a conventional sofa. The arrangement made it possible to bring the secondary sitting piece close to the sofa and yet not interfere with the picture window view toward which the sofa faced.

A small variation on this idea are the numbers of benches newly shown. These work particularly well when used along a long window wall of the kind frequently found in contemporary houses. On other occasions they are tucked between the legs of long, high - off - the - floor console tables. Pulled out in front, they can convert the console into a table - for - two for snacks.



THIS TWO-ARMED chaise does double duty as a bed. Pull out the skirted bottom which is fitted with a spring, push the top pillow over it, and the piece becomes wide enough for comfortable sleeping. An extra dividend is the "bedding box" fitted in under the spring which is large enough for pillows, blankets and the like. Backless pieces such as this are becoming popular because they can decoratively occupy space in the middle of a room in an open floor plan house and they are equally adaptable for use in front of a picture window.

DEAR ABBY

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: My husband keeps after me to shorten my skirts. I am 50-years old and have been told all my life what fine-looking legs I have, but I see no reason to advertise the fact to every stranger who has eyes. Can you tell me (disregarding the ridiculous new trend in fashion) approximately how short a skirt should be? NICE LEGS

DEAR NICE: A skirt should be short enough to show that you're a woman, and long enough to show that you're a lady.

DEAR ABBY: I am a night person. For twelve years I have played in bands from 8 p.m. until 2 a.m. and I never got to sleep until 5 to 6 in the morning. Recently, I married a man who works from 7 a.m. until 3 p.m. and he expects me to go to sleep when he does at 10 p.m. I just can't do it, Abby. I lie as wide awake as an owl all night. I don't want to start taking sleeping pills, but I wish I could figure out some way to get on his schedule.

NIGHT PERSON

DEAR NIGHT: Go to bed when he does. No matter what time you fall asleep, get up with him, and stay awake until he goes to sleep again. After a few days of this, you'll be ready to fall asleep at 10 a.m.

DEAR ABBY: I now enjoy the status of "wife" but at one time I was "the other woman." No, the man who was going to divorce his wife and marry me never married me. So I finally got wise and gave him the air, and am now respectably married to an honest man.

I have a suggestion. Why don't all the "other women" get together and form a club? If they got together and compared notes, they'd discover that one story is exactly like the next. Married men tell their girl friends stories about how cold their wives are. I caught on to this when another girl where I worked told me she was "the other woman." The stuff her lover told her was so much like what mine told me it could have been the same man. This should help convince "other women" that their sweethearts are full of baloney.

EX-OTHER WOMAN

YOUR PROBLEMS

By Ann Landers

Dear Ann Landers: Yesterday my best friend was kicked out of class for yelling out some swear words. She was innocent. It was the girl next to her who did the cussing.

Later that day I asked my friend why she took the blame. She said "Because my standing in the class is bad. She probably would have been thrown out of school. I knew I'd get off easier."

Several kids know about this. In fact, almost everyone knows but the teacher. Don't you think the girl should clear her name, now that the teacher's temper has cooled off and things are back to normal? — TRUE FRIEND

Dear Friend: I agree that her name should be cleared— but she should not attempt to clear it herself. One of her "true friends" should go to the teacher, in her behalf. The name of the guilty party, of course, need not be mentioned.

Dear Ann Landers: My husband and I have the same argument three times a week. Our three pre-school-age children keep me exhausted.

When I ask him to take the kids somewhere so I can have a little peace and quiet he suddenly remembers he promised to bowl with the boys, or be a fifth at poker. When I'm baking or sewing and ask him to watch them for an hour he falls asleep in front of the TV and the kids take the house apart.

I'd love to join a woman's club or have my hair set downtown once in a while. Being able to shop without three kids hanging on me would be pure heaven.

I take tranquilizing pills on doctor's orders. I cry over nothing. When I try to talk to him he tells me his mother raised ten kids without tranquilizers and she didn't have to join clubs or get her hair set downtown. Please help me. I am — NERVOUS AND TIRED.

Dear N and T: So his mother raised ten kids without tranquilizing pills, women's clubs and hair-sets? Well, bully for her! And what pray was his father doing? I'll clue you he wasn't bowling and playing poker with the boys or falling asleep in front of the TV every night.

A husband such as yours usually smartens up when the doctor tells him his wife needs complete bed rest or institutional care. Ask your lummox if this is what he's waiting for.

Dear Ann Landers: Recently you told a retired general that children should never be hit with belts, switches, straps, brushes, etc. You said "No child should be dealt a blow harder than the human hand can deliver."

Did it ever occur to you, Ann, that sometimes the human hand can deliver a pretty dangerous blow?

My father was one of those brutal types who took out his frustrations on his wife and family. He used to knock us kids around for no reason at all. Once he hit my older brother so hard he knocked his two front teeth out. When I was eight years old he slapped me on the side of the head with such force that I lost 80 per cent of the hearing in that ear.

So please, Ann, add to your advice something about taking it easy on the little mites even when only a hand is used.— D.L.J.

Dear D.L.J.; I did. You must have stopped reading too soon. The last line of my advice went like this: "A child should never be struck on the head, the back, across the legs or arms. Nature provided the ideal spot — The back porch."

If alcohol is robbing you or someone you love of health and dignity, send for ANN LANDERS' booklet, "Help For The Alcoholic," enclosing with your request 20 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

ON THE MAP

ONG'S HAT, N.J. (AP)—Ong's Hat is the smallest town in New Jersey but its population rate remains steady.

It's been zero as long as anyone can remember.

Tucked away in a corner of Berlington County, this "town" has no residents, no business districts, no outskirts, no important sites, nothing. Yet, for sentimental reasons perhaps, it still shows up on most maps of the state.

Homemakers Ask, Betty Pepis Answers

Q: The walls in my little girl's room are apple blossom pink. I plan to have a pink bedspread. What color should I use for the curtains and accessories?

A: A pink and white check gingham would be pleasant for ruffled curtains and for a dust ruffle under the pink bedspread. I would have a pale green cotton scatter rug and would also have a bright green painted chair or rocker with cushions made of the checked gingham. Have white lamps and other accessories.

Q: With pale aquamarine walls and a turquoise rug in my living room, what colors should I have for slip covers on the sofa and a matching chair? Would a maize color be a good choice? I have an occasional chair covered in a toast color.

A: While maize would be all right, I think I'd like off-white even more for the slip covers on the sofa and matching chair. I would also change the odd chair to a bright turquoise and have this bright color for pillows on the sofa. A pale, interesting shade of green would be my choice for ash trays, glass boxes and an extra pillow or two.

Q: We are going to remodel our kitchen which is very sunny and has a high ceiling. The floor is gray with a black diagonal stripe three feet apart. Please advise what color for walls, cabinets, curtains and what type of dinette set. I would like the kitchen to be casual and comfortable.

A: I think I would select an ice blue or a pale, cool green for the walls and cabinets in your sunny kitchen. Have a somewhat deeper green color for the dinette set. This set could be painted or if you prefer a natural wood finish, then the cushions could be green. Have the curtains in white with shades of green and also have some brilliant green in some of the accessories.

Q: The walls in our small living room are painted a light blue. The draperies and carpet are off-white. Sofa is covered in a blue floral quilted fabric. Will you please suggest colors for two new chairs and also for two chairs that I am going to have reupholstered.

A: What about having two chairs in an off-white and two in a clear yellow. Select brilliant yellow and soft blue for toss pillows. The lamps should be off-white.

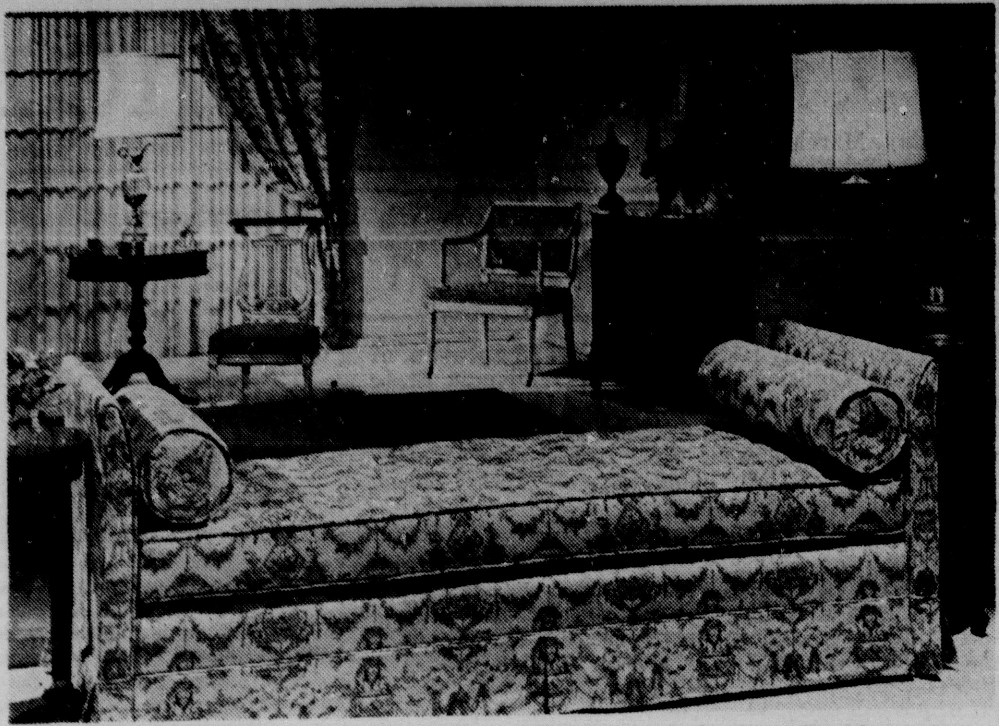
And the newest of this type to be introduced at the summer home furnishings markets in Chicago next week converts to a bed. The piece, by Burton - Dixie, has low upholstered arms at either side. It's lines are softened with a round bolster at each end but no back.

Because of its tailored un-bedroomy look, it would be happily at home even in a living room where it might be placed jutting out from the wall in a room where an entrance door opens directly into the room. Such a piece is ideal in this situation for it creates a kind of foyer without barring the view into the room beyond. Yet this quite formal piece converts with ease to a bed, double its daylight width when the bottom portion is pulled out.

Other variations of the chaise lounge, so popular in the twenties, are also finding their way into the living room. One upholstered in silvery gray satin angled out from the fire place wall in a decorators setting. Facing the chaise was a conventional sofa. The arrangement made it possible to bring the secondary sitting piece close to the sofa and yet not interfere with the picture window view toward which the sofa faced.

A small variation on this idea are the numbers of benches newly shown. These work particularly well when used along a long window wall of the kind frequently found in contemporary houses. On other occasions they are tucked between the legs of long, high - off - the - floor console tables. Pulled out in front, they can convert the console into a table - for - two for snacks.



THIS TWO-ARMED chaise does double duty as a bed. Pull out the skirted bottom which is fitted with a spring, push the top pillow over it, and the piece becomes wide enough for comfortable sleeping. An extra dividend is the "bedding box" fitted in under the spring which is large enough for pillows, blankets and the like. Backless pieces such as this are becoming popular because they can decoratively occupy space in the middle of a room in an open floor plan house and they are equally adaptable for use in front of a picture window.

DEAR ABBY

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: My husband keeps after me to shorten my skirts. I am 50-years old and have been told all my life what fine-looking legs I have, but I see no reason to advertise the fact to every stranger who has eyes. Can you tell me (disregarding the ridiculous new trend in fashion) approximately how short a skirt should be? NICE LEGS

DEAR NICE: A skirt should be short enough to show that you're a woman, and long enough to show that you're a lady.

DEAR ABBY: I am a night person. For twelve years I have played in bands from 8 p.m. until 2 a.m. and I never got to sleep until 5 to 6 in the morning. Recently, I married a man who works from 7 a.m. until 3 p.m. and he expects me to go to sleep when he does at 10 p.m. I just can't do it, Abby. I lie as wide awake as an owl all night. I don't want to start taking sleeping pills, but I wish I could figure out some way to get on his schedule.

NIGHT PERSON

DEAR NIGHT: Go to bed when he does. No matter what time you fall asleep, get up with him, and stay awake until he goes to sleep again. After a few days of this, you'll be ready to fall asleep at 10 a.m.

DEAR ABBY: I now enjoy the status of "wife" but at one time I was "the other woman." No, the man who was going to divorce his wife and marry me never married me. So I finally got wise and gave him the air, and am now respectably married to an honest man.

I have a suggestion. Why don't all the "other women" get together and form a club? If they got together and compared notes, they'd discover that one story is exactly like the next. Married men tell their girl friends stories about how cold their wives are. I caught on to this when another girl where I worked told me she was "the other woman." The stuff her lover told her was so much like what mine told me it could have been the same man. This should help convince "other women" that their sweethearts are full of baloney.

EX-OTHER WOMAN

Still worrying about the same old problem? Write to Abby for a personal reply. Enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

YOUR PROBLEMS

By Ann Landers

Dear Ann Landers: Yesterday my best friend was kicked out of class for yelling out some swear words. She was innocent. It was the girl next to her who did the cussing.

Later that day I asked my friend why she took the blame. She said "Because my standing in the class is bad. She probably would have been thrown out of school. I knew I'd get off easier."

Several kids know about this. In fact, almost everyone knows but the teacher. Don't you think the girl should clear her name, now that the teacher's temper has cooled off and things are back to normal? — TRUE FRIEND

Dear Friend: I agree that her name should be cleared— but she should not attempt to clear it herself. One of her "true friends" should go to the teacher, in her behalf. The name of the guilty party, of course, need not be mentioned.

Dear Ann Landers: My husband and I have the same argument three times a week. Our three pre-school-age children keep me exhausted.

When I ask him to take the kids somewhere so I can have a little peace and quiet he suddenly remembers he promised to bowl with the boys, or be a fifth at poker. When I'm baking or sewing and ask him to watch them for an hour he falls asleep in front of the TV and the kids take the house apart.

I'd love to join a woman's club or have my hair set downtown once in a while. Being able to shop without three kids hanging on me would be pure heaven.

I take tranquilizing pills on doctor's orders. I cry over nothing. When I try to talk to him he tells me his mother raised ten kids without tranquilizers and she didn't have to join clubs or get her hair set downtown. Please help me. I am — NERVOUS AND TIRED.

Dear N and T: So his mother raised ten kids without tranquilizing pills, women's clubs and hair-sets? Well, bully for her! And what pray was his father doing? I'll clue you he wasn't bowling and playing poker with the boys or falling asleep in front of the TV every night.

A husband such as yours usually smartens up when the doctor tells him his wife needs complete bed rest or institutional care. Ask your lummox if this is what he's waiting for.

Dear Ann Landers: Recently you told a retired general that children should never be hit with belts, switches, straps, brushes, etc. You said "No child should be dealt a blow harder than the human hand can deliver."

Did it ever occur to you, Ann, that sometimes the human hand can deliver a pretty dangerous blow?

My father was one of those brutal types who took out his frustrations on his wife and family. He used to knock us kids around for no reason at all. Once he hit my older brother so hard he knocked his two front teeth out. When I was eight years old he slapped me on the side of the head with such force that I lost 80 per cent of the hearing in that ear.

So please, Ann, add to your advice something about taking it easy on the little mites even when only a hand is used.— D.L.J.

Dear D.L.J.; I did. You must have stopped reading too soon. The last line of my advice went like this: "A child should never be struck on the head, the back, across the legs or arms. Nature provided the ideal spot — The back porch."

If alcohol is robbing you or someone you love of health and dignity, send for ANN LANDERS' booklet, "Help For The Alcoholic," enclosing with your request 20 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

ON THE MAP

ONG'S HAT, N.J. (AP)—Ong's Hat is the smallest town in New Jersey but its population rate remains steady.

It's been zero as long as anyone can remember.

Tucked away in a corner of Berlington County, this "town" has no residents, no business districts, no outskirts, no important sites, nothing. Yet, for sentimental reasons perhaps, it still shows up on most maps of the state.

Homemakers Ask, Betty Pepis Answers

Q: The walls in my little girl's room are apple blossom pink. I plan to have a pink bedspread. What color should I use for the curtains and accessories?

A: A pink and white check gingham would be pleasant for ruffled curtains and for a dust ruffle under the pink bedspread. I would have a pale green cotton scatter rug and would also have a bright green painted chair or rocker with cushions made of the checked gingham. Have white lamps and other accessories.

Q: With pale aquamarine walls and a turquoise rug in my living room, what colors should I have for slip covers on the sofa and a matching chair? Would a maize color be a good choice? I have an occasional chair covered in a toast color.

A: While maize would be all right, I think I'd like off-white even more for the slip covers on the sofa and matching chair. I would also change the odd chair to a bright turquoise and have this bright color for pillows on the sofa. A pale, interesting shade of green would be my choice for ash trays, glass boxes and an extra pillow or two.

Q: We are going to remodel our kitchen which is very sunny and has a high ceiling. The floor is gray with a black diagonal stripe three feet apart. Please advise what color for walls, cabinets, curtains and what type of dinette set. I would like the kitchen to be casual and comfortable.

A: I think I would select an ice blue or a pale, cool green for the walls and cabinets in your sunny kitchen. Have a somewhat deeper green color for the dinette set. This set could be painted or if you prefer a natural wood finish, then the cushions could be green. Have the curtains in white with shades of green and also have some brilliant green in some of the accessories.

Q: The walls in our small living room are painted a light blue. The draperies and carpet are off-white. Sofa is covered in a blue floral quilted fabric. Will you please suggest colors for two new chairs and also for two chairs that I am going to have reupholstered.

A: What about having two chairs in an off-white and two in a clear yellow. Select brilliant yellow and soft blue for toss pillows. The lamps should be off-white.

Study Made Of Lincoln Finances

RUSTON (Special) — State grants to Lincoln could probably be abandoned although school funds may have to be sought vigorously, according to a study of Lincoln Parish's financial condition.

"In recent years all governing agencies in Lincoln Parish except the school board have accumulated substantial surplus funds in excess of their current needs," Jones said.

"State grants to the parish for highways could probably be abandoned in view of surplus funds accumulated over the years from the local property tax," he reported.

He said, "While no serious problems are anticipated in obtaining necessary revenues for the Police Jury functions in the foreseeable future, the School Board may well be faced with the problem of securing sufficient revenues under the present fiscal system to meet the needs of an increased school-age populace."

Local revenues have decreased while state subsidies have increased, according to Jones.

Vagrancy Charge

Booked for vagrancy Thursday night by Monroe police was Joyce Lovell Disotell, 20, of 604 Clayton St. in West Monroe. She was held under $350 bond after being arrested at a local bar.

Germany Mine Blast Kills 29

HEESSEN, Germany (AP)—A predawn explosion more than 3,000 feet below the surface in a local coal mine killed 29 men and injured eight, two of them seriously, mining officials said Friday night.

All the bodies have been recovered, they announced. Of the injured men, only two remain in hospital.

A night shift of 756 miners was working in the government-owned Sachsen mine at the time of the explosion, but only 169 of those were in the horizontal transport tunnel where the blast occurred, officials said.

During the day, about 2,200 men work underground. Officials said the fact that only a skeleton crew was below at the time of the blast was the reason for the comparatively light death toll

Your Baby And Mine

By Myrtle Meyer Eldred

Day-dreamer Is Letting Others Take Responsibility

"Dear Mrs. Eldred:

"My two children, 8 and 7, have the same problem. They are dawdlers and day-dreamers, especially in school. The oldest, a girl, is not my chief concern. She gets good grades and tries to keep her mind on her work. The boy is much more of a problem.

"He was passed last year, only because the teacher said he had a good mind and could keep up if he would. He was examined by the school psychologist who told us it was up to him, and that we should quit 'babying' him.

"I have tried. I make both children do for themselves. They polish their shoes and pick up their things. I try not to nag. I help the boy at home, as they suggested. He does his lessons quickly and correctly when someone sits beside him.

"He did well the first few months of this year and since that time has been getting worse and worse. The teacher has given him a great deal of extra attention, and he likes her.

"She has talked to him about why he does not do the work, moved his desk, and stayed with him after school while he finished his papers. He has been kept as late as 5:30 in the evening.

"Other times, he has been deprived of privileges such as art, movies, TV, and assemblies, as a punishment. This seemed fair. But this past week he was put in the hall for an hour, and later that day his desk was put in the corner and he was told to 'just sit.' He came home in tears.

"I have never been critical of the teacher's methods before, but nothing seems to help. What do you suggest?" Mrs. R.G.

ANSWER

It would appear that your son is getting too much help — so much, that he is letting you and his teacher assume the responsibility for seeing that he does his work.

Day-dreaming and dawdling are not abnormal tendencies in these early years. However, you have labeled your son a dawdler and he is enjoying the special attentions he gets from you and his teacher.

He should be told that he can finish his work as others do, and if he does not, he will be graded accordingly. This is a natural consequence of such behavior. When he dawdles, he should be ignored.

The teacher must have decided that it was discipline, not help, he needed. His past performance has shown that he was able to do the work. He can do it now if he discovers that he must, or he will fail.

When he is doing home work, let him time himself to see how quickly he can finish; and then praise him for his efforts. It should help to teach both children responsibility at home. In addition to their present tasks, they can make beds, wipe dishes and empty waste baskets.

I assume that his eyesight and hearing have been checked, and that he is healthy. His physical condition could affect his ability to concentrate.

If the child is to build responsibility, he must assume obligations. Mrs. Eldred's free leaflet, "Home Tasks," will help the mother in this endeavor. To obtain the leaflet, send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for leaflet No. 49 to Myrtle Meyer Eldred in care of this newspaper.

Study Made Of Lincoln Finances

RUSTON (Special) — State grants to Lincoln could probably be abandoned although school funds may have to be sought vigorously, according to a study of Lincoln Parish's financial condition.

"In recent years all governing agencies in Lincoln Parish except the school board have accumulated substantial surplus funds in excess of their current needs," Jones said.

"State grants to the parish for highways could probably be abandoned in view of surplus funds accumulated over the years from the local property tax," he reported.

He said, "While no serious problems are anticipated in obtaining necessary revenues for the Police Jury functions in the foreseeable future, the School Board may well be faced with the problem of securing sufficient revenues under the present fiscal system to meet the needs of an increased school-age populace."

Local revenues have decreased while state subsidies have increased, according to Jones.

Germany Mine Blast Kills 29

HEESSEN, Germany (AP)—A predawn explosion more than 3,000 feet below the surface in a local coal mine killed 29 men and injured eight, two of them seriously, mining officials said Friday night.

All the bodies have been recovered, they announced. Of the injured men, only two remain in hospital.

A night shift of 756 miners was working in the government-owned Sachsen mine at the time of the explosion, but only 169 of those were in the horizontal transport tunnel where the blast occurred, officials said.

During the day, about 2,200 men work underground. Officials said the fact that only a skeleton crew was below at the time of the blast was the reason for the comparatively light death toll.

Your Baby And Mine

By Myrtle Meyer Eldred

Day-dreamer is Letting Others Take Responsiblity

"Dear Mrs. Eldred:

"My two children, 8 and 7, have the same problem. They are dawdlers and day-dreamers, especially in school. The oldest, a girl, is not my chief concern. She gets good grades and tries to keep her mind on her work. The boy is much more of a problem.

"He was passed last year, only because the teacher said he had a good mind and could keep up if he would. He was examined by the school psychologist who told us it was up to him, and that we should quit 'babying' him.

"I have tried. I make both children do for themselves. They polish their shoes and pick up their things. I try not to nag. I help the boy at home, as they suggested. He does his lessons quickly and correctly when someone sits beside him.

"He did well the first few months of this year and since that time has been getting worse and worse. The teacher has given him a great deal of extra attention, and he likes her.

"She has talked to him about why he does not do the work, moved his desk, and stayed with him after school while he finished his papers. He has been kept as late as 5:30 in the evening.

"Other times, he has been deprived of privileges such as art, movies, TV, and assemblies, as a punishment. This seemed fair. But this past week he was put in the hall for an hour, and later that day his desk was put in the corner and he was told to 'just sit.' He came home in tears.

"I have never been critical of the teacher's methods before, but nothing seems to help. What do you suggest?" Mrs. R.G.

ANSWER

It would appear that your son is getting too much help — so much, that he is letting you and his teacher assume the responsibility for seeing that he does his work.

Day-dreaming and dawdling are not abnormal tendencies in these early years. However, you have labeled your son a dawdler and he is enjoying the special attentions he gets from you and his teacher.

He should be told that he can finish his work as others do, and if he does not, he will be graded accordingly. This is a natural consequence of such behavior. When he dawdles, he should be ignored.

The teacher must have decided that it was discipline, not help, he needed. His past performance has shown that he was able to do the work. He can do it now if he discovers that he must, or he will fail.

When he is doing home work, let him time himself to see how quickly he can finish; and then praise him for his efforts. It should help to teach both children responsibility at home. In addition to their present tasks, they can make beds, wipe dishes and empty waste baskets.

I assume that his eyesight and hearing have been checked, and that he is healthy. His physical condition could affect his ability to concentrate.

If the child is to build responsibility, he must assume obligations. Mrs. Eldred's free leaflet, "Home Tasks," will help the mother in this endeavor. To obtain the leaflet, send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for leaflet No. 49 to Myrtle Meyer Eldred in care of this newspaper.

Negro Facing 5 Years In Manslaughter

James Calvin Rhodes, 30, 2010 Filmore St., Hollywood, Fla., five years for theft of a watch valued at $125.

William Trezevant, alias John Hammond, 42 and Charles Newman, both of 103 S. Fifth St., three years each for theft of cattle.

Irene Kilgore Kendrix, 20, of Route 1, Collinston, withdrew a plea of not guilty and filed a plea of insanity in connection with a charge of attempted murder. Dr. Edward Long and Dr. John P. Burton, Ouachita parish coroner, were appointed to a lunacy commission which will report in court on April 6.

A sanity commission also was appointed, to examine Calvin Coleman Jr., Negro, 613 South 12, charged with aggravated rape. Coleman filed a plea of present insanity yesterday. The commission's report will be made on April 13.

The court extended the time for 30 days on the report of a lunacy commission appointed to examine Theodis Brown, Negro, 1414 Louise Ann, charged with aggravated rape.

Billy Joe Barnes, Ft. Worth, Tex., man charged with theft of $1800 from Arthur Grant, filed a motion to quash the charges. The motion will be ruled on next Friday.

Barnes appealed a February, 1961, conviction by a 12-man jury in Fourth District Court, on the charge, and the case was sent back by the state Supreme Court for a re-trial here.

George Ray Baldwin, alias James C. Simmons, San Antonio, Tex., filed a motion to quash eight forgery charges. The court sustained the motion. The district attorney's office accepted the court ruling, but reserved a bill on the case.

Assistant District Attorney Gilbert Brown said later that his office has not determined yet whether to appeal the court ruling on Baldwin to the Supreme Court.

Frances Griffith, Highway 80, West Monroe, filed a motion for a bill of particulars in an abortion charge filed against her. A hearing on the motion will be held next Friday.

Judge Barham ordered two warrants issued for contempt of court. The warrants were issued for Frank Bradshaw of Vidalia, who failed to appear in court to name his attorney on a dog theft charge, and Blanche Cox, Negro, 16-C Foster Homes, who also failed to appear to give the name of her attorney on a charge of theft of money and whiskey totalling $292.

Two attorneys were appointed to defend Willie Tugwell, Negro, 109½ DeSiard Ave., charged with murder. The case will be placed before the next session of the Grand Jury in April.

James E. White, 1905 S. Grand St., owner of the fire-destroyed Yellow Jacket Boat factory, filed a motion asking for a bill of particulars on two charges of theft of $30. A hearing on the motion is set for March 16.

An attorney was appointed to defend Donald W. Cobb, 1706 Polk St., Houston, Tex., charged with theft of an auto valued at $2,000.

Two forgery charges were dismissed for Johnny Lee Bridges, 100 S. Fourth St., West Monroe, and Roland Simpson.

John Earl Lilly, 29, 207 Jerry St., West Monroe, drew six-month suspended jail terms on each of three charges of theft of $5, $10 and $5, and was placed on three years probation.

Trial was continued without date for Charlie Reese, 55, Negro, 100 South 23 St., charged with six counts of making false statements to obtain benefits. Reese is charged with applying for benefits from the state Division of Employment Security and receiving six $35 checks while he was employed as operator of the Club Fantasy.

June 1 is trial date for Johnny Clyde Tedeton, 18 and Oscar Milton (Buddy) Tedeton, 28, both of Route 2, Downsville. Johnny is charged with disturbing the peace and committing simple battery on Lonnie Frost, 63, on February 15. Oscar is charged with the simple battery, and also with aggravated assault on two deputy sheriffs.

Eddie Marshall, 28, Negro, Route 1, West Monroe, was fined $100 and court costs, plus 30 days in the Ouachita parish jail, on a charge of simple battery with a knife on William Marble, 32, Negro, 1209 Joe Bill St. West Monroe. LeRoy Davis, Negro, 310 Jacobs, West Monroe, also was fined $100 and costs or 30 days on a simple battery charge.

Jimmy Simmons, 50, Negro, Route 2, is slated for trial June 22 on a charge of committing simple battery on Robert Johnson.

Trial is set for June 8 for J. M. Robinson, 34, 304 Slack St., West Monroe, charged with negligent injuring and reckless driving.

Charlie William Owens, 34, Negro, Route 2, trial April 27.

Lee Andrew Traylor, 37, Negro, 212 McKaskle, West Monroe, trial June 1.

John E. Sturgeon, 39, 116 Maple St., tried and found innocent.

J. C. Rylee, 26, Eros, tried, found guilty and fined $300 and costs or 60 days. He also was fined $75 and costs or 25 days on a charge of illegal carrying of a dangerous weapon.

John A. McCready, 38, 106 Lynne St., West Monroe, tried, found guilty and fined $400 and costs or 90 days.

William Edward Bishop, 36, 4409 Glen Oak, Baton Rouge, fined $300 and costs or 60 days.

Speeding charges were listed against: Richard L. Getchell, 22, Zepher Street, West Monroe, fined $37 and costs on a charge of going 80 in a 60 zone; Wilson R. Reynolds, 25, Route 2, Port Allen, warrant issued when he failed to appear in court for arraignment; and Merce B. Weaver, 43, 639 Lakeshore Dr., trial June 1.

Fined for reckless driving were: Johnny D. Smith, 22, 517 Mississippi St., $100 and costs or 30 days; and William H. Hinkie, 45, Patterson, fined $25 and costs or 10 days.

Two men were charged with driving without a license, and one with disturbing the peace.

Six Convicted In Theft Cases By Monroe Court

Monroe municipal court Friday, devoted largely to cases of theft, saw six persons — including five local Negroes — convicted and fined on the charge before Judge W. M. Harper.

Drawing sentences of $350 or seven months in jail were a 42 year old Jones man, Clarence Tawwater, and two Monroe Negroes, Audrey Hartwell, 48, F-27-C Foster Homes, and Ada Pugh, 20, of 1710 Rogers St.

A case of theft was nolle prossed against Negro Willie Brooks Jr., 19, of 908 S. 15th St., while Redman Collins, 17, Highway 80 East, and Charlie Mitchell, also 17, both Negroes, drew fines of $200 or 60 days. Jimmie Jones, 37 year old Negro, of 1433 Rear Washington, was given six months compulsory on the same charge.

Conviction for damage to property cost Negro Edgar A. Arnold, 18, of 3217 Owl St., $100 or 60 days on the same docket on which he drew $50 or 30 days for simple battery. Similarly fined for simple battery was Negro Ralph Decatur, 17, 10-A Arthur Johnson Manon. However, a damage to property charge was nolle prossed.

Fined $25 or 25 days on each of two counts for carrying a concealed weapon was a 17 year old Arcadia Negro, Henry Stanley, while the same fine was meted out to 72 year old Lonnie Bridges, a white man, of Calhoun.

Activity in traffic court ran fairly heavy with eight persons fined for reckless driving — four $25 bonds were forfeited in addition to three fines of $25 or 25 days and a $10 or 10 days fine. Three $5 bonds were forfeited for running red lights, as were two of the same amount for speeding: a $10 bond was forfeited for speeding as well. Two persons forfeited bond of $3 for driving the wrong way on a one-way street.

Glenn Receives Navy, Marine Corps Awards

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Navy and Marine Corps presented to John H. Glenn Jr., astronaut and Marine, their own decorations Friday.

Secretary of the Navy Fred Korth pinned on Glenn's uniform the Navy's astronaut decoration, like that already given Navy Comdr. Alan B. Shepard Jr., also an astronaut.

Korth told Glenn that this was another token of thanks for Glenn's achievements, awarded in behalf of the Navy and the nation.

Gen. David M. Shoup, Marine commandant, then decorated Glenn with the Marine Corps' new and special decoration, a gold space capsule with the globe of the earth beneath.

"John, all the words have been said. I simply come here to present you with a device which will be awarded to all Marines who travel in orbiting capsules," Shoup told Glenn.

This was the first public ceremony since his orbital flight at which Glenn, a Marine lieutenant colonel, has worn his uniform. All the seven astronauts are military test pilots, but wear civilian clothes to emphasize the nonmilitary character of the space efforts of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration.

KENT C. BOATRIGHT, 39, of New York, right, leaves the office of U.S. Commissioner Reginald H. Carter Jr. with Deputy U.S. Marshal Dick Smith Friday in New Orleans. Boatright told Carter he would plead not guilty to the theft of art items in New York, including a painting valued at $40,000. Boatright said he would not fight extradition to New York. Bond was set at $25,000. (AP Wirephoto)

23 Beach Cottages Disappear In Storm

EDITOR'S NOTE — The following account by its White House correspondent was made available to The Associated Press by the Washington Evening Star.

By Garnett D. Horner

Washington Evening Star

Staff Writer

SOUTH BETHANY, Del. (AP)—The only clue my wife and I could find to where our beach cottage had been was the two-inch well pipe, sticking up some three feet out of the sand.

Scattered about, as the remnants of breaking waves rolled over a new "beach," were a few hunks of concrete slab that had been our basement floor.

The five-bedroom cottage we had worked so hard to complete just two years ago was completely gone—along with all the other 22 cottages along the mile of ocean front at South Bethany, 17 of them owned by friends from Washington.

They disappeared in 85-mile-per-hour winds and 35-foot-high waves at high tide Wednesday morning.

So far as we can tell, practically all of our cottage—the cottage—the concrete blocks and the lumber it was made of, the dishwasher, the refrigerator, the beds and blankets, the pictures we had painstakingly gathered and I had labored in my workshop to frame, the fine binoculars a friend bought for me in Germany, those summer clothes left behind last fall—all of it is out in the Atlantic Ocean somewhere.

The only things found to salvage were two plastic wastebaskets. Down the street half a block inland we did find, all smashed up, one of the awning-type windows from our bedroom. We left it lying there.

On top of everything, it appears we may not even have any land left on which to rebuild if we ever should dare to consider that. Why in the world didn't we take that $10,000 somebody offered us for our extra 50-foot lot two years ago?

And there's still the mortgage to pay off.

It looks as if Mother Nature just decided to change things around in South Bethany and move the beach back 100 feet or so inland — first wiping away in the process an eight-foot-high sand dune we had considered good insurance.

Yesterday we had to travel back roads, detouring around isolated Bethany Beach, even to get close to South Bethany.

From there we had to walk. The road was covered with sand. Every once in a while there was a big hole. Broken timbers were scattered everywhere. Bathroom fixtures, dresser drawers and other parts of what had been somebody's vacation home just a couple of days ago were strewn about everywhere.

As we approached the spot where our cottage had been, we could see nothing but a few chunks of concrete slab and fallen power or telephone lines strewn over what had been ocean drive.

I spotted our well pipe. It gave one measure of how much sand had been blown and washed away. About three feet of the bent two-inch pipe was sticking out of the sand. That pipe once had been standing straight with more than two feet of sand and dirt over it. So the sand we were standing on was at least five or six feet below the level of what had been our cottage floor.

Cuba Appeals OAS Actions To World Court

UNITED NATIONS N.Y. (UPI) Cuba asked Friday that the International Court of Justice in The Hague rule on the legality of actions taken against the Cuban government by the Organization of American States (OAS).

The request came from Dr. Mario Garcia Inchaustegui, Cuban ambassador to the United Nations, who asked the Security Council to meet immediately to consider the appeal to The Hague.

The council refused on Feb. 27 to put on its agenda an earlier complaint by Cuba against the measures taken by the OAS in its meeting at Punta Del Este, Uruguay.

Garcia said the council's refusal to consider the case deprived Cuba of its right of appeal to the United Nations.

"The sanctions in question constitute aggression against the sovereignty of our country and a serious threat to international peace and security because of the purpose behind them, which is nothing other than to overthrow the system of government of a member state," his letter said.

Guard Units To Take Over Air Defense

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The National Guard will take over round-the-clock operation of 16 Nike Hercules air defense batteries in five states during the next 16 months, it was announced Friday.

Guardsmen already are manning older Nike Ajax missile batteries and will begin training this month to take over the Hercules installations, the Army said. They gradually will cease to man the 76 Nike Ajax batteries, except in Texas and Missouri.

The Maryland National Guard is scheduled to be the first in the continental United States to take over a Hercules battery. Others, in order, are Ohio, Michigan, New York and California.

The Maryland Guard will man batteries in the Washington-Baltimore area. The others are in Cleveland, Detroit, New York, Buffalo-Niagara Falls, Los Angeles and San Francisco.

The Army said that by 1965 Guardsmen are scheduled to be manning Hercules batteries in 17 states. Others are Connecticut, Illinois, Massachusetts, Missouri, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Rhode Island, Texas, Virginia, Washington and Missouri.

Peach Crop Said In Good Shape After Freeze

The peach crop at the North Louisiana Experiment Station in Calhoun is believed to be in fairly good condition in spite of the recent freezing weather, it was announced Friday after a survey of peach buds.

J. C. Taylor, associate professor of horticulture there said some varieties fared pretty well during the recent cold spells and others were thinned drastically.

Taylor expressed the belief that orchards in high elevations escaped cold damage better than ones located in low areas. He explained that there was little air circulation in the hollows or in sheltered areas.

Taylor told of examining branches from trees in another Ouachita Parish orchard in the hill area. He said that on one variety cold damage had thinned buds heavily and on another variety there were more than enough for a normal crop. He explained that this did not necessarily reflect the condition of other trees in the orchard.

The Sumrall orchard near Ruston, which covers almost 300 acres, appeared to be in favorable condition Friday. Mrs. W.H. Sumrall said, "It looks like we will have a fair crop, if we don't have more cold damage. We always have to thin from 85 to 90 per cent on the trees anyway. Cold weather caused more thinning on some varieties and less on others."

Former inmates at Angola are Wheat, Miller and McClain, all sent there for burglary and theft in Ouachita Parish. Wheat was paroled Feb. 21, while Miller and McClain received paroles in mid-December.

All four are being held in Ouachita Parish jail.

Negro Facing 5 Years In Manslaughter

Buelah Williams, 61-year-old Monroe Negro woman convicted of manslaughter in the slaying of her husband, Ike Williams, faces five years in the Louisiana State Penitentiary at Angola for the offense.

He overruled a motion which her attorneys had filed, asking for a new trial.

A 12-man jury found Buelah of 3008 Renwick St., guilty of the summer, 1961, fatal shooting of Williams.

Four men also drew prison terms during court action:

James Calvin Rhodes, 50, 2010 Filmore St., Hollywood, Fla., five years for theft of a watch valued at $125.

William Trezevant, alias John Hammond, 42 and Charles Newman, both of 103 S. Fifth St., three years each for theft of cattle.

Irene Kilgore Kendrix, 20, of Route 1, Collinston, withdrew a plea of not guilty and filed a plea of insanity in connection with a charge of attempted murder. Dr. Edward Long and Dr. John P. Burton, Ouachita parish coroner, were appointed to a lunacy commission which will report in court on April 6.

A sanity commission also was appointed, to examine Calvin Coleman Jr., Negro, 613 South 12, charged with aggravated rape. Coleman filed a plea of present insanity yesterday. The commission's report will be made on April 13.

The court extended the time for 30 days on the report of a lunacy commission appointed to examine Theodis Brown, Negro, 1414 Louise Ann, charged with aggravated rape.

Billy Joe Barnes, Ft. Worth, Tex., man charged with theft of $1800 from Arthur Grant, filed a motion to quash the charges. The motion will be ruled on next Friday.

Barnes appealed a February, 1961, conviction by a 12-man jury in Fourth District Court, on the charge, and the case was sent back by the state Supreme Court for a re-trial here.

George Ray Baldwin, alias James C. Simmons, San Antonio, Tex., filed a motion to quash eight forgery charges. The court sustained the motion. The district attorney's office accepted the court ruling, but reserved a bill on the case.

Assistant District Attorney Gilbert Brown said later that his office has not determined yet whether to appeal the court ruling on Baldwin to the Supreme Court.

Frances Griffith, Highway 80, West Monroe, filed a motion for a bill of particulars in an abortion charge filed against her. A hearing on the motion will be held next Friday.

Judge Barham ordered two warrants issued for contempt of court. The warrants were issued for Frank Bradshaw of Vidalia, who failed to appear in court to name his attorney on a dog theft charge, and Blanche Cox, Negro, 16-C Foster Homes, who also failed to appear to give the name of her attorney on a charge of theft of money and whiskey totalling $292.

Paul Griffith of Vidalia, charged jointly with Bradshaw in the dog theft case, appeared in court to give the name of his attorney.

Two attorneys were appointed to defend Willie Tugwell, Negro, 109½ DeSiard Ave., charged with murder. The case will be placed before the next session of the Grand Jury in April.

James E. White, 1905 S. Grand St., owner of the fire-destroyed Yellow Jacket Boat factory, filed a motion asking for a bill of particulars on two charges of theft of $30. A hearing on the motion is set for March 16.

An attorney was appointed to defend Donald W. Cobb, 1706 Polk St., Houston, Tex., charged with theft of an auto valued at $2,000.

Two forgery charges were dismissed for Johnny Lee Bridges, 100 S. Fourth St., West Monroe, and Roland Simpson.

John Earl Lilly, 29, 207 Jerry St., West Monroe, drew six-month suspended jail terms on each of three charges of theft of $5, $10 and $5, and was placed on three years probation.

Trial was continued without date for Charlie Reese, 55, Negro, 100 South 23 St., charged with six counts of making false statements to obtain benefits. Reese is charged with applying for benefits from the state Division of Employment Security and receiving six $35 checks while he was employed as operator of the Club Fantasy.

June 1 is trial date for Johnny Clyde Tedeton, 18 and Oscar Milton (Buddy) Tedeton, 28, both of Route 2, Downsville. Johnny is charged with disturbing the peace and committing simple battery on Lonnie Frost, 63, on February 15. Oscar is charged with the simple battery, and also with aggravated assault on two deputy sheriffs.

Eddie Marshall, 28, Negro, Route 1, West Monroe, was fined $100 and court costs, plus 30 days in the Ouachita parish jail, on a charge of simple battery with a knife on William Marble, 32, Negro, 1209 Joe Bill St. West Monroe. LeRoy Davis, Negro, 310 Jacobs, West Monroe, also was fined $100 and costs or 30 days on a simple battery charge.

Trial is set for June 8 for J. M. Robinson, 34, 304 Slack St., West Monroe, charged with negligent injuring and reckless driving.

Charlie William Owens, 34, Negro, Route 2, trial April 27.

Lee Andrew Traylor, 37, Negro, 212 McKaskle, West Monroe, trial June 1.

J. C. Rylee, 26, Eros, tried, found guilty and fined $300 and costs or 60 days. He also was fined $75 and costs or 25 days on a charge of illegal carrying of a dangerous weapon.

John A. McCready, 38, 106 Lynne St., West Monroe, tried, found guilty and fined $400 and costs or 90 days.

William Edward Bishop, 36, 4409 Glen Oak, Baton Rouge, fined $300 and costs or 60 days.

Speeding charges were listed against: Richard L. Getchell, 22, Zepher Street, West Monroe, fined $37 and costs on a charge of going 80 in a 60 zone; Wilson R. Reynolds, 25, Route 2, Port Allen, warrant issued when he failed to appear in court for arraignment; and Merce B. Weaver, 43, 639 Lakeshore Dr., trial June 1.

Fined for reckless driving were: Johnny D. Smith, 22, 517 Mississippi St., $100 and costs or 30 days; and William H. Hinkie, 45, Patterson, fined $25 and costs or 10 days.

Two men were charged with driving without a license, and one with disturbing the peace.

Six Convicted In Theft Cases By Monroe Court

Monroe municipal court Friday, devoted largely to cases of theft, saw six persons — including five local Negroes — convicted and fined on the charge before Judge W. M. Harper.

Drawing sentences of $350 or seven months in jail were a 42 year old Jones man, Clarence Tawwater, and two Monroe Negroes, Audrey Hartwell, 48, F-27-C Foster Homes, and Ada Pugh, 20, of 1710 Rogers St.

A case of theft was nolle prossed against Negro Willie Brooks Jr., 19, of 908 S. 15th St., while Redman Collins, 17, Highway 80 East, and Charlie Mitchell, also 17, both Negroes, drew fines of $200 or 60 days. Jimmie Jones, 37 year old Negro, of 1433 Rear Washington, was given six months compulsory on the same charge.

Conviction for damage to property cost Negro Edgar A. Arnold, 18, of 3217 Owl St., $100 or 60 days on the same docket on which he drew $50 or 30 days for simple battery. Similarly fined for simple battery was Negro Ralph Decatur, 17, 10-A Arthur Johnson Manon. However, a damage to property charge was nolle prossed.

Fined $25 or 25 days on each of two counts for carrying a concealed weapon was a 17 year old Arcadia Negro, Henry Stanley, while the same fine was meted out to 72 year old Lonnie Bridges, a white man, of Calhoun.

Activity in traffic court ran fairly heavy with eight persons fined for reckless driving — four $25 bonds were forfeited in addition to three fines of $25 or 25 days and a $10 or 10 days fine. Three $5 bonds were forfeited for running red lights, as were two of the same amount for speeding; a $10 bond was forfeited for speeding as well. Two persons forfeited bond of $3 for driving the wrong way on a one-way street.

Glenn Receives Navy, Marine Corps Awards

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Navy and Marine Corps presented to John H. Glenn Jr., astronaut and Marine, their own decorations Friday.

Secretary of the Navy Fred Korth pinned on Glenn's uniform the Navy's astronaut decoration, like that already given Navy Comdr. Alan B. Shepard Jr., also an astronaut.

Korth told Glenn that this was another token of thanks for Glenn's achievements, awarded in behalf of the Navy and the nation.

Gen. David M. Shoup, Marine commandant, then decorated Glenn with the Marine Corps' new and special decoration, a gold space capsule with the globe of the earth beneath.

"John, all the words have been said. I simply come here to present you with a device which will be awarded to all Marines who travel in orbiting capsules," Shoup told Glenn.

This was the first public ceremony since his orbital flight at which Glenn, a Marine lieutenant colonel, has worn his uniform. All the seven astronauts are military test pilots, but wear civilian clothes to emphasize the nonmilitary character of the space efforts of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration.

KENT C. BOATRIGHT, 39, of New York, right, leaves the office of U.S. Commissioner Reginald H. Carter Jr. with Deputy U.S. Marshal Dick Smith Friday in New Orleans. Boatright told Carter he would plead not guilty to the theft of art items in New York, including a painting valued at $40,000. Boatright said he would not fight extradition to New York. Bond was set at $25,000. (AP Wirephoto)

23 Beach Cottages Disappear In Storm

EDITOR'S NOTE — The following account by its White House correspondent was made available to The Associated Press by the Washington Evening Star.

By Garnett D. Horner
Washington Evening Star
Staff Writer

SOUTH BETHANY, Del. (AP)—The only clue my wife and I could find to where our beach cottage had been was the two-inch well pipe, sticking up some three feet out of the sand.

Scattered about, as the remnants of breaking waves rolled over a new "beach," were a few hunks of concrete slab that had been our basement floor.

The five-bedroom cottage we had worked so hard to complete just two years ago was completely gone—along with all the other 22 cottages along the mile of ocean front at South Bethany, 17 of them owned by friends from Washington.

They disappeared in 85-mile-per-hour winds and 35-foot-high waves at high tide Wednesday morning.

So far as we can tell, practically all of our cottage—the cottage—the concrete blocks and the lumber it was made of, the dishwasher, the refrigerator, the beds and blankets, the pictures we had painstakingly gathered and I had labored in my workshop to frame, the fine binoculars a friend bought for me in Germany, those summer clothes left behind last fall—all of it is out in the Atlantic Ocean somewhere.

The only things found to salvage were two plastic wastebaskets. Down the street half a block inland we did find, all smashed up, one of the awning-type windows from our bedroom. We left it lying there.

On top of everything, it appears we may not even have any land left on which to rebuild if we ever should dare to consider that. Why in the world didn't we take that $10,000 somebody offered us for our extra 50-foot lot two years ago?

And there's still the mortgage to pay off.

It looks as if Mother Nature just decided to change things around in South Bethany and move the beach back 100 feet or so inland — first wiping away in the process an eight-foot-high sand dune we had considered good insurance.

Yesterday we had to travel back roads, detouring around isolated Bethany Beach, even to get close to South Bethany.

We got to the ocean highway about half a mile north of South Bethany.

From there we had to walk. The road was covered with sand. Every once in a while there was a big hole. Broken timbers were scattered everywhere. Bathroom fixtures, dresser drawers and other parts of what had been somebody's vacation home just a couple of days ago were strewn about everywhere.

As we approached the spot where our cottage had been, we could see nothing but a few chunks of concrete slab and fallen power or telephone lines strewn over what had been ocean drive.

I spotted our well pipe. It gave one measure of how much sand had been blown and washed away. About three feet of the bent two-inch pipe was sticking out of the sand. That pipe once had been standing straight with more than two feet of sand and dirt over it. So the sand we were standing on was at least five or six feet below the level of what had been our cottage floor.

Guard Units To Take Over Air Defense

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The National Guard will take over round-the-clock operation of 16 Nike Hercules air defense batteries in five states during the next 16 months, it was announced Friday.

Guardsmen already are manning older Nike Ajax missile batteries and will begin training this month to take over the Hercules installations, the Army said. They gradually will cease to man the 76 Nike Ajax batteries, except in Texas and Missouri.

The Maryland National Guard is scheduled to be the first in the continental United States to take over a Hercules battery. Others, in order, are Ohio, Michigan, New York and California.

The Maryland Guard will man batteries in the Washington-Baltimore area. The others are in Cleveland, Detroit, New York, Buffalo-Niagara Falls, Los Angeles and San Francisco.

Guardsmen already operate six Hercules batteries in Hawaii.

The Army said that by 1965 Guardsmen are scheduled to be manning Hercules batteries in 17 states. Others are Connecticut, Illinois, Massachusetts, Missouri, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Rhode Island, Texas, Virginia, Washington and Missouri.

Cuba Appeals OAS Actions To World Court

UNITED NATIONS N.Y. (UPI) Cuba asked Friday that the International Court of Justice in The Hague rule on the legality of actions taken against the Cuban government by the Organization of American States (OAS).

The request came from Dr. Mario Garcia Inchaustegui, Cuban ambassador to the United Nations, who asked the Security Council to meet immediately to consider the appeal to The Hague.

The council refused on Feb. 27 to put on its agenda an earlier complaint by Cuba against the measures taken by the OAS in its meeting at Punta Del Este, Uruguay.

Garcia said the council's refusal to consider the case deprived Cuba of its right of appeal to the United Nations.

"The sanctions in question constitute aggression against the sovereignty of our country and a serious threat to international peace and security because of the purpose behind them, which is nothing other than to overthrow the system of government of a member state," his letter said.

Peach Crop Said In Good Shape After Freeze

The peach crop at the North Louisiana Experiment Station in Calhoun is believed to be in fairly good condition in spite of the recent freezing weather, it was announced Friday after a survey of peach buds.

J. C. Taylor, associate professor of horticulture there said some varieties fared pretty well during the recent cold spells and others were thinned drastically.

Taylor expressed the belief that orchards in high elevations escaped cold damage better than ones located in low areas. He explained that there was little air circulation in the hollows or in sheltered areas.

Taylor told of examining branches from trees in another Ouachita Parish orchard in the hill area. He said that on one variety cold damage had thinned buds heavily and on another variety there were more than enough for a normal crop. He explained that this did not necessarily reflect the condition of other trees in the orchard.

The Sumrall orchard near Ruston, which covers almost 300 acres, appeared to be in favorable condition Friday. Mrs. W.H. Sumrall said, "It looks like we will have a fair crop, if we don't have more cold damage. We always have to thin from 85 to 90 per cent on the trees anyway. Cold weather caused more thinning on some varieties and less on others."

Cooperation between the Ouachita Parish sheriff's department and Monroe police has cleared seven area school burglaries with the arrests, late Thursday and early Friday, of four men—three of them on parole from the Louisiand State Penitentiary.

Former inmates at Angola are Wheat, Miller and McClain, all sent there for burglary and theft in Ouachita Parish. Wheat was paroled Feb. 21, while Miller and McClain received paroles in mid-December.

All four are being held in Ouachita Parish jail.

Grant said all the burglaries occurred between Feb. 16 and March 7, and included schools at West Monroe, Sterlington, Start and Linville.

GRAIN

CHICAGO (AP) — The number of gains and losses were about equally divided Friday after dull dealings on the Board of Trade. Price changes were small, largely within minimum fractions.

Brokers said new trade factors were absent and that the market appeared to have wrung all old influences dry. However, they said speculators were cautious about extending commitments very far either way.

At the close, wheat was ⅜ cent a bushel higher to ¼ lower, March $2.03⅛-¼; corn ⅜ higher to ¼ lower, March $1.07⅝; oats ⅛ lower to ⅜ higher, March 65½-⅜; rye ½ lower to ½ higher, March $1.33-32¾; soybeans ⅛ lower to ⅛ higher, March $2.42⅝.

LIVESTOCK

CHICAGO (AP) — Butcher hog prices were strong to 25 cents a hundredweight higher Friday, largely because of a good shipper demand which accounted for more than half the sales in the active trade.

The mixed No. 1 and 2 grades sold at $17-17.25 with only a few at the peak which was unchanged from Thursday. Mixed 1-3 grades up to 40 lbs were $16.50-17 and heavier offerings $15.65-16.50. Sows cleared at $13-14.50 but the supply was comprised almost entirely of weights over 400 lbs.

POTATOES

CHICAGO (AP)—(USDA)—Potatoes: Idaho russets 3.65; Minnesota North Dakota Red River Valley round reds 2.50-2.60.

DENTISTS GET WARNING

LONDON (AP)—Britain's dentists are a bit down in the mouth about the possible entry of Britain into the European Common Market. The British Dental Journal warned it could mean an influx of foreign dentists who want to practice here.

BUTTER & EGGS

CHICAGO (AP) — Butter unchanged to ¼ lower; 93 score AA 59¾; 92 A 59¾; 90 B 57¾; 89 C 56¾; cars 90 B 58¼; 89 C 57¼.

Eggs unchanged to 1 higher; 70 per cent or better grade A whites 33½; mixed 32½; mediums 30; standards 30; dirties 28½; checks 28½.

GRAIN

CHICAGO (AP) — The number of gains and losses were about equally divided Friday after dull dealings on the Board of Trade. Price changes were small, largely within minimum fractions.

Brokers said new trade factors were absent and that the market appeared to have wrung all old influences dry. However, they said speculators were cautious about extending commitments very far either way.

At the close, wheat was ⅝ cent a bushel higher to ¼ lower, March $2.03⅛-¼; corn ⅜ higher to ¼ lower, March $1.07⅜; oats ⅛ lower to ⅜ higher, March 65½-⅝; rye ½ lower to ½ higher, March $1.33-32¾; soybeans ⅛ lower to ⅛ higher, March $2.42⅝.

LIVESTOCK

CHICAGO (AP) — Butcher hog prices were strong to 25 cents a hundredweight higher Friday, largely because of a good shipper demand which accounted for more than half the sales in the active trade.

The mixed No. 1 and 2 grades sold at $17-17.25 with only a few at the peak which was unchanged from Thursday. Mixed 1-3 grades up to 40 lbs were $16.50-17 and heavier offerings $15.65-16.50. Sows cleared at $13-14.50 but the supply was comprised almost entirely of weights over 400 lbs.

Sales of slaughter steers, heifers, vealers and bulls were too scattered to test prices. However, a few good steers cleared at $24.50.

POTATOES

CHICAGO (AP)—(USDA)—Potatoes: Idaho russets 3.65; Minnesota North Dakota Red River Valley round reds 2.50-2.60.

DENTISTS GET WARNING

LONDON (AP)—Britain's dentists are a bit down in the mouth about the possible entry of Britain into the European Common Market. The British Dental Journal warned it could mean an influx of foreign dentists who want to practice here.
